JUDGMENTS.

In these lists of judgments the names alphabetically arranged, and which are first on each line, are those of the judgment debtor. The letter (D) means judgment for deficiency. (*) means not summoned. (†) signifies that the first name is fictitious, real name being unknown. Judgments entered during the week, and satisfied before day of publication, do not appear in this column, but in list of Satisfied Judgments

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

The lien filed against me on May 5, on property, 134th street, north side, 275 east Willis avenue, is unjust, as I hold a counter claim against Mr. Saunders for $500. I will bond the lien at once.

GEO. E. BECK.

N. B.—Mr. Beck called at THE RECORD AND GUIDE office at 4:30 o'clock yesterday, and offered to deposit the amount claimed by Mr. Saunders, said money to be paid over to County Clerk on May 10th. On its being refused, Mr. Beck said he would deposit the same this morning with County Clerk.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

[For prices see pages XIII., XIV., XV. and XVI.]

The fears of any immediate difficulty with labor were, in a great measure, dissipated by the practical settlement between the carpenters and employers, and one of the retarding factors to trade in materials therefore removed. The effect, however, as yet has been only in the form of relief regarding an unpromising matter, and general business does not as yet greatly improve. Indeed, the average inclination is to take matters slowly and calmly as there are still a few mutterings among workmen, and it is deemed judicious to have everything pretty thoroughly settled before going into any engagements beyond necessity.

BRICKS.—No improvement has developed in Common Hards since our last, and the plain English of the case is that the market has become pretty badly broken up. Primarily the very essential feature of an earnest broad demand is lacking, which, in conjunction with a fuller general supply than calculated upon, places sellers at a serious disadvantage and has further pruned down the line of valuation. As usual just after the first of May a lapse in consumption comes while tearing down old buildings and excavating for new work is under way, and during the present week, even where jobs were in favorable position, there has been some delay on account of more or less unpropitious weather. Furthermore, it is discovered that some of the principal dealers had more brick in stacks than they were credited with and the magnitude of the arrivals indicating that some misinformation regarding manufacturers' supplies, there has altogether been an accumulation so full as to make matters quite toppy. The tone might not have proven so tame with a more attractive average of quality, and the vast amount of trash coming in from all localities exerted a very demoralizing influence, and conversation with receivers draws out a great deal of natural and legitimate grumbling. Probably the bulk of the business is done at $6.00 and under, with some of the Keyports as low as $4.50@4.75 per M, all these goods, to a greater or less extent, off in condition, and the trouble is that impressed by the low range of prices they bear, buyers do not, as a rule, make a proper discrimination for quality, and seem to expect getting all grades on the same parity. However, when those who appreciate first-class stock and want a nice, smooth, even-running lot of brick come to look about through the offering, they discover the difficulty in satisfying their wants and are susceptible to the suggestion that anything to suit them is worth a rate commensurate with the comparative scanty supply. Even the best goods, under existing circumstances, have succumbed a little to the depressed feeling, and, while exceptional, may be quoted at $7.12½@7.25, for a possibility about $7.00 is practically the general top of the market. Pales range along at $2.75@3.25 and are slow. Of new brick Jersey has made further contributions, and two or three parcels have come to hand from Haverstraw Bay, and the deepening shadow of the fresh production is not calculated to help the market as it stands.

CEMENT.—The arrivals of foreign cement during March approximated 85,000 bbls., during April were over 81,000 bbls., and since the first of the present month have reached 60,000 bbls., making altogether a pretty liberal supply. Of these amounts several of the receivers with a large proportion coming into their hands have made a prompt distribution upon waiting contracts, local and interior, and practically stand at the moment without any surplus to bother them, while naturally they feel reasonably firm and confident in the matter of valuation, especially as current imports are coming to hand on the increased cost abroad and the fuller line of transportation charges. It is evident, however, that some stock is coming to hand that can be managed so readily, and notwithstanding an effort to disguise the fact an undercurrent of more or less disagreeable character prevails. Possibly importers have simply miscalculated wants or ability to place stock that induces them to offer from pier some very popular brands at $2.40 down to $2.25, it is said, as against $2.55 and even up to $2.70 exceptionally quoted in other quarters; but there is a suspicion that a deeper motive prevails in the form of bitter competition of a more or less personal character, out of which the unstable conditions grow. Domestic cements are selling fairly but not freely, and the tone on the whole is easy.

LATH.—The turn for the better developed at the close of last week, has been very well sustained, and all in all the market may be credited with steadiness, and possibly a slightly hardening tendency, as just at the moment there is very little stock at hand. About $2.30@2.35 was the quotation mentioned by the majority of the trade, with the expectant figure ranged 10@15c. higher, but the establishment of the latter basis will depend altogether upon the demand. There does not appear to be any great amount of stock coming forward coastwise. Yet a fair quantity is afloat and there is quite a little quantity coming through the canal from Ottawa. At this season receivers can pick up considerable custom at neighboring cities, and that affords quite a vent when local trade happens to run dull.

LIME.—In general reports are found to have much the old form, and the average statement is to the effect that business continues good all around, with larger arrivals of late readily disposed of and a possibility that even more could have been placed if available. Prices, too, are called steady with a positive disclaimer of any shading from the fixed standard of valuation. Necessity, however, is a shrewd inventor sometimes, and we catch from a passing zephyr a hint that evasion of the rules has been practiced by parties who had more stock on hand than they know how to handle by filling lump as common, and thus throwing an advantage into the hands of buyers without appearing to cut the price or allow extra discounts. A Canadian journal prints the following:

The Dudswell Lime and Marble Company and the Dominion Lime Company have been amalgamated to form the Dominion Lime Co. The works at Dudswell, Quebec, are the most extensive of the kind in Canada, and will turn out this year something over 100,000 barrels of lime. The Hon. Frank Jones, of Portsmouth, N. H., is the president of the company, and Mr. F. H. Buck, Sherbrook, general manager and treasurer. The capital is $400,000.

LUMBER.—Generally trade is moving along in a fairly satisfactory manner, and the tone of the market remains reasonably cheerful as a whole. Some of the trade who are watching matters closely do not think there is much gain in the volume of business at the moment, arguing that when new custom comes in a like amount drops out, as the policy of a great many dealers is to contract for only a sufficient supply to offset well-known wants, and withdraw to take the chances in deals later on. This action is due in part to the undoubted high cost at which some grades of stock are ruling, and also, in a measure, to uncertainty regarding the chances for consumption. The labor question is in a more unsettled condition than for some seasons past, and in addition there seems to be in some cases a disposition to cry a halt in real estate improvement, especially of a speculative character. The sellers' side of the market, however, is held up very well, and on no standard description of lumber has there of late been any marked shading.

Eastern spruce shows but little change since our last, so far as the general characteristics of the market are concerned. The tone is a little flexible, and while sellers may not be losing any positive advantage they evidently know a good bid when they hear it, and buyers willing to pay about former rates generally secure attention. A great deal of a certain class of custom has unquestionably been temporarily provided for by taking cheaper competing substitutes, and the demand for spruce is confined as clearly as possible to the lines of actual necessity. This necessity, however, in the nature of things is pretty liberal and growing with a belief that it will be ready to quickly exhaust the arrivals as rapidly as they come to hand and take any quality that is merchantable.

Piling remains in a generally firm position and the selling side expresses every confidence in ability to place all the supplies that may come forward. As noted in our last, a great many wants have been fairly discounted through the movements thus far accomplished, but consumptive necessities are by no means filled and the outlet is expected to exhaust the arrivals as fast as they come to hand for some time to come, at stiff rates for all desirable sizes.

Hemlock still fails to afford the bearishly inclined portion of the trade much of a chance to score any satisfactory points. An effort to do so is evident in some quarters but rarely substantiated by a record of actual sales of anything in the way of thoroughly standard cuts, and on the contrary there are said to be buyers ready to pay even a little above anything yet fairly established if they could secure prompt deliveries in accord with their desires. Some buyers are said to be holding off for the annual decline under the offering of State stock, but are likely to be disappointed this season, it is claimed.

White Pine has been reported as obtaining an increased demand, and very truly when the movement is placed against that shown a few weeks ago, but in comparison with last season, or taking the relation it has occupied toward other woods for some time, there is no actual gain, nor does the market show more than ordinarily hopeful conditions. If the general lumber market does better than last year, so will white pine, and there is nothing to indicate that it can hold out against a shrinkage in which other kinds of stock may participate. Offerings and competition from primary sources are increasing somewhat, but no serious cut is made upon values. The export trade is less promising, especially in River Plate orders, where financial conditions do not seem to invite very liberal investments.

Yellow Pine is doing well enough to draw out a repetition of pretty much the old line of reports in firm and confident shape, and it seems to be a generally healthy market throughout. Some rumors have been floating about of large contracts placed with car manufacturers, but the stories are difficult to locate, and possibly may have origin in deals of that character recently made between manufacturers and Western customers. Some good local specials, however, are placed, the yard trade continues full, and with now and then a fair amount of f. o. b. business, sellers manage to get along very well without resorting to undue effort to hustle up custom.

Carolina Pine seems to be doing about as usual of late. Regular kiln-dried stuff, both rough and dressed, is reported as selling well and commanding full former rates promptly, with good chance for a continuation of at least present run of trade, and possibly some growth, provided productive capacity can meet the outlet. Timber is also finding considerable custom, and from the manner of talking it might be inferred that a vast business is still calculated upon. Manufacturers, however, should not overlook the fact that timber of this kind is handled here as a matter of necessity while not of choice, and should spruce happen to become plenty, down goes the Carolina product to the bottom of the list.

Hardwoods are apparently all doing well, or at least each dealer speaks kindly and cheerfully of the particular grades he has the most of or is trying to introduce into more general use. Quartered oak is getting along all right without assistance, and is expected to hold its own to end of season, and, of course, poplar has a steady sale for all sorts of consumption. Cherry of desirable quality remains scarce and costly, and that restricts the line of trading. Ash, hickory elm and maple are all selling to about the usual proportion on home account and secure some of the export demand, though the latter gives a considerable percentage of its attention to walnut, oak and poplar.

Shingles have been doing excellently well all the late winter and spring up to date, and are still in much favor though competition is preventing any gain in value. Over pine there is considerable conflict of statement regarding values which is somewhat difficult to reconcile, operators quoting from $4.50 up to $5.50 per M for clear, all widths, 16 inches long, on 4-inch basis, by wholesale parcels, but the chances are the figures range none too high. Large quantities of cypress are also coming to hand by steamer in the main, and find ready sale on a general distributive call to all dependent points. They are mostly 6x18 sawn, and quoted $5.50 for hearts and $4.75 saps, on a 4-inch basis, giving them a good competitive position with pine. In addition to a good home demand the export outlet affords an opportunity for placing quite a little invoice of stock every now and then.

and Minnesota, will be vigorously at work converting logs into lumber. Many of them, in fact, have already been working for some time, and reports coming in from the various drives give good ground for the belief that there will be no stoppage nor delay this season for lack of logs. The promised curtailment of the output has once more been postponed to "a more convenient season."

And referring to quietness in Chicago yard trade says:

There is also but little inclination to take No. 2 boards at the price they are held, $12.50 dry. Dealers have been selling their No. 2 boards all winter for $11@11.50, and don't like to pay a dollar more for stock to replace them.

Good lumber is scarce, very little having come in by water so far. Indeed the most of that received has been culls, and it is said that the proportion of poor lumber received is greater this spring than ever before.

Stocks of B selects are entirely exhausted in the 22d street district, but there is said to be a light supply left out at 35th street. There is a good demand for this stock, and prices are way up. Inch and a quarter is held at $31, and all that can be obtained goes readily at that price. Demand for other grades of good lumber is also fair, but prices not so high accordingly as for B select.

In the Hardwood report is the following:

A few dealers were fortunate enough to have a fair supply of oak, and these have reaped the benefit of advancing prices. Plain-sawed stock is held at $27 in the country, and quarter-sawed runs well up toward $40. Prices out of the yards have advanced in proportion and there is none of the indiscriminate cutting which prevailed last fall. One firm has been making a specialty of common quarter-sawed and found a ready sale for it at $26 and $28, but their stock has now been entirely exhausted. Firsts and seconds in small lots bring $32 to $35. Some is sold a dollar or two lower, but when this is done it is pretty certain the stock is not strickly dry. Quarter-sawed has gone up to $45, and many sales are made at prices ranging up to $48. Receipts of Wisconsin oak are growing in volume, and it is in that direction many dealers are looking for supplies. The log crop all through the South is reported light, and even if this were not so it is hardly the season for cutting this wood in that locality. Sawmill men say the stock dries out so fast that the consequent checking lowers the grade considerably, especially thick. The proper season for cutting is between the first of December and the last of February.

The Nortwestern Lumberman as follows:

The saw mills of the Northwest are starting up earlier than usual, as a rule, and everything points to an active season of lumber manufacture. With mills going at high pressure, and many of them running night and day, the crop of big cuts is likely to be large. Records will be broken with a loud crash, and ever and anon it will be announced that somebody's mill broom still waves.

Lumber organizations of one kind and another are becoming almost as thick as bees in a clover field. The association is increasing in popularity—that is evident. But the increase in the number of the organizations, the frequency with which meetings are held, and the determined efforts made to unite to accomplish desired results, are demonstrative of the fact that the lumber business is continually expanding, and that interests are increasingly in conflict. The lumbermen in one State complain of the advantages held by those of another State, the retailers complain of the encroachments of wholesale dealers; everybody complains of cut prices, and neary everybody kicks against the railroads. Antagonism is rife, and competition is aggressive and keen. Under such circumstances organization is theoretically a good thing; whether it is practically, depends upon the organizers.

The past week has been a dull one on the cargo market. Considerable lumber has arrived, but it has moved off slowly. Toward the middle of the week buyers became decidedly apathetic, and the commission men made but little to stir up any interest among the yard men. The carpenters' strike had paralyzed the market. The local dealers would not buy, while the building trades were under a labor cloud, and this class of buyers usually take more early cargoes than the shippers.

Under the depressing influence of the strike the market weakened slightly. Short piece stuff, which had been steady at $10 a thousand, sagged, so that in some instances lots were sold at $9.25. This feature of dealings nearly stopped trading, for the commission men knew that if lumber continued to come on the market, and was to be sold at $9.25 a thousand frequently, buyers would soon insist on that price as the regular thing. Hence the market was suffered to rest until the strike should be over. The disposition seemed to be to keep back receipts, in the expectation that when building should again start up there would be a rush for lumber, an active market and firmer prices.

Arrivals during the week included piece stuff, cull inch and some No. 2 stock, shingles and lath. The box factories are taking the larger portion of the coarse inch. There would be ready sale for good lumber if there was enough to make it an object for dealers to seek it on the market.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman as follows:

Around the great lakes, and at the markets in a greater or less measure supplying Chicago, there is complaint of dullness, which is readily traceable to the influence of the carpenters' strike in Chicago upon the local trade, and which influences through that medium the cargo market and trade around the lakes. Another week may entirely change this situation.

The mills in the Mississippi valley are not getting to work as generally as it was expected would be the case. Only one or two of the Minneapolis mills have started and it is likely to be well along in June before sawing becomes general. Low water is what is troubling the drives. Rafting is going on at Beef Slough or West Newton and in the St. Croix valley, but it will require a good deal more water than is now in the streams to give production the impetus which it was believed would characterize the opening of the season with the stock of logs to draw upon which was banked during the winter. Every week lost now means so much less lumber to put upon the market. The bulls are making the most of the present situation.

The Eastern demand for white pine lumber continues to be very good. Practically all the stock on the docks in the Saginaw Valley has been sold out for delivery, and is being moved to Tonawanda, Buffalo and other eastern points. Buyers from the East are numerous at Lake Superior and Green Bay shore points.

Prices are ruling firmer. There is an uncertainty about the drives which illustrates the possibility that in spite of the large log cut there may be a shortage in the supply. The low state of most of the stocks also has its effect. Instances are given this week of a slight advance in a few cars of the scarcer materials, and these cases bid fair to become common.

THE SOUTH.

The Southern Lumberman as follows:

The saw mill men of North Carolina are discussing the advisability of organizing a State Lumber Association. The various associations of this kind throughout the country have proved helpful and beneficial to the lumbermen, and it is to be hoped that the manufacturers of North Carolina will successfully carry out this idea.

CANADA.

A Canadian journal says:

Interest is beginning to be taken in the outlook for the sawn lumber trade. Amid the turmoil of newspaper argument and political wire-pulling on both sides of the Line 45°, lumber operators and mill men are watching with interest what the threatened legislation of Canada and the United States will amount to. Meanwhile, on the Canadian side of the Lakes, energetic preparations are being made for the starting up of the big saw mills at the Chaudiere, one or two of which are already at work.

Various estimates of the square and waney timber cut this season have been made from time to time. It is now believed that from 8,500,000 to 9,000,000 is the total output for the Ottawa valley—a large quantity, unless in the face of a brisk home market. We have heard of no very recent sales.

ENGLAND.

The Timber Trades Journal as follows:

LONDON.

American Woods.—Black Walnut, Whitewood, Oak, &c.: On the whole, the condition of trade in all of these descriptions is fairly encouraging, and with moderate supplies we shall probably have a continuance of good trade. Some further sales by private contract are reported.

LIVERPOOL.

American Walnut.—Several parcels have come to hand, but the scarcity of prime wood still continues.

American Whitewood.—Some excellent parcels have recently arrived, and in the generality of cases have been sold on private terms to the dealers.

And after referring to the generally dull condition of trade, continues as follows:

Happily, there are some extensive orders in the market for sawn pitch pine, which will tend to relieve it in a not unimportant degree. Amongst these are some for the Manchester Ship Canal, and for the same contracting firm a large quantity for the harbor works at Buenos Ayres. The Mersey Docks and Harbor Board are also in the market for sawn pitch pine timber, the specification issued by their brokers, Messrs. Duncan, Ewing & Co., amounting to about 40,000 cubic feet in all.

NAILS.—There is little or no change in the ruling conditions of the market. So far as very clearly defined wants can be calculated, most buyers are willing to invest, but neither haste or liberality characterise the demand, and there seems to be a determination to take matters slowly all around. Naturally, with the progress of the season, the general movement is somewhat fuller than a month ago, but it is only of a regular character, and possesses nothing of the speculative element. We quote at $1.80@1.85 per keg for car lots, and $1.85@1.95 per keg for parcels from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Business on the whole has been very good, better if anything than some of the trade expected, and altogether it is quite a cheerful sort of market. A jobber asked to particularize the class of stock most in demand would probably experience some difficulty in making a selection of any one grade, as pretty much everything that can be considered in season is being handled in natural proportion, and all values are well sustained, with here and there an uppish turn. Vermilion has of late gained about 2c. and Paris Green 1½c., and it is believed other standard varieties may follow. Linseed Oil has full steady outlet and a generally satisfactory market, the supply remaining so in hand as to be controlled without much difficulty. We quote at 60@61c for Western and 62@64c. for City. Spirits Turpentine is in moderate supply, and while the demand shows no great force, control of stocks is advantageous to holders and insures a firm tone on values all around. We quote at 38½@39½c. per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

PLASTER PARIS.—The market for calcined plaster has reacted from the advance noted some few weeks ago, and the entire addition of 10c. per bbl. at that advised is now taken off. Demand has continued very fair, indeed as compared with quantity of stock available the outlet was really liberal, and the failure to sustain the fuller lines of value is attributed in the main to the absence of unanimity in the action of manufacturers. Two or three calciners, it is said, have failed to accept the idea that the increase cost of rock was fully justified or that it could be sustained, and hence they were unwilling to join the move to advance price of the product. As yet, however, they have received no encouragement, a large proportion of the arrivals of rock thus far being for land plaster purposes only, with vessels said to be just as scarce and freights just as high as ever, making the selling of calcined at present run of figures practically without a margin, and creating a generally disagreeable market, out of which the buyer alone can extract advantage.

TAR AND PITCH.—Very much the former report may be heard, the demand keeping within narrow bounds and buyers exhibiting no haste or anxiety. Offerings fair, and prices ruling comparatively steady. We quote Pitch at $1.40@1.55 per bbl.; Tar at $2.12½@2.30, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

VOL. XLV. MAY 17, 1890. No. 1,157.

The stock market has lost none of its animation, though the conditions have somewhat changed. The bull market is by no means over, but for the time being money rates have become uncertain, and as a consequence conservative houses are advising caution in purchases and the taking of profits. That this should be the case is not surprising, nor would it be surprising if the market should now react somewhat and create a new basis before another advance is made. There has now been a month of good business with a steady advance, no set-backs to speak of, and a considerable increase in the number of active stocks. Most of the securities which were in the front of the advance, however, give evidences of extensive realizings, and those which have joined the movement in the later stages have found it difficult to hold their gains. Money, which was plentiful at nominal rates at the beginning of the week, has spasmodically gone up, at some period of each of the last few days' trading, to points which check, if not forbid, new operations and compel realizings. The stocks likely to be least affected by these conditions are those which have shown little activity, and these, too, have the best chances, probably, in any new advance. The present situation is one which is not of infrequent occurrence in the stock market; one from which it is very difficult to predict the immediate future; and in which, of course, advice becomes from that very reason all the more valuable, and the caution alluded to as coming from conservative brokers, is perhaps the best that can be given under the circumstances.

Congress is at length beginning to appreciate that the step taken when the Bland bill was passed must be followed up by further legislation in the same direction. In spite of the failure of all the pessimistic predictions as to the results of the bill made by the advocates of a single gold standard, in spite of the substantial betterment of the finances of the Government under its provisions, the Secretaries of the Treasury have never coined more than the $2,000,000 per month necessitated by the law. The new legislation will so materially increase this sum that it will practically make the coinage free, and thereby the country will be supplied with a currency sufficient to meet the expansion of our trade and to take the place of the gradually decreasing national bank circulation. It is encouraging to witness the effect of the prospect of this new legislation on Wall street. Three or four years ago, so completely was the street permeated by the mono-metallic theories that any proposal for increased silver coinage would have had a depressing effect; but at present, on the contrary, it has formed the basis for a sustained advance. Furthermore, the newspaper opposition to silver legislation, while still heard, is by no means so confident and virulent as it was formerly. The present Republican Congress may be charged with a good many errors of partisanship and policy, but if it succeeds in passing the silver bill it will have earned the gratitude of all to whom higher prices mean activity of trade and prosperity. The bill is not perfect in all its details, but it is sanctioned by a sound economy and will go far towards restoring silver to a place in our currency system on an equality with gold.

President George H. Scott did wisely in calling so promptly a meeting of the Real Estate Exchange to consider the condition in which the adjournment of the Legislature, without having passed any measure, leaves the Rapid Transit problem. Mr. Scott evidently recognizes that only by keeping the matter before the public, by agitating, by refusing to allow the question to sleep, can public feeling as to the inadequacy of our rapid transit facilities be brought to such a point that politicians dare not trifle with it. This is distinctly the best course to pursue. We hope Mr. Scott will continue it. But as to the special effort to resuscitate politically the Rapid Transit question at this season we fear it will be a failure. It is not at all likely that Governor Hill will consent to reopen a contest in which it is by no means certain that himself or his party would figure to advantage or with profit; even if the request for an extra session should be much more influential than any the Real Estate Exchange can make just now. The fact is, and it is well that it should be recognized, the consideration which the recommendations and wishes of the Real Estate Exchange receive in Albany diminished materially during the last few sessions of the Legislature. The Exchange has busied itself with too much. It has dissipated its strength in the consideration of too many measures. It has come too near to being a sort of self-constituted petty Legislature which spends its time criticising or passing recommendations upon the acts of the superior body in the State capital. Politicians are quite shrewd enough to discriminate between perfunctory criticism that begins and ends on the paper which contains the memorial addressed to them, and the vigorous opposition of a determined organization aroused to look after its own interests. The Real Estate Exchange seldom should speak except in the latter fashion. It should speak as a unit, and only upon matters about which the great real estate interest feels strongly, and is willing to act decidedly. To pass resolutions about the hours of labor of postal clerks, or small local improvements, about which every one knows not ten real estate men in the city would cross the street, tends to destroy the influence of the Exchange in larger matters. If the Exchange had done nothing else this session but organize a strong demand for the passage of a Rapid Transit measure, and had urged that demand at every stage of the disgraceful political fight, a bill might have been passed; and more would then have been done for real estate and New York City than could be accomplished by a hundred resolutions favoring an eight-hour day for postal clerks. As it was, at many of the meetings about rapid transit, it was impossible to obtain a quorum; and at the general meeting this week on the Exchange floor, there was a lamentable lack of vivacity, enthusiasm and determination. Politicians know these facts; and we may be sure they very materially qualify "resolutions" and the utterances of committees in Albany. No misinterpretation can fairly be put upon these remarks. THE RECORD AND GUIDE was one of the first to propose that the Excharge should exert its influence in political matters for the welfare of the real estate interest. We have supported over and over again the action of the Exchange in carrying out this policy, and we believe much good has been obtained by it. But the very desire that the Exchange should have influence for good government in Albany causes us to point out that a course of action has been pursued of recent years which, we believe, must in the end destroy that influence.

The Seventeenth National Conference of Charities and Correction now in session at Baltimore has economic as well as moral and social import. The man of every day affairs is not apt to regard the practical importance of such meetings. To him they are little more than so many occasions for the relief of over-wrought philanthropic zeal. As a matter of fact, however, the direct purpose of these annual conferences is to diffuse intelligent information respecting benevolent, charitable, penal and reformatory work. The representatives present at the session in Baltimore are for the most part people who have had wide practical experience in charity and reform work, and the papers presented are by specialists who rank among the first in the various branches of the field. To the charity organizations represented in this conference is due the credit of placing the administration of relief to dependent classes upon a scientific basis in this country. The law passed by the last Legislature of New York, which provides for the removal of the insane from county poor houses to State institutions, is regarded as one of the most important reforms enacted in this State during the last thirty years. This reform was promulgated by the State Charities Aid Association of this city, and was based on scientific investigations which it had been carrying forward for seventeen years. It is the meeting of these charitable organizations in conference that enables local systems and measures which have been proved practicable and efficient to become national. It follows logically that what elevates the condition of the dependent classes not only adds to the economic force of the community, but also relieves taxpayers to the extent of the amount previously outlaid for the support of the classes thus bettered. This is an obvious truth, but one not clearly perceived by the work-a-day public. The amount which this city pays out each year for the support of indigent classes is no small item of its expenditure. It is through charity organizations that administrative law for treating with the poor and dependent are in the greatest measure to come that will relieve the citizens from this yearly tax.

Not long since we called attention to the large number of club buildings which had been or were being erected in this city and Brooklyn—buildings which were superior to anything of their kind elsewhere in this country and very nearly the equal of the best in Europe. Such structures are from their very nature likely to be better examples of architecture than any office building, hotel or the like. The architect is not limited by natural desire of the owner to make the investment pay. It is true that the rich banks and corporations of this city have some of them put up buildings which are, in their way, well conceived and imposing elevations, but their great height necessarily restricts the designer, and any lavishness of decoration, if it exists, is felt to be out of place. A pair of shoes still remains a covering for the feet despite any buckles, and the desirability of making the best use of one's materials does not sanction any profusion of resplendent detail. But a clubhouse never has sixteen stories, and no provision has to be made for shops in the basement. Its architect has "ample room and verge enough" to put a building which will be well proportioned and tastefully decorated. And so it is with other structures which are now in the course of erection. The Music Hall, on the corner of 7th avenue and 57th street, is one of these buildings. "It differs," Mr. Carnegie says, "from most others in this, that it is not erected for gain. As has been stated by the president of the Philharmonic Society, this work springs from the love of music which dwells within our hearts." But although springing from a love of music, the dwelling place of which is arbitrarily located in the heart, it is not to be devoted simply to sounding harmonies. Mr. Carnegie expects it to "intertwine itself with the history of the country. . . . It should not be closed if there remain one good cause desirous of using it. . . . What Fanueil Hall has been to Boston, let us hope that this hall may become to New York." These are high aims, and as good causes frequently lack good funds for their propagation, Mr. Carnegie's hall will doubtless supply, like so many new books and inventions, "a long-felt need." The company behind the Madison Square Garden are certainly animated by no such generous and far-reaching designs; they expect the building to yield a certain percentage on the stock, and no well-disposed person would care to deny them such substantial satisfaction. But Mr. Carnegie's music hall is just the kind of building which New York needs. Its situation is good, though by no means the best that could be found, for it is a pity it is not located on the site of the Plaza Hotel. However, it is on a wide and fairly accessible street, so we need not complain. If Governor Hill signs the bill for the Memorial Arch to be erected at 59th street and 5th avenue; if the arch in Washington square is completed, and if nothing happens to Mr. Carnegie's music hall, New Yorkers will have some few structures at least which will be remarkable for other reasons than that they are sixteen stories high and cost a fabulous number of dollars.

The Common Council of the City of Omaha, Neb., some time ago adopted the theatre section of the New York Building law. A new theatre enterprise is now on foot in that thriving city, but some of the prime movers have discovered that the cost of building safely and well will require a larger investment of money than was first anticipated. In a recent issue of one of the Omaha newspapers the views of some of these men are given, and the New York law receives vigorous denunciation. As sample extracts, the New York theatre law of 1885 is declared to have been formulated by "a lot of political contractors" who expected to control the theatres then existing in New York, by making such extraordinary requirements for theatre buildings thereafter erected that no new theatres would be built, and thus assure to these interested law-makers the great profits of a monopoly; that the law proved so bad that the Legislature of the State has just had to be appealed to for relief. The Superintendent of Buildings in Omaha sent on here for a copy of the amended bill recently at Albany, and, to the surprise of the theatre promoters in Omaha, they find that more and more requirements have been added this year to the theatre section by the Revision Committee, but, as our readers know, these amendments in common with others failed to get through the Legislature. Some of the proposed theatre requirements were that in all theatres hereafter erected the galleries in the auditorium should be constructed of iron and fire-proof materials; that the roof over the auditorium should be similarly constructed, and that the fly galleries and rigging loft should be constructed of fire-proof materials. Many other requirements the amendments covered, some being the direct suggestions of experienced theatre men. The requirement that the fly galleries be of iron came from Mr. D'Oyle Carte, who stated that in all the new European theatres the fly galleries are required to be so constructed. There is but little difference of opinion that everything in, around and about the stage that can be made incombustible should be so constructed.

The large increase in the expenditures of the Department of Street Cleaning without any corresponding improvement in the condition of the streets brings up once more that aggravated subject. Few, I think, will dispute that there has not been some betterment in the condition of the streets; but the fact that it has been attended with a much larger expenditure, disproportionate to the amount of the improvement, is a practical justification of Mr. Coleman's contention that he was doing what he could with his machinery; and furthermore additional proof that there is something wrong in the department which is not righted by changing its head. It is probably hopeless to expect that anything further will be done during Mayor Grant's term of office; and whether anything will be done subsequently will depend largely on the municipal election next fall. Meanwhile it is to be noted that the Legislature has omitted to give us such aid in the matter as was promised early in the session. Our various street-cleaning commissioners have insisted that one of the greatest obstacles which they have to contend against is the utterly irresponsible way in which any gas company wishing to get below the surface can dislocate the pavement, scatter dirt around in every direction and replace the blocks in such a way that there is a constant leakage of dirt from the pavements. It may be remembered also that the question has other bearings besides its relation to the street cleaning difficulty. Commissioner Gilroy stated in the fall, with great emphasis, that it was utterly useless to put down expensive pavements, with no guarantee from companies with pipes under the thoroughfares, that the public property, upon which so much money was being spent, should be protected. There was some talk about a bill, taking the form of an amendment of the Consolidation act, which was to provide for putting any one who tore up the streets under bonds for their proper relaying. But for all that has been done one might suppose that the obnoxious statutes which permitted this destruction of good pavements were as immutable as the laws of the Medes and the Persians, or as much a part of nature as death and dyspepsia. At any rate, no serious attempt has been made to secure the necessary amendments; and our officials will still have an excellent excuse for their shortcomings in the way of keeping the pavements and streets in good order.

In re Hugh J. Grant.

Short of it being clearly proved that the charges against Mayor Grant are entirely true, the worst thing that could happen to his Honor is to have his innocence and moral character championed by the Sun. Unfortunately for him this has happened, and moreover it has happened not in an ordinary way; as a newspaper expresses its opinion upon the events of the day; but in a marked and extraordinary manner, with exaggeration that so plainly overshoots its mark that the reader finds it hard to avoid the impression that the editorial mind had been subjected to some more than ordinary afflatus before the article was conceived, and was not quite free from the idea that in this case a good character was chiefly a matter of adjectives.

The Sun in recent years has been "weak" in the causes it has championed; and, if Mayor Grant knew anything of the matter, it was a grave mistake on his part to allow that newspaper to be his special pleader. He might (supposing he had any choice in the matter), have selected an advocate more favorably known than the whilom Ben Butler organ; for with newspapers, as with lawyers, there are some whose advocacy inevitably carries an "unfortunate" presumption. It may very well be that no small part of the criticism passed upon Mayor Grant, and of the charges so freely made against him is unwarranted, unfair and perhaps malicious. Certainly whatever his faults and wrongdoing may be, the man has been made the subject of a political persecution, for the object of the Fassett Investigating Committee is first, last and all the time "politics," not righteousness. "Politics" created the committee, "politics" inspire and guide the committee. It is making for good government just so far as and no further than it can make for "politics." The committee was conceived in the hope that it could find evil and expose evil, not for the benefit of the community, but for party advantage. It deserves no more praise than does a man, who, pursuing a very selfish interest, accomplishes a public good. Honest government for this city can no more be invoked by a Republican incantation than by a Democratic one; and Republicans who pass indignant judgments on the corruption of Tammany and the use of money for political purposes should bear in mind the John J. O'Brien episode with Republican political funds, and cease to be hypocrites. The rotten government of this city is not to be covered by any party appellation. Its causes are not to be found in any one party, but in the entire community.

Mayor Grant's position, however, is really a stronger one than perhaps he imagines, if he will deal with it boldly. Instead of trying to prove with the Sun "that if there was ever an honest, high-minded, incorruptible man in any department of our city government Hugh J. Grant is that man" he should frankly admit such of the particulars in the charges made against him as are true, and the contrary of which no one who knows anything of politics in this city would believe, unless proved by supernatural attestation. The Mayoralty of New York City is too big a plum to be given by a polictical organization that confessedly exists solely for "politics" to a more or less unknown young man of no great demonstrated ability, for no "consideration" whatsoever. And, in the management of the offices Mr. Grant has held, not a soul believes or could be brought to believe that he has acted solely for the public good and never once for personal or political advantage. These things are not done these days, and none but fools believe the contrary. All that is unknown by the public in these matters is the details; and now that so many of these have been brought to light, or at any rate partly uncovered, why not boldly admit the exact proportions of what practically is known, and with the confession maintain the absolute necessity of these deeds to political existence.

The very knowledge that the public have that makes it impossible for them to believe in protestations about a political office held as a sacred trust, spotless character, inflexible rectitude, and so forth, will make them recognize the force of such a justification, and compel them to admit that the conditions which must be met before political life becomes a possibility in this city are more to be decried than the individual who succumbs to them. Even Mayor Hewitt had a political existence only to about the extent to which he met these conditions. Indeed, the fact is, these conditions are too powerful for even the strongest. To fight them is political death.

To say this, of course, does not exculpate Mayor Grant. But the "force of circumstances" clearly proved is generally accepted in extenuation, and clears character of the taint of inherent viciousness. Mayor Grant cannot pose as a saint. Such an attitude is absurd. Political saints do not exist now. But, perhaps, the Mayor can show that his career at worst has been only "political." Surely, that is far from an ideal one: but, in a sense, it is the life of this nation, and his accusers stand on no higher plane than himself. He could assert fairly that until the character of the people change those who hold political positions must do as he has done. The public know more both against and for Mayor Grant than he himself or his accusers appear to be aware of, consequently both are making miscalculations. For our own sakes, in this matter let us away with hypocrisy! If we are to be told something about the government of the city let us have the whole truth without cant or humbug. What is the real character of this Investigating Committee? What is the real object of its efforts? What is the character of our city officials? Let us hear what their misdeeds are—not as Democrats or as Republicans, but as men.

At the same time, and with equal emphasis, let people know what the character of political life here in the city is; the political life, not of any one party, but of all parties. And when the good Public begin to denounce, as surely they will, let them then be informed of the part they play in the piece. The government is indeed "of the people." It is the creation of their own hands, either through what they do or what they leave undone. The cause of bad government is not to be found within our municipal buildings, but in every highway and byway of the city. The great reform needed is the Reform of the People—the elevation of the average of the ideas and sentiments of the community.

West Side Churches.—II.

The Rutgers Riverside Presbyterian Church stands on the southwest corner of the Boulevard and 73d street, two blocks north of the other Romanesque church that has already been noticed in these columns. It is as undeniably Romanesque as the other, but entirely different in expression, being rich and rugged of aspect, in place of smooth and prim precision. Part of this difference, though not the most important part of it, proceeds from the material, which is for the walls rough-faced stone, and for the decoration cut stone, instead of salmon colored brick and dark red terra cotta.

The corner occupied by the Rutgers Church is an obtuse angle, and the church is nevertheless rectangular. The waste of space which such a disposition threatens is in part prevented by the erection of the tower at the south or inner angle. This prevents the employment of the tower as the central feature of the composition to which the lines of the building rise and converge. It is not, however, at the extremity of the building, and is partly detached by the space reserved upon the south side, which is open as far as the transept, and thus secures an ample lighting of the interior, no matter what the adjoining owner may choose to erect. The frontage of the church is about seventy-five feet, and the breadth of the tower about twenty, the projection rather more than half the breadth. The first stage of the tower contains a round-arched doorway, of which the tympanum is covered with Byzantine carving. The second stage is a pair of tall, round-arched openings, not large enough to detract from the massiveness and simplicity of the shaft; and above there is apparently to be an open belfry stage.

The main material of the church, it ought to be explained, is the reddish Potsdam stone. This is used rough-faced in the walls, while the purplish Belleville stone is employed in the wrought work and the darker Longmeadow stone is introduced in alternation with the Belleville stone in the voussoirs of the arches. The combination is agreeable, though scarcely what an architect would select whose range was not restricted by other considerations than those of color, and the use of the third tint in the arches certainly expresses the construction more forcibly than could be done in monochrome.

The gabled front adjoining the tower has for its central feature in the lower stage a pillared porch which is an excellent feature, although the entasis given to the shafts, here and elsewhere, is too exaggerated and violent to be agreeable. The shafts sustain a round arch with a gable over it. The arch itself is deep, powerful and very well modelled. The intrados is emphasized and decorated with a dog-tooth moulding, while the label moulding bears a row of dentils, and this moulding, coming outside of the columns that support the arch itself, rests upon corbels at the impost, an arrangement which is all the prettier and more picturesque for seeming quite natural and straightforward. The head of the arch, as in the doorways throughout, is solid, and the tympanum is again filled with Byzantine carving, very well designed and very well executed, and rich and refined in effect. At each side of this entrance the wall is pierced by a pair of low lintelled openings with a thick shaft between them. Above are three tall, round-arched windows, not closely grouped, but so far separated as to allow a rough pilaster to rise between each two, while the group is flanked by another like pilaster on each side. The structural use of these pilasters is not apparent nor existent, but the four are prolonged above the windows, and their function is then seen to be the support of symbols of the four evangelists, also projected and in the form of inverted capitals. The arrangement is by no means commendable. It is a piece of "constructed decoration" on a large scale, and is obviously plastered against the wall to which it has no organic relation. It is "Romanesque" in the sense that the early Romanesque builders had not learned to avoid all the solecisms of classical Roman architecture, but that is no reason why a modern revivalist of Romanesque should retain irrationalities. The feature, in spite of good detail and good carving, is so obviously extrinsic and factitious that it is upon the whole a blemish upon a front otherwise very well composed. The gable above the three openings is broken only by a small round window. The north end of the front, or rather of the nave, is rounded from the ground, and at the top of the first stage a turret rises, while the low aisle is ended by a piece of wall pierced with a doorway repeating that of the tower, and crowned by a tall balustrade stopped against a solid miniature turret repeating the form of the larger feature.

The side shows an excellent and very effective piece of design, more effective than the front, good as that is in general. The expanse of the rough reddish wall is of itself very impressive, and it is emphasized by the form and treatment of the openings. There are five bays, separated by rough and shallow pilaster-like projections of a darker stone than that of the wall. In the aisle wall each bay has three lintelled openings with a blind arch above the centre one filled with carving. In the clerestory wall this triplet is succeeded by a triplet of round arches, of which the central is the tallest, and which derive great force from the alternation of tints in their voussoirs. This side-wall is one of the most impressive productions of our recent architecture. At the rear it stops against the transept-like projection of the Sunday school, or whatever it may be, a gabled building at right angles to the church. A large triple opening, of which the centre is arched and the sides lintelled at the impost, with large columns under the arch, is rather Renaissance than Romanesque in form, but is an effective feature none the less. The lower front of the transverse building is projected and ingeniously treated with a gablet at each end, and an arcade of four openings in the centre. Upon the whole the church is a very satisfactory and successful essay in ecclesiastical Romanesque.

The Better Side of Monopolies.

There are fashions in political economy as in other things, and for a hundred years it has been the fashion to look upon the advantages of competition and the disadvantages of monopoly. Yet the stale observation that there are two sides to every question is perfectly applicable here, as it is now apparently becoming fashionable to dwell upon the evils of free competition and the advantages of properly regulated monopoly.

A literary man writes a shrewd plea for national socialism, from which he artfully omits the word "socialism" because of the opprobrium that clings to it; and straightway we have a society of "Nationalists," with organs and lecturers prompt to prove that competition is an unscientific, unchristian, and altogether impossible basis for any industrial organization worth having. Edward Eyrett Hale says that he went to bed one night an economic radical and waked up next morning an economic conservative; in a single night Boston had gone beyond him. While there is doubtless much in this movement that is ill-considered, and from which there will ultimately be a very proper reaction, we yet believe that it is a necessary and useful movement. We have already spoken at length of the desirability of monopoly in gas, water and street-car service, and called attention to the wastefulness of attempted competition in the railway and telegraph business.

The economic saving that results from monopoly in other lines of business is at present brought sharply to public attention by the special pleading that is done on behalf of "trusts." It is easy to select three or four most commendable aims from the list of purposes for which the Sugar Trust says it exists. The first is "to promote economy of administration." This end a central and authoritative organization can obviously achieve by not allowing two establishments to run where one can do all the work that needs doing; by lessening the enormous cost of advertising, discharging superfluous traveling men, etc., and by preventing the accumulation of uncalled for stocks of sugar through the desire of rival companies to ruin each other. The second commendable object of the organization is said to be "to give to each refinery the benefit of all appliances and processes known or used by the others, and useful to improve the quality and diminish the cost of refined sugars." The third of these objects is perhaps the most commendable of all; it is "to protect against inducements to lower the standard of refined sugars."

The attorneys of the justly hated Standard Oil monopoly have also been able to show important sources of legitimate saving that come from monopolistic management. The distribution of the oil in the small towns of the country can be much more cheaply done when the number of local competitors is strictly limited. To have six tank-carts traversing each day all the streets of a small town when one, traveling the same route could distribute all the oil demanded, is a palpable waste of capital and labor. This minor matter is merely typical of many other savings, colossal in the aggregate, which monopoly makes possible.

So great are the possible economies of limiting the number of competitors, that a Philadelphia professor has recently had the hardihood to advocate a system of taxation designed to secure this specific end. He points to the fact that the wholesale trade of the country is burdened by the support of an army of traveling men, costing probably not far from $200,000,000; most of these are useless from the standpoint of the general public, and are kept on the road only because of the exigencies of the competitive system. He asks if any more soap is used because of the thousands of dollars that are spent in advertising the different varieties of that commodity, and then goes on to descant upon the enormons tax imposed upon the retail dry-goods and grocery trades by the excessive number engaged in them, and by the costly efforts of each individual to attract custom to himself and away from his rivals. He alludes to the duplicate journeys of competitive milk men and bakers' carts, and concludes with a plea for a high license tax on all these varieties of retail trade. He says that the high tax on the retail liquor business has never raised the price of liquor, but wherever tried has so reduced the number of men who make their living by this trade that a saving more than equal to the tax has resulted.

The statisticians have quarreled a good deal as to what class has reaped the chief advantage from the great industrial progress of the last few decades. Edward Atkinson and others hold that the chief gain has been on the part of the laboring classes; the latter are generally of the opinion that they have not been benefited at all, but that the capitalist has absorbed the profits. It is now suggested that nearly the whole amount has been wasted, gratuitously, in excessive competition.

By the foregoing statements and observations it is not intended to enter any plea for trusts or other monopolies as they may now exist, or to express sympathy with those who wish for the complete supervision of the competitive system, but merely to point out some of the considerations that make against doctrines heretofore received.

A Tenant and Foreclosure.

Editor Record and Guide:

Kindly answer inclosed in your paper and oblige.

I rent from Robinson his property for a term of three years under lease not recorded; rent payable quarterly in advance. Before April rent is due I am made a party in suit for foreclosure proceedings by the Mutual Life Insurance Company.

I made no inquiry of Robinson if his place was mortgaged, nor did I consider such a question necessary.

Can the party who buys at foreclosure sale, April 20th, dispossess me, or, if I pay my rent to Robinson, what security have I for the rent unearned. A Would-be Three-year Tenant.

If the tenant were in possession under the hiring before the mortgage was made, the tenant could not be cut off by the foreclosure, but in such a case the purchaser on a sale in foreclosure would succeed to the landlord's rights for rent accruing after the delivery of the deed to him; in other words, the sale would be subject to the tenant's rights. Our statute does not require a lease of three years or under to be recorded. But if the mortgage in this case be prior to the lease, then, by making the lessee and any under tenants of his parties to the action, the lease can be cut off by the foreclosure and the property sold free from it. The landlord was not obliged to disclose the existence of the mortgage on making the lease. The commencement of the foreclosure suit does not suspend the rent, nor relieve the tenant from paying the rent. A sale and delivery of the deed under the foreclosure will terminate the lease, and also terminate the payment of the rent under it, or if the mortgagee in the foreclosure obtain the appointment of a receiver, then rents falling due after the appointment of such receiver would be collected by the receiver.

If the lessee be evicted by a sale foreclosure during the continuance of a term, for which he has paid the rent in advance, he has a right of action for damages against the landlord on latter's covenant. If the mortgage were prior to the lease, and the lessee were made a party to the foreclosure, and properly served with summons, etc., then, after sale and delivery of deed to purchaser, and a demand of possession, if the lessee refuse to surrender the possession, the purchaser can apply to the court for a writ of assistance, directed to the Sheriff, to put the purchaser into possession.

The act to dispossess tenants does not apply to such a case.

A Husband's Rights.

Editor Record and Guide:

Please answer the following question: A lady, having married the second time, had one son by her first husband and none by her second. If she died would her real and personal property go to the second husband or to her son? (2) Would her second husband have any interest in her property? Yours, etc., Joseph.

The husband of a woman dying intestate and leaving descendants is entitled to the same distributive share in the personal estate to which a widow is entitled in the personal estate of her husband. (See Laws of 1867, chapter 783.) The extent of this distributive share is one-third of the personal estate after payment of debts. If there were no issue born alive of the second marriage, the second husband, if he survive his wife, would not in the absence of a will by her in his favor have any right or estate in her real property. If issue of the second marriage were born alive, no matter whether that issue lived to the time of the death of the wife or not, the husband would be entitled to curtesy in the real estate left by his wife, and under this right of curtesy he would be entitled to the possession of all the real estate left by her, during his natural life. In the State of New York, however, a married woman can, by a deed or a will, convey or devise her real property so as to cut off the curtesy of her husband.

Brokers' Commissions.

Editor Record and Guide:

Kindly answer the following query and oblige.

An agent rents a dwelling to T. at $30 per month, taking a deposit of $10, balance to be paid on signing lease, before the execution of which the tenant, T., entered into negotiations for the purchase of the premises, the signing of the lease for the time being set aside pending such negotiations. Tenant finally concludes not to purchase or rent, and fails to carry out agreement to lease (for two years). Is not the agent entitled to commission for renting or for procuring a tenant, the difference to go to the owner? M. Bros.

An agreement to hire for two years must be in writing, otherwise it is, if not performed, invalid.

A broker, to entitle him to commission, must produce a customer ready and willing to take on the terms fixed by the broker's principal. If the failure of the tenant in this case to sign the lease was because of the fault of the landlord, then the broker having procured a person ready and willing to take on the landlord's terms, he is entitled to his commission from the landlord if he were acting as agent for the latter. But there is another rule which must not be lost sight of, namely: that the broker runs the risk of unsuccessful efforts (see Sibbald vs. Bethlehem Iron Co., 83 N. Y., 378), and if the failure of the proposed tenant to enter into a lease was not the fault of the landlord, but a result of a change of mind on the part of the tenant himself, then the broker must bear the loss of the commission because he runs the risk of this change.

In the case of Smith vs. McGovern, 65 N. Y., 54, the Court of Appeals decided that the matter must be closed through the efforts of the broker before he would be entitled to the commission, unless the failure was caused by the broker's principal or a defect in his title, or like cause.

Negotiations of themselves give no right to the broker; and unless the negotiations induced the minds of the parties to meet, the broker cannot be said to have procured the object for which he was employed. If he bring a tenant who talks with the landlord, but the tenant changes his mind and refuses to take a lease, there is not a party ready and willing to take on the principal's terms, nor is there a closing through the efforts of the broker. If the broker were acting for the tenant and procured him a house or apartments at the terms directed, then the broker would be entitled to a commission from the tenant if the failure to take resulted from the fault of the latter.

But the broker, in the absence of permission of the parties, could not act for both sides, and, as we understand it, he was in this case acting for the landlord, and under the circumstances we think he is not entitled to commission.

Church Property and Taxes.

Editor Record and Guide:

A and B have heard that some of the "Trinity" property, and also some property held by the Roman Catholic Church in this city, embraces tenement houses and stores, etc., from which these two religious bodies derive revenue in shape of rent, etc.

A claims all property held by the above parties is exempt from taxation whether used for religious services or not, while B claims they pay tax on all property from which they derive revenue, that is not used for churches and chapels.

Which is correct? F. W. C.

The statute of our State (part I., chap. 13, title 1) provides:

"Section 4. The following property shall be exempt from taxation" * * * Sub. 3. "Every building erected for the use of a college, incorporated academy, or other seminary of learning; every building for public worship; every school-house, court-house and jail; and the several lots whereon such buildings are situated, and the furniture belonging to each of them."

In the City of New York this is modified by sec. 827 of the Consolidation Act (Laws 1882, ch. 410), which provides as follows: "Sec. 827. The exemption from taxation of every building for public worship, and every school-house or other seminary of learning, under the provisions of subdivision three of section four, title one, chapter thirteen of part first of the Revised Statutes, or amendments thereof, shall not apply to any such building or premises in the city, unless the same shall be exclusively used for such purposes, and exclusively the property of a religious society."

The property used as tenements or as stores or for like purposes would be taxable.

The Harlem Bridge Bill.

PROTEST OF PROPERTY-OWNERS—COMMISSIONER GILROY SAYS IT IS AN OUTRAGE—THE COUNSEL FOR THE NEW YORK CENTRAL MAKES A STATEMENT.

Excitement among many property-owners and residents in the neighborhood of the Fourth Avenue Railroad Bridge over the Harlem River is just now at fever heat, and culminated in a meeting of prominent property-holders and residents in Harlem on Monday evening. A bill has been passed by the Legislature to permit the New York Central Road to raise the grade of their tracks between 125th street and the Harlem River, so that when they reach the Harlem Bridge they shall be at a height of about 24 feet above high spring tide. The New York Central Road are avowedly responsible for the bill, and it is a measure which, they say, they have been forced to take in view of the expected passage of the Rivers and Harbors Bill by Congress providing that all bridges over the Harlem shall be 24 feet above "high spring-tides." Thus, should the bridge at 4th avenue be raised to that height it is quite evident that, with the tracks at the present grade, the New York Central's trains could not pass the river unless they accomplished the physically impossible feat of jumping over the bridge. Hence the company's action in anticipation of the raising of the bridge, and the consequent necessity which there would be of raising their tracks, by a steep gradient, between 125th street and the Harlem River. The bill passed by the Legislature also authorizes and directs the owners of all bridges, city or otherwise, to raise their bridges to 24 feet above high spring-tides, the work to be done at the expense of the owners thereof. The New York Central Road, as well as the city, will therefore have to raise their bridges, the former at 4th avenue and the latter at 3d avenue, as both are considerably less than 24 feet above high spring-tide.

Commissioner Gilroy says the bill is an outrage, for it will close up the streets between 125th and 130th streets, and possibly the few streets north thereof. He suggests, as an alternative, that the New York Central Road should build a tunnel under the Harlem. This, he contends, would save the streets from being closed. But the New York Central engineers have studied the question, and say that to go under the Harlem River would be impracticable.

WHAT COMMISSIONER GILROY SAYS.

A representative of THE RECORD AND GUIDE called upon the Commissioner of Public Works, who said: "The bill should not be signed. It will close up all the streets between 125th and 130th streets, while 131st and 132d streets will also be practically closed. The company ought to tunnel under the Harlem River."

"I understand, then, that as a public officer of this city, and having the interest of its population at heart you think this bill should not be signed by the Governor."

"I do, sir," was the Commissioner's emphatic reply. "I think the bill is an outrage."

IN THE NEW YORK CENTRAL'S OFFICES.

It is so much the fashion to accuse railroads and officers of railroads, without distinction, of Machiavellian proclivities, and of overriding the rights and conveniences of the public, that it is always well, when a railroad is accused of sharp practice, to hear a statement of its position from one of its responsible officers. With this object in view, a call was made at the offices of the President of the New York Central Road, where THE RECORD AND GUIDE'S representative was referred to F. Loomis, counsel to that corporation. Mr. Loomis was shown several newspaper comments opposing the bridge, and was informed of Commissioner Gilroy's statement. The veteran lawyer quietly ignored all this, and with his most deliberate air went on with his remarks, substantially as follows:

"To understand this matter intelligently," he said, laying stress upon the words, "you must go back to the time when Congress passed a measure creating the Harlem Ship Canal. This measure was fostered and urged on at the instance of a number of gentlemen who were owners of property along and adjacent to the Harlem River front, between the Harlem Bridge and Dyckman's Meadows. These gentlemen had an impression that a great commercial and shipping interest would settle along this part of the Harlem River, if that stream were made navigable for vessels of deep draught. I will not take issue with that assumption, though I am inclined to think that it is a mistaken belief, as half our water front south of the Harlem River is not yet utilized, while there is a large water front available near the centres of commerce on the other sides of the North and East Rivers. However, these gentlemen were largely instrumental in procuring the passage of that measure, and a large appropriation has been made by Congress to carry out the plan.

"Now, in the session of 1879, the State Legislature passed a measure (Laws 1879, chap. 345, page 424, sec. 2, amending laws of 1876), which provided that all new bridges built over the river should be at least 24 feet above the water of high spring tides. At the time that provision became a law the bridges over the Harlem were the High Bridge, Macomb's Dam Bridge, the Third Avenue or City Bridge, which is considerably less than 24 feet above high spring tide; and the Fourth Avenue Bridge, originally built over the Harlem in 1835, and subsequently made a railroad bridge. Among the bridges built later than 1879 were the New York & Northern, Madison Avenue and Second Avenue Bridges, the latter connecting with the New York & New Haven Road. Now the Congressional Committee on Rivers and Harbors appointed a committee to go to New York and examine the Harlem Ship Canal territory on the spot and make a report accordingly. That committee came to New York and returned to Washington, advising that a further appropriation be made for the work of excavating the river, and at the same time directing that all the low bridges over the Harlem should be raised to 24 feet above high spring-tides. A provision was inserted in the Rivers and Harbors Bill to that effect and will in all probability become a law. The company's interest would, indeed, be best promoted by the filling up of the Harlem River, so that permanent bridges could be built over it, and thus do away with the drawbridges which are such a hindrance to our two hundred and fifty trains, more or less, that pass the river daily. These drawbridges always have been a great annoyance to the public. They cause delays and stoppages to thousands of people several times throughout the day who are anxious to get to and from their homes in the upper wards and Westchester County, and all this delay to allow some little vessel to slowly pass through. The Harlem is the dividing line between the two halves of the city. It should not have been allowed to permanently cut the city in two. To make it a ship canal will interfere with the upper half beyond the river being populated as it ought to be. To fill it in would make it in reality part and parcel of New York City."

"If the government orders the raising of all bridges over the Harlem to a height of 24 feet above the water of high spring tides, and the New York Central is compelled to raise its grade north of 125th street so as to meet the raised bridges at the Harlem River, will any roadways or foot bridges be closed that are now open to the public?" asked the interviewer.

"No, sir," was the reply. "We do not propose to violate the law. By the Fourth Avenue Bridge Act certain foot bridges are provided for. These are at 126th, 127th, 128th and 129th streets; and roadways are also created by that act at 132d and 133d streets and at the exterior street running along the Harlem River. These were provided for in the act at the request of the city, and we do not propose to interfere with these foot bridges or roadways, nor does the measure now before the Governor for signature repeal the old act in that respect. If our grade is raised to meet the new altitude of the Fourth Avenue Bridge, there will be foot bridges over the same streets, and roadways at the same streets, as there are at present. So that the statements that we will close the streets and roadways north of 125th street are made without a knowledge of the facts in the case."

"Now," continued the speaker, "several of the bridges over the Harlem are drawbridges, and if all these are to be raised to 24 feet above high spring tide mark, then the Third Avenue, as well as the Fourth Avenue, Bridge, will have to be raised. So that the city will have to do the very same thing with its own bridge as the New York Central Road will have to do in reference to the Fourth Avenue Bridge. The city will have to raise the grade of the streets leading to the Third Avenue Bridge, so as to permit of the carts, wagons and horsecars getting across, not to speak of the passenger traffic. For those vehicles could no more leap over the bridge than could the trains of the New York Central Road. You will therefore now understand how ridiculous is the opposition which is raised to the bill passed by the Legislature."

THE BILL.

So many contradictory statements, and so many misstatements, have appeared in the public prints in reference to this matter that we give below the substance of the bill. The measure is known as Senate bill No. 621 (introductory No. 716), and was introduced by Senator Ives April 21, 1890. It has passed both Houses of the Legislature, and now awaits the Governor's signature. It authorizes and directs that all bridges over the Harlem not now at an elevation of at least 24 feet above high spring tides shall, at the cost of the owners thereof, be elevated to that height, to conform with the provision of the Rivers and Harbors bill reported in Congress, and likely to become a Federal law; and it also provides for all changes of grades, etc., in any avenues, streets and railroads that may be necessary by reason of the increased elevation of such bridges. The plan of those bridges, in the matter of draw-spans, etc., is to be approved by the Secretary of War.

Inquiry at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works and other city departments showed that there was very little knowledge among the officials of the provisions of the bill. Eight officials were seen, and not one had read the bill, while the Commissioner of Public Works was not aware that there was any reference in the bill to the changing of grades.

AT THE GOVERNMENT OFFICES.

Lieut.-Col. Gillespie, the United States Army Engineer in charge of the Harlem River improvement, was seen. He said: "The Rivers and Harbors bill, if it becomes a law, will necessitate the elevation of all the bridges over the Harlem which are now less than 24 feet above the high water of spring tides. The opening and operation of these bridges will be under the regulation of the Secretary of War, who may, if he chooses, relegate these powers to the City of New York or any other constituted authority."

"What is the object in raising all the bridges to 24 feet above spring tides, when an ordinary schooner has a mast higher than 24 feet, not to speak of larger craft? When the Harlem Ship Canal is completed, and vessels of deep draught pass through, as is anticipated, will not these draws have to be opened frequently, as they are now; and if so, why go to the cost and inconvenience of elevating the lower bridges?"

"Well, sir," was Col. Gillespie's reply, "when the Harlem River improvement is completed numerous barges and their tows will be able to pass through, to and from the North River, which they cannot do now. These tugs and barges will be able to get through without the delay involved in opening the drawbridges, if all the bridges are at a height of 24 feet above high spring tide water; but should they, however, be left as they are now, any one of these bridges would be sufficient to make the Harlem River improvement useless. Hence the necessity of raising the bridges."

"Ships and other vessels will still have to pass through the draws?"

"Yes," said the Colonel, "but the vast majority of vessels passing through will be able to go under the bridges without the necessity of their being opened. This will be of great advantage to water as well as street traffic."

PRIOR STATE LAWS ON THE SUBJECT.

To understand the question more thoroughly it may be stated that Senator Ives' measure merely anticipates the elevation of the bridges which are not 24 feet above high spring tides, and which were built before the passage of the law of 1879, amending the law of 1876. The law, as originally passed in 1876 (chap. 147, laws 1876), granted to the United States "the right to acquire the right of way necessary for the improvement of the Harlem River and Spuyten Duyvil Creek, from the North River to the East River, through the Harlem Kills, and ceding jurisdiction over the same." This law was amended in 1879 (chap. 345, laws 1879, section 2 amending section 10 of the Laws of 1876), and the amendment provides "that the direction of the bridges, hereafter to be constructed over said river and creek, shall be at right angles to the courses of the improved channel; that the height of the bridges in the clear, at the draws, shall be not less than 24 feet above the high water of spring tides, and that the number and size of the bridge piers within the improved channel shall first be approved by the engineer of the United States in charge; and provided further, that no tunnel shall be constructed under said river or creek which will not permit of the excavation of a channel above it of at least 20 feet in depth at mean low water. There shall be constructed in every bridge, except in suspension bridges, hereafter built over said river or creek, two draws contiguous to each other, and the length on the bridge occupied by the draw spans and the centre pier separating them shall be at least 240 feet."

All bridges built over the Harlem subsequent to the passage of the act of 1879, have consequently been at least 24 feet above high spring tides. The following is a list, published for the first time, of the names and locations of all the bridges over the Harlem, with their respective heights above mean high water, and other information of considerable interest:

BRIDGES ACROSS THE HARLEM RIVES.

Name and Location of Bridge.	Width in clear in draws.	Height of bottom chords above mean high water.	Remarks.
Second avenue	103.7	28.5	Double draw R. R. bridge, iron.
Third avenue	82	13.8	Double draw road bridge, iron.
Fourth avenue	68	7.2	Double draw R. R. bridge, iron.
Madison avenue	132	28.0	Double draw road bridge, iron.
Macomb's Dam (Central av)	80	36.7	Double draw road bridge, wood and iron.
N. Y. C. & Nor. R. R. (8th avenue)	128	28.0	Double draw R. R. bridge, iron.
High Bridge (Old Aqueduct)	....	....	No draw; width in clear between piers, 77.7 ft, 100 above mean high water.
Washington Bridge (181st st)	...	...	No draw; iron arch, clear span, 500 ft, bottom of which 136.7 above mean high water.
Foot Bridge, Fordham	24.7	3.9	Single draw; wooden trestles.
Farmers's Bridge	....	3.1	No draw; two spans, 22 and 23 ft. wide.
King's Bridge	....	4.8	No draw; two spans, 18 and 25 ft. wide.
Hudson River R. R. Bridge at mouth of Spuyten Duyvil Creek	26.2	1.4	Single draw; wooden trestle.

Note 1.—Where the bridges have double draws, the width stated under heading "width in clear in draws," is the width in each draw, and not the combined width of both draws.

Note 2.—The measurements given under the heading "Height of bottom chords above mean high water," refer to the lower sides of the bottom chords, and give the clear height above mean high water.

It will be noticed that if the Rivers and Harbors bill becomes a Federal law and Senator Ives' bill a State law, six bridges over the Harlem will have to be raised; the Third Avenue Bridge about 10 feet, the Fourth Avenue Railroad Bridge (carrying the New York Central tracks) about 17 feet, more or less, and the Fordham, Farmers', Kings and Harlem River Railroad bridges from about 19 to 28 feet, more or less. This will involve proportionate changes of grades at and approaching to these several bridges.

In the Park Department it was ascertained that the raising of the Third Avenue Bridge would necessitate a change of the street, avenue and horse car track grades for some two or three blocks south and north of that bridge. This change will be a detriment to improved property along that distance, a detriment which can probably only be overcome by the increased business which is centring on and around 3d avenue, between 125th street and the Harlem River.

IS A TUNNEL UNDER THE HARLEM PRACTICABLE?

Engineer Webster, in the Department of Public Works, said: "It is practicable, but at a large cost. The law provides that if a tunnel be excavated the channel shall be 20 feet above it at mean low water. This would necessitate the building of the roof of the tunnel several feet further below still, for if a vessel, through some accident, grounded and was of sufficient weight to sink through the sand for several feet over the roof of the tunnel the roof might give way and the tunnel be flooded. Thus the roof would have to be built, for safety's sake, considerably below the bed of the river, while the tracks would have to be laid some 16 to 20 feet below the roof. This would necessitate an excavation of probably 50 feet below the river bed, and to do this the New York Central Road would have to commence to depress their tracks probably three-quarters of a mile south and north of the Harlem River, probably from about 115th or 116th street on the south side of the river along 4th avenue, and beyond the Mott Haven depot on the north."

FEDERAL ENGINEERS MEET ON THE MATTER.

The Board of Engineers constituted to investigate the matter of the alleged obstruction of navigation of certain bridges over the Harlem River met at 11 o'clock on Thursday morning at the office of the Engineers in the United States Army Building. Cols. Abbot, Comstock and Gillespie, who comprise the Board, were present.

Fordham Morris, speaking on behalf of himself and other property-owners along the line of the Harlem River improvement, complained of the Third Avenue Bridge, owing to its being such an interference to traffic, due to the frequent opening of the draw. F. Loomis, counsel to the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad; Walter Katte, chief engineer of that road; and Sherman Evarts, counsel for the New York City and Northern Road, were also present to represent their several companies. Assistant Corporation Counsel Chas. A. O'Neil was present on behalf of the city. After some discussion it was suggested that the investigation be postponed until the fate of the River and Harbor bill and the Harlem River Bridge bill was known. If these measures passed the objections raised could be met. All the parties interested agreed to the postponement.

$625 Saved—$12,500 Lost.

"Penny wise and pound foolish" has often been exemplified practically; but it is not often that an owner of real estate loses within two days $12,500, while saving $625 in broker's fees. Yet this happened the other day to Judge John J. Freedman.

The Judge had two lots which he wished to sell, situated on the south side of 125th street, beginning 125 feet west of Lenox avenue. In size they are 50x99.11. He undertook to be his own broker, and found a purchaser for them by chance in Henry Morgenthau. When the offer was first made, Mr. Morgenthau refused to consider it. Said he: "I am going to Europe for a time, and don't want to enter into any new transactions."

"How long will you be away?" asked the Judge.

"Six months," was the reply.

"Take the lots and I will give you a contract for six months."

Mr. Morganthau consented, and the price agreed upon was $62,500.

Now mark the sequel. Mr. Morganthau at once proceeded to do what Judge Freedman should have done before he undertook to sell his property. He consulted a broker, and the same day placed his newly-acquired lots in the hands of S. M. Brown, the real estate agent, who sold them at once to J. M. Horton for $70,000, an advance in a few hours of $7,500. Plainly the Judge might as easily have made this sum as Mr. Morganthau. Mr. Horton left his property in the hands of Broker Brown, who a day later again sold them, this time to E. D. Farrell, the furniture dealer, for $75,000, another advance of $5,000—$12,500 in all, equivalent to 20 per cent. above what Judge Freedman obtained. This sum represented the value of a broker's facilities. The moral of the tale is plain.

In connection with this matter it may be interesting to state that Judge Freedman purchased four lots, of which the two referred to above were part, on April 12, 1879, for $13,000, so that the Judge has not done so very badly after all.

Notice to Property-Owners

CITY OF NEW YORK, FINANCE DEPARTMENT,
COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE, May 8, 1890.

The Biscuit Trust.

ITS RECENT LEASE OF PROPERTY FOR THE ERECTION OF A GREAT FACTORY.

The organization of the New York Biscuit Co. has lately been completed with a capital of $10,000,000. Judge Wm. H. Moore, of Chicago, is president of the organization, which includes all the first-class houses in the business in New York, as well as Kennedy, of Chicago and Cambridgeport, and Bent & Co., of Milton, Mass., the manufacturers of the celebrated hard-water crackers. A lease of forty-five lots on 15th and 16th streets, extending from 10th avenue 560 feet easterly on both streets, has been secured by the company from the Bradish-Johnson estate for a term of sixty-five years, on terms which have not transpired. On part of these lots E. J. Larrabee & Co.'s biscuit factory stands, and the work of excavating has been commenced near 10th avenue preparatory to the erection of a first-class factory and office building at an expense of half a million dollars. The business will be managed by an executive committee of three, and it is claimed the combining of all the factories under one head will lead to the production of a better quality of biscuit, increased quantities and lower prices. Eventually, when the new buildings are completed, all the work will be done on the premises already mentioned. Architects Romeyn & Stever will draw the plans for the new buildings.

A Handsome Apartment House.

[COMMUNICATED.]

Apartment and dwelling houses centrally located always have been and always will be in demand, but it is doubtful if they have ever been so popular as in these days, when there is no quick and convenient way of getting from one part of the city to another, and when the chances for rapid transit in the future are so small. This demand has led to the building of large and elegantly appointed apartment houses where dwellings have formerly been. The people who lease these apartments are willing to pay large rents for comfortable homes, and so while these houses to suit the taste of the tenant must be built in the most approved manner, they will still pay a good interest on the money invested. One of the most recent examples of these apartment houses is the "Governor," an illustration of which is presented herewith. It is situated on the north side of 12th street, between 5th and 6th avenues. As will be seen, it is five stories high, with a handsomely carved brown stone front. The paneled courses and carved architraves sufficiently decorate the front, and the builder has wisely desisted from overdoing the thing. The doorway is wide and imposing, and the cornice entirely suitable. Altogether the front may be said to be a success.

The building is 50 feet wide by 90 feet deep, and each floor is divided into three apartments, except, of course, the first floor, where the hallway takes up the room occupied, in the case of the other floors, by the middle apartment. Above each window on the first floor is the head of a former Governor of the State of New York. These heads represent Cleveland, Tilden, Cornell, Hoffman and — in the centre over the doorway—Governor Hill. An attractive feature of the building is the bay, which runs from basement to roof. This bay takes in one each of the two windows belonging to the side apartment and the two windows in the middle apartment, and on the one side 5th avenue can be seen and on the other side of the house 6th avenue. The vestibule is large, roomy and attractive, made so by panels of French decorated glass representing various pretty scenes. The hall, like the vestibule, is of comfortable proportions. On each side, as you go in, are large French plate mirrors, 7x11 feet in size, which give the hall an endless appearance.

"THE GOVERNOR," 12TH STREET, BETWEEN 5TH AND 6TH AVENUES. Wm. Broadbelt, builder.

The building is heated by steam and there is a hall boy in attendance. On each side of the door are comfortable reception rooms, handsomely decorated in heavy relief work, representing bunches of grapes and the accompanying leaves and vine. This relief work is one of the features of the interior decoration. In some places in the halls it stands out six or seven inches from the wall, and it could only have been put in at great expense. On the first stairway landing are two heavy figures, which stand out at least five inches from the wall. This rich decoration is carried right up through the house, being varied on the different floors. Panels and other conventional figures, grape-vines, leaves and flowers are the subjects adopted by the decorator to enrich the walls of the hall and stairways. The colors used in this decoration are old ivory, cream and gold. The stairways run up on either side, and the house has been built with one entrance, principally to avoid the small halls which generally prevail in flat house construction. In an alcove fronting the hall door is a handsome bust of Mr. William Broadbelt, the owner and builder. Mr. Broadbelt is well known in building circles, having erected some very fine houses in New York, among which may be mentioned "The President," which has been referred to in a former issue, and this last apartment house, "The Governor." The hall is lighted by gas, the burners of which surmount handsome figures in bronze.

The apartments are divided up into seven, eight and nine rooms and bath. The parlors are finished in antique oak and the ceilings are frescoed. The chandeliers and other brass work is on a scale superior to that generally prevailing in apartment houses. The mantels, which are of oak, have onyx facings, and are surmounted by bevelled plate glass mirrors. The back parlor or bedroom is in antique oak, and is separated from the parlor by a portière. The bedrooms are handsomely papered and lighted by pendant gas fixtures on the same liberal scale as the front rooms. In each bedroom is a wash basin, with hot and cold water, constructed of Tennessee marble. Above the wash basin, which is situated in an alcove, are bevelled plate mirrors. The dining-room is finished in cherry, with a mantel of antique oak. The dome over the central burner is prettily decorated, and the whole room has a comfortable and attractive appearance. The ventilation of the bathroom is exceptionally good, and (what is unusual in flat houses) the baths are full size. The kitchen, which is roomy, is provided with a Richardson & Boynton "Providence" range, wash tubs and other conveniences. A servants' stairway, constructed entirely of iron, runs from basement to roof. The top hall is lighted by a handsome skylight.

Although this house has been finished only about three weeks eleven apartments out of the total of fourteen have already been rented, and it is likely that the others will not long remain empty.

Property in this vicinity is steadily advancing in value, and there is small chance of it ever decreasing.

This house would make a first-class investment for any one on the look out for a sure and steady income. ARGUS.

Real Estate Exchange Matters.

A meeting of the Committee of One Hundred was held on Friday afternoon, which decided that the chair should appoint a number of sub-committees to call on the other exchanges and labor organizations for the purpose of getting up a mass meeting to urge a special session of the Legislature for the purpose of passing some rapid transit measure.

Notice is given by the Commissioners of Public Parks that on Wednesday, June 11th, they will hear evidence in relation to the contemplated revision of the street system in the 23d and 24th Wards.

Notice is given by the Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment in the matter of acquiring title to that part of East 137th street extending from Rider avenue to Locust avenue, that the bill of costs will be presented to the Supreme Court on the 27th of May, and that the said bill has been deposited in the Department of Public Works, there to remain for the space of ten days.

The Board of Education received ten bids for the new Grammar School building, which is to be built on 10th avenue and 93d street. Of these the lowest was from P. J. Walsh, $172,000, and the highest from Mahoney Bros., $210,000. Mr. Walsh withdrew his bid on account of an error, and the trustees awarded the contract to Thos. Dwyer at $187,000. This makes the second successful bid Mr. Dwyer has made for school buildings.

Back Numbers Wanted.

Fifteen cents each will be paid for the following copies of THE RECORD AND GUIDE: Year 1887, Nos. 981, 989 and 992; year 1888, Nos. 1034 and 1035; year 1889, 1087 and 1099. Apply at office, 191 Broadway.

Real Estate Department.

The market this week has been rather dull, and very few large transactions are reported. There is a great deal of inquiry, and buyers seem to be plenty. The trouble is that property is held at figures that are too high for most of the investors. The points of interest this week in the reports of sales are those on 125th street, where large profits have been realized on quick sales, and the sales and re-sales at advanced figures of Astor property.

On 'Change city property has not fared very well, and, as we remarked last week, the auction market for this kind of realty is nearly over. On every day this week but Friday there has been some large sale of suburban property. These sales, on the whole, have been successful, as will be seen from the more detailed account of the week's doings which follows, and the outlook for the coming sales of suburban property is good.

On Monday there was a sale of 141 lots in the 24th Ward. The auctioneer commenced at 12 o'clock and finished shortly after 4 P. M. The prices were good and compare favorably with those obtained at the Briggs estate sale last October. On the north side of the Southern Boulevard lots sold on Monday for $925 and $970 each, while last October similar lots on the south side of the street brought only $830. Monday the northwest corner of Valentine avenue and Garfield street sold for $1,100; last year the southeast corner of the same streets sold for $760. The lots sold on Monday were situated on Anthony, Valentine, Briggs and Bainbridge avenues, Garfield and Suburban streets and the Southern Boulevard. The prices ranged from $585 to $2,200; this latter figure being the amount paid for an extra large plot. The total realized from the sale was $120,150, or a little over $859 for each lot. Few speculators were in the large crowd in front of the auctioneer's, James L. Wells, stand, and most of those present looked as though they were clerks, small merchants, shopkeepers and the like, who wished to invest in a home. Several ladies stayed through the sale, and some of them purchased lots. Among those present were: Hugh N. Camp, John D. Armstrong, Thomas Dunne, Wm. H. Valentine, Wm. R. V. Berth, Edward J. Connell, B. Shaide, Alderman Cavanagh, Philip Duffy, Wm. Stebbins Smith, Hugh Martin, Wm. Gallagher, P. V. Bussing, Walker Billows, Thos. K. Lennon, A. D. Davis, C. Danenbaun, C. Stigele, W. L. Kneeland, John F. Murray, E. Elliott and M. Wolff.

On Tuesday there was a fair attendance on 'Change. The bidding, however, lacked spirit, and much of the property put up was bid in for the owner's account. No. 169 Clinton street sold for $9,925 to Jacob Silverstein; the property adjoining this parcel in the rear and fronting on Grand street, No. 403, was withdrawn. A four-story dwelling on 74th street sold for $40,200. A five-story flat on the corner of 3d avenue and 104th street, on a lot 20x100 feet, sold for $40,750. To close the estate of the late Commodore Cornelius K. Garrison, Auctioneer Richard V. Harnett offered some property in Bergen and Union Counties, New Jersey, and about 320 lots in the 23d Ward. A fairly large crowd was present, consisting chiefly, if one may judge from appearances, of mechanics and tradesmen and domestic servants, who could probably afford to purchase one or two lots each. The fact that this 23d Ward property was offered in large plots of lots instead of single lots discouraged bidding from the start, and with the exception of two lots the whole property was bid in for the heirs for about $45,000. It was rumored that this sale had only been held so that a clear title could be had, and that the parties in interest had had an offer for the entire property of $70,000 from some wealthy capitalists some three weeks before the sale. The fact that these lots were offered in blocks instead of singly lends color to this rumor of a good offer previous to the auction.

On Wednesday there was a large crowd in attendance at the auction sales. No. 86 Eldridge street, near Grand street, sold for $20,100 to Morris Glass. No. 236 East 12th street, east of 3d avenue, sold to John Grey for $15,650. The sale of twenty-one lots on 99th street, between Madison and Park avenues was not by any means a success. The only one sold was the southeast corner of Madison avenue and 99th street, which brought $10,000. On the others the auctioneer could get no bid. No. 61 East 122d street, a five-story flat, sold to Geo. H. Scheffler for $28,150. On Wednesday there was another large sale of suburban property. This sale was of 293 lots at Bay Ridge known as the Daniel Van Brunt estate and belonging to the Prospect Land and Improvement Company. These lots brought all the way from $150 to $310 each, and they were sold for the greater part in plots of five and ten lots. The largest buyers were Captain Edgett, H. D. Smith, Chas. S. Downey and M. A. Farrell. Another land company has been organized in Bay Ridge and they at present control about 1,100 lots. It is probable that some of these will be shortly put up on the market.

On Thursday little business of importance was transacted on 'Change. The southwest corner of Broome and Goerck streets, 50x100, with the frame buildings thereon, sold for $31,000, to which figure it was advanced from the first bid of $25,000. The lot on the southwest corner of 2d avenue and 95th street sold for $7,525. Adjoining avenue lots sold for $5,300 and $5,100 each and the street lots on the rear sold for $3,950 and $3,100 each. To close the estate of Paul A. Oliver 163 lots at Fort Hamilton were sold at prices ranging from $100 to $2,000 each. The large buyers included Bryan McSwyny, the shoemaker, J. Robinson, E. Rafter, S. B. Duryea, J. P. Farrell, W. Thom, E. Wilbur and W. Carroll. The total realized from the lots was about $105,268, or in the neighborhood of $646 per lot.

On Friday the two legal sales advertised were adjourned.

On Tuesday, May 20th, John F. B. Smyth will sell No. 450 Washington street, Nos. 334 and 336 East 26th street, No. 611 Lexington avenue, Nos. 159 and 161 East 103d street, and the four-story brown stone flat, lot 25x100, No. 169 East 91st street.

On Tuesday, May 20th, Smyth & Ryan will sell at auction, by order of the executors, to close the estate of Mary J. Genin, deceased, the four-story brown stone dwelling, lot 20x100.5, No. 26 East 54th street, and the four-story brown stone dwelling, 19x95x104.5, No. 50 East 69th street. On the same day the same firm will sell six lots on Manhattan avenue, 129th and 130th streets, midway between the Grand Boulevard and 12th avenue.

On Tuesday, May 20th, J. Thomas Stearns will sell 125 lots on Webster, Crestline and Brook avenues, adjoining Claremont Park. This property has an interesting history. It is part of the old Morris Farm, and has been held by descendants of the family of that name for two hundred years. Elliott Zborowski, the present owner, is a son of Ann E. Morris, wife of Martin Zabriskie. The family has traced its genealogy back many generations on the father's side to its Russian origin, while on the mother's side it has a history extending back to Richard Morris, an officer of Oliver Cromwell. He came to this country in 1650 and purchased 3,000 acres of land from the Indians. His descendants have nearly all occupied positions of distinction. The titles are guaranteed by the Lawyers' Title Insurance Company, and a policy will be furnished free to each buyer.

On Wednesday, May 21st, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell two French roof dwellings on Bennet avenue, West New Brighton, S. I.; the three-story brown stone dwelling, 16.6x55x80, No. 845 Lexington avenue; the four-story brick tenement, 25x62x100.11½, No. 240 East 108th street; forty-eight choice villa plots, situated on Pierrepont Park and Ridge avenues, Chestnut street and Wheaton place, Rutherford, N. J.; the four-story brick tenement, 25x60x81.11, No. 1979 3d avenue; the four-story brick flat No. 248 West 40th street, and the three-story brick dwelling No. 250 West 40th street.

On Wednesday, May 21st, Adrian H. Muller & Son will sell, by order of the rector, wardens and vestrymen of the Church of Zion and St. Timothy, the church property known as Zion's Church, on the southeast corner of Madison avenue and 38th street. The lot has a frontage of 98.9 on the avenue by 125 on the street, and is in an attractive locality.

On Wednesday, May 21st, John F. B. Smyth will sell the four-story brick building, lot 25x90.11, on the north side of 110th street, 225 east of the Boulevard; three four-story brown stone flats, lots 20x100 each, Nos. 665, 667 and 669 Carroll street, Brooklyn; the five-story brick double flat, 25x85x100.11, No. 251 West 123d street; and the three-story brick building with store, No. 17 8th avenue.

On Thursday, May 22d, John F. B. Smyth will sell the three-story brown stone dwelling on the northeast corner of Lexington avenue and 85th street; a vacant plot, 33x103.3, on the south side of 14th street, 305 west of Avenue C; two lots, 25x99.11 each, on the north side of 134th street, 385 west of 5th avenue; the five-story brick double tenement, lot 25x70, No. 38 Stanton street; a lot, 25x130, on Inwood avenue, in the 24th Ward, 50 feet south of Wolf place; and the five-story brick tenement, 25x85x100.5, No. 326 West 49th street.

On Thursday, May 22d, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell the three five-story brick double flats Nos. 332, 334 and 336 East 77th street, 25x90x102.2 each; the three-story stone dwelling No. 161 West 71st street; the three-story brick dwelling, 18.8x49x74.11, No. 249 East 128th street; an irregular plot, with frame buildings thereon, on the northeast corner of 10th avenue and 65th street, and the two five-story brick tenements on the southwest corner of 10th avenue and 65th street.

On Friday, May 30th (Decoration Day), James L. Wells will sell on the ground the Henry Stoney estate, consisting of a residence and 112 lots situated on Tremont, Prospect, and Marmion avenues, Elsmere place and Fairmount place, Tremont, 24th Ward. The ground is high, is supplied with city conveniences, and is only a few blocks from the Tremont station of the Harlem Railroad. The lots are sold separately. The title is guaranteed free of cost by the Lawyers' Title Insurance Company, and 60 per cent. of the purchase money can remain on bond and mortgage at 5 per cent.

On Tuesday, May 20th, H. C. Mapes & Co. will sell, to close the estate of the late Charlton Ferris, over 112½ acres of land with improvements, at Throgg's Neck, Westchester, N. Y. They are variously situated on the Eastern Boulevard, Westchester Creek and Long Island Sound, about one mile from Westchester station, and in the vicinity of the places of Jacob Lorillard, C. P. Huntington and John A. Morris. Seventy-five per cent. of the purchase money may remain on bond and mortgage.

On Saturday, May 31st, James L. Wells will sell on the grounds a portion of the Perot estate, situated on the historic heights of Kingsbridge, overlooking the Harlem valley. Eighty-six choice lots will be sold, located on Sedgwick avenue and the old Boston road. Railroad stations, both on the New York Central Road and the New York City & Northern are but a few minutes' walk from the property. Sixty per cent. of the purchase money may remain on bond and mortgage at 5 per cent. and the title is guaranteed to each purchaser by a policy of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company.

Gossip of the Week.

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

Jacob Bookman was one of the buyers of the Astor properties recently sold at private contract. Mr. Bookman purchased Nos. 218, 254 and 256 Bowery for $105,000, and two lots at Vandam and Macdougal streets for $30,000. Other parcels sold were Nos. 258 and 260 Bowery for about $50,000 and the old building on the northeast corner of Bowery and Houston streets, 25x70, for $70,000.

Henry Mandelbaum, who purchased Nos. 678 and 680 Water street from W. W. Astor, has resold the same to J. L. Buttenwieser at an advance.

One of the parcels recently sold by W. W. Astor embraced six lots on 18th and 19th streets, between 8th and 9th avenues, three on each street. Louis Lese is the buyer, and $25,000 the price. Mr. Lese only buys the land, which is leased until 1935 at $150 per annum per lot. Other parcels sold by Mr. Astor on which there are long leases are on Rivington and Ludlow streets.

Korn Bros. have purchased six lots on Ludlow street, Nos. 110–120, from W. W. Astor, for $90,000. The size is 150x87.6 feet. Leases on these lots have several years to run.

John R. Foley & Son have sold for F. Lewine to H. Herman No. 53 Bowery, a four-story brick building, 25x153 feet, for $55,000; Mr. Lewine purchased this property a couple of weeks ago from W. W. Astor for $50,000.

Hoffman Bros. have purchased from the Mack estate No. 85 Franklin street, a five-story marble front building, 25x100 feet, on private terms.

Edward W. Candee has sold to Edwin Holmes, the burglar alarm man, No. 169 West 57th street, a four-story Belleville stone and brick dwelling, 20x60x100 feet, and to Adolph Bernheimer No. 115 West 57th street, a similar dwelling.

Ex-Mayor Smith Ely has purchased the two five-story stores, 20x50 feet each, Nos. 99 and 101 North Moore street, from Ottinger Brothers for $25,500. Riker & Co., brokers.

Douglas Robinson, Jr., & Co. and A. E. Marling have sold for the Carter estate, to Wm. Hoppin, Jr., No. 47 West 53d street, a four-story brown stone dwelling, 20x60x100.5, for about $43,000.

Louis Lese has purchased from Mr. Crody, Nos. 32 and 34 Jackson street, 50x100, for $34,000. On No. 32 there is a three-story tenement on the front and a four-story tenement on the rear. On the front of No. 34 is a five-story and on the rear a four-story tenement.

Fred. A. Carll has sold for Michael H. Gillespie the five-story apartment houses, Nos. 339 and 341 West 31st street, each 25x88.9, to James Van Buskark for $80,000; also for Alexander Bros. to A. Marks, No. 19 West 3d street, an old building, 18.10x75, for $22,500.

Morris B. Baer & Co. have sold for the estate of W. Wandell, No. 241 West 39th street, a four-story, high stoop, brown stone dwelling, 16.8x50x100, for $15,300.

S. H. Stone, of the Rent Guarantee Company, has sold for Wm. H. Ramsay the five-story tenement, 25x89x100, No. 412 Madison street, to B. B. Zippert for $37,000.

Keeler & Greenman have sold the five-story double tenement, 25x60x100, No. 204 East 44th street, for J. W. Stinson to Mr. Rose for $20,500.

A. Carey has sold No. 16 East 131 street, northwest corner of Madison avenue, a four-story brown stone dwelling, 25x60x100 feet.

Peter Sheridan has sold the three-story brick private dwelling, No. 98 Clinton street, for $11,000 to David Marx, and has purchased for $7,500 from Eliza Jennings the three-story brick private dwelling, No. 302 East 41st street.

Geo. W. Mercer has sold for Frederick Hughson, Secretary New York Savings Bank, the dwelling No. 347 West 22d street, to Chas. P. Kuper for $16,000.

It is reported that No. 328 Lexington avenue is sold.

D. Kempner & Son have sold the five-story brown stone double flat No. 328 West 47th street, 28x35x100 feet, to G. Zink for $31,000.

Henry Waters has sold to Dr. B. M. Feldman the five-story and basement apartment house, No. 117 Henry street, size 25x77.6x87.6. Price $40,000.

Two brokers who know the section well estimate as follows on what the Zion Church property, corner of Madison avenue and 38th street, will bring at auction next Wednesday. There are five lots, four on the avenue and one on the street. The first estimate was $269,500 and the second $315,000. The first estimate is arrived at as follows: $120,000 for two lots on the corner, $90,000 for the two adjoining on avenue, and $35,000 for the street lot—total, $245,000 plus 10 per cent., or $24,500 for getting five lots together.

NORTH OF 59TH STREET.

Leopold Kahn has purchased Nos. 252 and 254 West 125th street, 50x99.11, with the frame buildings thereon, for $97,500. Mr. Kahn will improve the plot by the erection of two six-story flats.

Picken & Lilly have sold for Mrs. Richardson to Higgins & King the northeast corner of Lexington avenue and 82d street, 87x102.2, for $53,000, for improvement.

John J. Clancy has sold for John J. Suydam for $32,500 the lot, 25.6x100, on the west side of 9th avenue, 125.6 feet north of 80th street and the lot, 25.6x151x37.6x151, on the north side of 80th street, 100 feet west of 9th avenue, and connecting with the rear of the avenue lot.

P. C. Eckhardt has sold for Isaac Boehm to Mrs. J. Schmid for $52,000 the northeast corner of Avenue B and 11th street, a five-story tenement with stores; for the Misses Panzeis to G. Sommers for $38,500 the five-story brown stone flat No. 364 West 51st street; for Wm. Rankin to Hugh Reilly for $37,000 No. 792 9th avenue, a five story tenement with stores; for Dr. H. N. Haase the three-story and basement dwelling No. 431 West 47th street to M. A. Gemmer for $15,000; and for Mrs. J. Schmid the five-story brown stone double flat No. 452 West 48th street for $24,000.

Chas. F. White has sold No. 1674 9th avenue, a five-story flat and stores, 26.8x75x100 feet, for M. Furlong to N. Van der Zandt for $25,500; for F. Yost to Bella D. Dent No. 103 West 100th street, a five-story flat, 25x80x100 feet, for $28,500; and for Mr. Yost to Henry S. Day No. 105 West 100th street, a similar flat, for $25,500.

The option on a plot of two lots at the southeast corner of 5th avenue and 59th street has been surrendered. It will be remembered a movement was started to erect a United Club building on the site, and a couple of months ago an option at $220,000 was taken after the lots had been sold to Judge Dugro and others at $200,000. It was found impracticable to set in motion all those large bodies, the various societies, although the individual members of societies and clubs have expressed themselves in favor of the idea and plan.

Richard D. Kehoe has sold for Fred. S. Myers the three brick tenements, sizes 28x40, 25x72, 16x45, east side of Broadway, 28 feet south of 131st street, to Elizabeth A. Herring for $30,000.

Robert Murray has sold a plot of nine lots on the north side of 120th street, 400 feet west of Lenox avenue, to E. T. Smith, for immediate improvement.

Hirsh Bros. have sold the three lots on the south side of 124th street, 75 feet east of Lenox avenue, for improvement.

J. W. Kelly has sold for Charles Riley the five-story brown stone apartment house, 25x86x100, No. 139 West 60th street to Alfred Roe for $29,500.

Wilcox & Gibbs have sold to Philip Lahr, for about $9,000, No. 431 East 84th street, a three-story brown stone dwelling, 15.7x52x102 feet.

Chas. S. Kohler has sold for Giblin & Taylor the Leamington flat No. 90 West 89th street, size 36.4x86x100.8, to Mrs. Helen Schnoter, on private terms.

Fifty-seven lots on 86th and 87th streets, between Central Park West and Columbus avenue, owned by Elliott Zborowski, have been withdrawn from the market. It is rumored that it is the intention of Mr. Zborowski to improve the 87th street portion of his property.

MAMARONECK, N. Y.—An English company of capitalists has begun operations here upon an extensive scale, and the building improvements at present under way and in prospect, as the result, will form a noteworthy feature in this section. The company has a factory nearing completion which has cost $100,000, or more, to build, and in further development of its purposes will erect fifty, or more, two and two-and-a-half-story frame cottages. D. T. Atwood is at present engaged upon plans for twenty of these buildings, which will vary in size from 20x36 and 30x40 to 45x50. There will also be three three-story business buildings for stores, all representing an expenditure of about $75,000 additional in the immediate future. Just when the full number of cottages (fifty) will be completed cannot now be stated ; but it can be safely asserted that the scheme, as laid out, will be fully developed without delay.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y.—John A. Hamilton has completed plans for a three-story frame Colonial cottage, 37x37, shingle finish, cabinet trim, to be built for E. D. Griggs, at a cost of $10,000.

Special Notices.

Stabler & Smith, real estate agents and brokers, of 1187 9th avenue, corner of 72d street, and 31 Nassau street, make a specialty of handling investment properties on the upper west side, and they now have some bargains to offer. Among others are some tenements near the 104th street "L" station, which are offered under pressure at a figure which will net the buyer a good profit, and on which only a small sum must be paid in cash; also, with a loan, a plot of unrestricted street lots, the nearest to the 72d street station

Jacob W. Smith, of No. 220 West 29th street, has for sale Nos. 72, 74 and 76 East 125th street, 50x85x100, 90 feet west of Park avenue. The plot is occupied with stores and flats, which are well rented and are held at a reasonable price. He also has for sale a private dwelling, No. 111 West 121st street, for $22,000.

James Matthews & Son, of 509 East 18th street and No. 172 East 110th street, desire to call the attention of the building trades to a number of dumb waiter doors manufactured by them under the supervision of Max Kelling, the inventor and patentee of the same. Among these are the Champion door and casing, the Excelsior door and casing, the Excelsior door and frame, and others. The prices range from $6 to $13. These articles have already proved popular, as may be seen from the following list of builders who have used them on houses in which they have been put: David Christie, 70th street and 9th avenue; John Hickey, 111th street, near 5th avenue; John G. Karst, 108th street and 3d avenue; Michael Benson, 114th street and 8th avenue; Arthur Smith, 87th street and Madison avenue; Edward Smith, 91st street and 10th avenue; Francis J. JUDGMENTS.

In these lists of judgments the names alphabetically arranged, and which are first on each line, are those of the judgment debtor. The letter (D) means judgment for deficiency. (*) means not summoned. (†) signifies that the first name is fictitious, real name being unknown. Judgments entered during the week, and satisfied before day of publication, do not appear in this column, but in list of Satisfied Judgments

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

[For prices see pages XII., XIII., XIV. and XV.]

BRICKS.—Up to the present writing the general conditions of the market for Common Hards cannot be said to have made any pronounced improvement, but on the contrary the selling side has made a further loss during the week with the plane of valuation moderated to a still lower peg. It seems to have been simply a repetition of the old story, a constant excess of supply over all outlets, with a plethora of inferior stock, the forced sale of which acted as a dead weight upon the entire market, creating a feeling of tameness and depression impossible to overcome, and each and every negotiation had to be conducted on its own merits, with rates fixed according to immediate governing circumstances. About the lowest we have learned of was some Keyports at $4.25, and Up Rivers dipped down to $4.50 exceptionally, though on the latter $5.00 was the average inside, and $6.00 about bottom on any Haverstraws that could be considered merchantable with the average best ranging at $6.50 per M, and some of the exceptional makes touching at $6.75 per M. On Hackensacks about $5.50 was all that could be depended upon, and the sales slow. Under the edge of the disagreeable cloud that has so long been hanging over the market, however, some of the trade think they can at last discover a gleam of promising light, and there is a disposition to speak more cheerfully of the prospects, It is claimed as a matter of fact that, overshadowed by the liberality of the supply, demand has been really growing somewhat, and of late not only commences to eat into and reduce the first hand accumulations, but has provided a place for a goodly portion of the secondhand supply, upon which dealers have been falling back when they felt like neglecting the cargo market, and as work gets along and the consumption grows the possibilities that the worst has passed are strong. New brick are of course becoming a more liberal and important factor daily, but the quality is good and attractive, which is likely to pull up the line of value somewhat, and the recent run of wet days has probably interfered with production to some extent. Pales have sold as low as $2.25 per M., but latterly appear to secure more attention, and are now quoted at $2.50@$3.00, according to quality.

CEMENT AND ENAMELED BRICK DUTIES.—At a recent meeting of importers organized to protest against the provisions of the Tariff bill now before Congress, it is said that for the Sub-Committee on Cement, Enameled Bricks, etc., Mr. Erskine W. Fisher presented the following, showing the changes in the tariff on Portland cement, per barrel of 400 pounds:

Net cost.	Present duty.	Duty under Administrative Bill.	Duty under McKinley Tariff Bill.
$1.05	$0.21	$0.84	$0.32

But there is such ambiguity in the proposed legislation that it cannot be said whether the enactment of the Tariff bill, with its proposed specific rate of 8 cents per 100 pounds will supersede the Administrative bill or no. If the duty is to be charged on packages at an average value of 50 cents as seems to be intended by the Administrative bill, and also a specific duty on the cement and the package, as provided by the McKinley Tariff bill, the duty would be 40 cents per barrel, or 100 per cent increase upon the present rate.

The total importation during 1889 was about 2,000,000 barrels, but extensive engineering works undertaken this year have increased the demand by from 30 to 40 per cent.

The manufacture of Portland cement in the United States is so limited that it has had but little effect upon imports, besides which, from the fact that the necessary raw material required for the manufacture of artificial Portland cement is not found in the United States, the domestic cement is not used on works of consequence, and a high protective tariff would lead to the discouragement of important enterprises, or bring disaster and ruin, as illustrated in the recent and sad catastrophe at Johnstown, Pa.

Mr. Charles R. Weeks, from the same committee, reported that the tariff on enameled bricks which, under the present law is 20 per cent. ad valorem, was increased by the McKinley Tariff bill to 45 per cent. ad valorem. The only effect of this exorbitant increase would be to discourage the use of these ornamental bricks or to increase the revenue of the Government therefrom.

LATH.—The market has really undergone no change during the interval since our last. The demand exhibited little spirit, and buyers appeared rather inclined to take matters in a slow and easy manner, but receivers have not been bothered with much stock at hand coastwise or advices of any great amount to come, and supported the former range of value without apparent difficulty, say $2.30@2.35 per M, with latest sales at outside price. Receivers of Eastern stock are evidently a little fretful over the Canada price, lath still coming to hand with more or less freedom. Some of this stock is very good and some of it is not, and dealers take advantage of the low rates at which they obtain the poor stuff in an effort to depress the entire market.

LIME.—Further arrivals have come to hand, and while the market could probably have worried along with a smaller quantity the bulk has now about all been disposed of, and leaves the position in fair shape. The plan of billing lump as common, referred to in our last, has also proveu successful in working off the surplus without actually cutting rates and the tone is steadier. Matters at the Eastward are said to be somewhat unsettled again. We are informed that the Manufacturers' Association really came to end May 5th, but that a supplementary agreement was entered into to hold together one month more, when a more extended renewal will be considered. Some of the trade here think the chances favorable for no combination and an open market.

LUMBER.—No little quiet amusement may be extracted from this market during a canvas for information, by comparing the conflicting statements of operators and the more or less pronounced manner in which each claims positive correctness, while all disagreeing reports are set down as either a little shaky or absolutely false. The experience, however, is by no means a new one, nor does it indicate an irregularity of very serious proportions, indeed only a sort of surface ripple on a stream that is running pretty full in the way of general business, especially so far as the regular standard lines of stock may be concerned. Orders for specific jobs, special cuts for yard stock against a well established regular line of consumption, and desirable random all receive more or less attention from consumers and dealers, with deliveries agreed upon according to necessity, some with the date fixed well on toward the end of the season. A great many fair sales are still making to meet European calls, but principally in hardwoods and with the usual provision that quality shall be carefully and closely selected.

Eastern Spruce has made no gain of late, and buyers are claiming to discover evidence of a coming easing off in the line of cost. It has been a settled policy with dealers ever since the season opened, and the full plane of cost became evident, to abstain as much as possible from contracting ahead for supplies except where the exigencies of certain classes of work compelled such course, and they remain in the same mood, the demand in pretty much every instance having no other incentive than the most positive necessity. This is in part due to the wider variety of competing woods now available, and in part to the fact that since open weather a great many cargoes, off and on, have put in an appearance from the Eastern coast, and the high rates of freight have attracted a pretty fair supply of vessels. Any buyer who stands off for an early drop in value, however, is pretty sure to meet with disappointment. Maine has been favored with some heavy rains; but it remains to be seen whether the streams will float the logs to booms, or hang up a great many along the banks as is frequently the result of a too rapid use of water.

Piling retains the quite healthy conditions so long prevailing on the market, and there is little or no grumbling except from those in want of stock. It is understood that about every stick of desirable size received thus far this season has passed into actual consumption, and that even short and small stock also found an excellent outlet, with receivers claiming ability to find custom for everything they can safely offer for many weeks to come.

Hemlock seems to be in favor all over the country this spring, many Western points in particular recording an excellent demand. In this locality certainly the movement has kept up well and with good effect. Many of the Pennsylvania producers maintain a stiff, indifferent tone toward the market in view of the fact that they have been enabled to reach out and secure custom at a great many other localities at quite as good relative run of prices as those prevailing here. The State product, too, is held with comparative firmness, and does not appear likely to become an important depressing factor for some time ahead.

White Pine remains in much the former general condition. There appears to be a portion of the trade peculiarly sensitive over any suggestion that this description of wood has lost its prestige as the leading or dictatory grade, and they rather strain a point at times in endeavoring to shape reports to their desires Most operators, however, claim no more than the same average trade current for some time past on the distributive outlet, and the investment in stock for supplies is fair. Dealers, however, are somewhat erratic in opening out their wants, and this fact has sent salesmen hunting about in other markets with quite successful results in some instances. Some negotiation for export continues, but lacks force and liberality, and is mainly of a regular character.

Yellow Pine retains all the former generally excellent features. A good steady demand, harmony and uniform work among the retailers simply reflecting similar conditions on the part of receivers and manufacturers for a round of influence that should and does afford sound, healthy and generally satisfactory results in the matter of business. There is a little friction now and then over some of the extra difficult schedules, but after proper negotiation matters gradually straighten out with concessions coming in the main from the buying side. A fair export trade is doing f. o. b., but the latest advices from England were not very encouraging.

Carolina Pine retains as full proportion of attention as at any time this season and business seems to be working along swimmingly, the local mills and all those at primary points understanding the wants of this market finding about as much as they can attend to. "Cut rates" are occasionally heard of and traceable as usual to poor stock or a new seller advertising. Timber is generally well spoken of from the selling side but already many who have tried it are finding fault and wishing for the time when spruce will drop to a cost at which it can be handled.

Hardwoods do not sell readily on a promiscuous offering from first hands as dealers are quite particular in matter of selection. That creates more or less comment among manufacturers and their agents not conversant with this market, but who appear to labor under the impression that buyers are standing with outstretched hands to take anything offered them. Salutary lessons, with consigned goods, etc., have had considerable effect and the pressure to realize is gradually becoming reduced. Demand from consumers has been reasonably full and general and there was also more or less chance on the export outlet, with really desirable stuff in all cases commanding full rates.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Timberman as follows:

CHICAGO.

Cargo Market — Vessels of every size, shape, variety and condition crowded the docks at the cargo market the first of the week, but as much cannot be said for their contents, a greater part of which consisted of mill culls and No. 2 boards. This class of stock was worked off slowly, but all good lumber that arrived found ready sale.

Commission men are not making any new vessel charters, neither are they sending any of their own vessels back for loads, and say they will not until they have better business. Dealers would have been willing to take all in sight, at their own figures, but the commission men are as determined to keep the market stiff as the dealers are to break it, and for this reason they are holding back shipments.

Nearly all the piece stuff that has arrived during the past week or ten days has been green, the stock of dry having been about exhausted by the first few shipments. Short green was being offered at $9.50 and cargoes with a fair proportion of long at $9.75@10. The most desirable cargoes brought $11, and the little dry that was on sale brought fifty cents more than the green.

Good inch, what there was of it, sold readily at $15 to $17, and in a few cases even a shade better. Common inch brought $11.50@13.50 and 1 cull $6.50@7.50.

Hemlock has been offered quite freely, and prices are probably a dollar lower than at the opening of navigation. One firm has a contract to furnish half a million of hemlock at $9.50, but this is special stock, to be used for railroad stringers. Ordinary piece stuff sells at about $7.50.

As near as can be learned, the hardwood trade has suffered but little from the carpenters' srrike and other labor troubles attendant upon the eight-hour movement May 1st. There may have been something more than the usual slacking up the last of the month, but an active trade during the first half will bring the average about up with former years, and for the first four months this year many dealers claim their sales run from 10 to 25 per cent. ahead of the same four months in 1889.

The Nortwestern Lumberman as follows:

Lumberman on both sides of the line are watching with much interest to see whether the Senate tariff bill, with the lumber clause agreed upon by the Ways and Means Committee, shall become a law. In case it does there will be another such a shaking up as the box shook men received last year. It is only a question of time when Canadian logs will be imported into this country upon reasonable terms.

The denudatics began forty or more years ago to say that the timber was about gone in various parts of the country—that it would last only a few years longer—and they are still at it. It would be instructive reading for some of the latter-day forestry pessimists to take up some of the ancient and yellow volumes of years ago and see what asses the timber theorists of those days are made to appear, in the light of past and present events.

The cargo movement in the Saginaw Valley, though fair, does not manifest the life or evince the volume of former years. Too much of the Eastern requirement now seeks a supply farther up the lakes.

Buyers of high grade and good common lumber are active all around the lakes. There is evidently a scarcity of the better grades of white pine. The determination of Eastern buyers to command the larger share of good stock has intensified competition between the buyers of the rival sections, and we now have the remarkable instance of the East overbidding the West in the strife for the best mill cuts.

The cargo trade on Lake Michigan is thus placed in a peculiar position. It is forced to take care of a large product of coarse lumber, with comparatively little good stock with which to secure a fair profit. At the same time framing lumber and inch stock of the coarser grades are selling at declining prices, under the competition of yellow pine and stuff from cheaper stumpage, subject to a comparatively low handling bill, that comes from Wisconsin. Such depression as pertains to the Lake Michigan cargo market mainly results from the causes named. Later in the season, after building operations in this city have been fully resumed and got under headway, matters may greatly improve. Already, at Manistee, the inquiry for bill stuff is active. At that point railway and building timber, mainly Norway, is cut as a specialty, and the mills there are often full of work when those at points where inch lumber and ordinary short piece stuff are the main dependence, sales are meager.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman says:

But while the fall of moisture in the Northwest has been sufficient to improve the prospects for a crop it has not been sufficient to better the condition on the drives. Streams are low for this season of the year, driving crews have in some instances been withdrawn, and there is very general complaint that the logs are coming hard. Not enough embarrassment has been encountered yet to cause any apprehension that there will be a shortage of logs, but mills will not be crowded in the early part of the season as they might have been had there been good water and an early and abundant supply of logs. There is yet time for heavy rains and bank full streams. Mill men are getting anxious, however, to start up. Only a part of the mills in Minneapolis are running yet, although accessions are being made daily to the number. This is true throughout all the Northwest. Very few mills will be idle by the end of the coming week.

SOUTH AMERICA.

Late mails from Rio Janeiro report:

Pitch Pine—Receipts are 760,269 feet, per Charles E. Lefurgey, 571,237 feet per Leif, 552,265 feet per Nora, and 476,165 feet per Mary E. Chapman, all from Pensacola. The first, second and last cargoes were sold p. t., and that per Nora comes to a dealer. The market is reported steady and we may quote at 33$000@34$000 per dozen. White Pine—Receipts nil. Brokers reduce quotations to 1.0@115 rs. per foot. Swedish Pine—The cargo per May, referred to in our last, is on order. Quotations are still nominal. Spruce Pine—Nothing to report.

ENGLAND.

The Timber Trades Journal as follows:

LONDON.

American Woods—Black Walnut, Whitewood, Oak, &c.: A good and well-sustained trade is being done in lumber in all these descriptions, but, as we have before remarked, it is the good qualities which are in most request, the demand for poor descriptions being still very limited. Logs are not so much inquired for.

Sequoia.—This market does not appear to be so depressed as it seemed to be some time back. We hear of its being largely used in the manufacture of cheap furniture, but makers of better class work do not regard it with much favor.

LIVERPOOL.

The import of pitch pine still continues to be upon ample lines and is likely to be so, as several vessels which sailed on or about the same date as the W. G. Russell must be close at hand, the latter vessel, as well as the Sigrid, having arrived during the past few days. If we could have a cessation of imports of this class of timber for a month or two the market would

SURROGATES NOTICE.—IN PURSUANCE of an order of Hon. Rastus S. Ransom, Surrogate of the City and County of New York, Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against DAVID G. CROLY, late of the City of New York, deceased, to present the same with vouchers thereof to the subscribers, at their place of transacting business at the office of Jacobs Brothers, No. 335 Broadway, in the City of New York, on or before the 7th day of June, 1890, next.

Dated, NEW YORK, the 12th day of December, 1889.

JACOBS BROTHERS, Attorneys for Executors, office and post-office address, 335 Broadway, New York City.

rapidly right itself, as there is a more than fair demand existing. The large orders for the Mersey Docks and Harbor Board, the Manchester Ship Canal, and export orders for Buenos Ayres, would make themselves felt in a speedy reduction of the stocks if the import was curtailed. This is not, however, likely to be the case, as several more cargoes are on the way here, and unless the shippers stay their hands in sending further supplies upon the market we are not likely to see any improvement in prices. The result of this must eventually rebound upon the exporters. It is true the consumption for the past month has been abnormally large for both sawn and hewn pitch pine, but this has arisen from peculiar circumstances. It is again likely to be the case during the present month, for the market will be depleted by the deliveries of the exceptional orders to which we have referred above.

METALS.—Copper—The heavy deal in ingot copper advised at the close of our last report was followed up by several more transactions of considerable magnitude, including a large proportion of the bankers' holdings, some of the trade think all of it, with a steady gain in value as an almost natural sequence. Latterly the market has quieted down somewhat and the advance is checked. Consumers and buyers generally appear to have secured enough stock for present wants through the investments made, and business now takes more of a routine character, but the position is kept very well under control, and possibly only a small fractional allowance could be obtained from the extreme rates touched. Quotations are generally placed at 15@15½c. for Lake and 12⅞@13½c. for casting brands. Manufactured Copper meets with good general demand on all regular outlets with some pretty big orders at times secured, and the market is quoted as throughout very strong at full figures of current list. We quote as follows: Sheets, not above 30x72 in., 16 oz. and over, 22c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 23c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 24c.; do, 10 to 12 oz, 25c.; do, 8 to 10 oz, 28c.; do, under 8 oz, 30c. Sheets longer than 72 inches add 1c. for 12@14 oz., 2c. for 10@12 oz, and 3c. for 8@10 oz. Sheets, not above 36x96 in., 16 oz and over, 22c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 24c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 26c.; do, 10 to 12 oz, 30c.; do, 8 to 10 oz, 33c. Sheets longer than 96 inches 22c. for over 32 oz, and add 1c. for 16 to 32 oz, 14 to 16 oz, 12 to 14 oz, and 2c. for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets, not above 48x96, 32 to 64 oz, 22c.; do, 16 to 32 oz, 25c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 27c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 34c. Sheets wider than 48x96 and longer, 22@25c. for 32 to 64 oz. and over, and 27@30c. for 16 to 32 oz. All bath tub sheets, per lb., 16 oz, 25c.; 14 oz, 27c.; 12 oz, 29c.; and 10 oz, 30c. Bolt copper, ⅜ inch diameter and over, 22c. Circles, 60 diameter and less, 3c. above price of sheets of same thickness; circles, 60 to 96 do do, 5c. do; circles, 96 do and over, 6c. do. Segment and pattern sheets, 3c. above price of sheets required to cut them from. Cold or hard rolled copper, 1@2c. per lb. above the foregoing prices. Copper bottom, 26@29c. per lb. Iron—Scotch Pig has retained a moderate amount of attention, the movement running in the main to small lots as required from time to time for some special requirement. Importers appear inclined to keep terms as attractive as possible, but the foreign markets are quite unsettled with reflection found here in the variable tone. We quote at about $19 50@24.50 per ton, according to brand. American Pig does not show much animation on new demand. Northern producers report very fair deliveries, enough to keep them fairly sold up it is claimed, but the Southern output is accumulating because buyers do not call for their stocks due on contract as rapidly as anticipated. This has unquestionably caused some uneasiness at times, and while as yet there is hardly anything that could be called serious effort to realize, there is some fear that it may follow occasional intimations given that desirable customers could secure fractional allowances from recent line of cost. We quote at $18.0 @19.00 per ton for No. 1 X foundry; $17.00@18.00 for No. 2 X do., and $16.00@17.00 for Gray Forge. Old material, aside from one pretty large parcel of rails, has found very little attention, the deal being mainly in a small way, and rates have shaded off a fraction from the figure ruling a fortnight ago with an intimation that some holders are a trifle anxious to realize though unwilling to press matters. We quote at about $23.50@24.00 for old rails; $21.50@22.00 for No. 1 wrought scrap; $17.00@17.50 for cast scrap, and $17.50@18.25 for car wheels. Manufactured iron does not appear to undergo much change. Demand fluctuates somewhat for store lots, but there is a good average run of custom calling for special contracts, and in all cases full rates are said to be obtained without much if any difficulty. We quote Common Merchant Bar, ordinary sizes, at 2.10@2.12c. from store, and refined at 2 30@2.60c.; Rods, round and square, 2.40@2.45c.; Bands, 2.60@2.65c.; Norway Nail Rods, 4@5c., and domestic sheet on the basis of 3.00@3.05c. for common Nos. 10@16. Other descriptions at corresponding prices, with 1-10c. less on large lots from cars. Steel rails have gradually worked downward until the rate appears to have reached a point at which buyers feel more like investing, and the result is that some fair contracts were consummated. The tone is now steadier, and manufacturers assert that no further concessions will be allowed. We quote at about $32.00@32.50 per ton for standard section at the mills and $33.00@34.00 do. at tide water. Lead—Domestic Pig for consumption has found no unusual demand, buyers simply moving along calmly and investing from time to time as their wants may suggest, and as speculation was indifferent the market had rather a slack tone. We quote at 4.10 @4.15c. as to quality. The manufactures of lead are quoted: Bar, 4½c.; pipe, 6c.; sheet, 6¾c., less the usual discount to the trade; and tin lined pipe, 15c.; block tin pipe 45c., on same terms. Tin—Pig has had an advance through a squeeze of speculative "shorts," but actual consumers were not disturbed, and refused to quicken demand beyond actual requirements. We quote at about $21.00@21.20c. for round lots, and 21¼ @21⅜c. for jobbing parcels. Tin plate sells fairly on spot in moderate sized lots at about former rates, and for future delivery the tone seems rather firmer with offerings more careful. We quote prices as follows: I. C. Charcoal, ½ cross assortment, Melyn grades, $5.85@5.90, each additional X add 1.50; I. C. Charcoal, ½ cross assortment, Allaway grade, $4.90@5.00, each additional X add $1; Charcoal terne, M. F. grade, 14x20, $6.75@ —; M. F. grade, 20x28, $13.50@13.55; Worcester, 14x20, $4.80@4.85; Worcester, 20x28, $9.50@9.55.; Dean grade, 14x20, $4.55@4.60; Dean grade, 20x28, $9.10@9.15; D. R. D. grade, 14x20, $4.45@4.50; D. R. D. grade, 20x28, $9.00@9.05; I. C. Coke, Penlan grade, $4.32½@4.35; J. B. grade, 14x20, $4.40 @ 4.45; I. C. Bessemer steel, squares, $4.80@— basis; I. C. Siemens steel, squares, $4.90@— basis. Spelter has been selling very well, and with comparatively strong accounts from the West the supply is firmly held at fuller rates. We quote 5.10@5⅝c. for common Western, according to brand.

PAINTS, OIL, ETC.—Matters appear to be moving along in reasonably satisfactory manner, and not much complaint can be heard regarding general conditions of the market. It is asserted that a very good proportion of house painters' supplies has been taken thus far this season, and while in some localities demand in that line is now dying out, the full aggregate movement is expected to run up to an ordinary average. Amounts available in first hands are not overabundant here, and these appear a little scarce, with the control good and values sustained readily. Linseed Oil secures full average attention, and on all makes prices are firmly sustained. We quote at 60@61c. for Western and 62@64c. for City. Spirits Turpentine since last report found better demand, and through that influence was increased in value. At the close, however, buyers are less anxious, the offering freer, and with tame accounts from South the tone eases off a trifle. We quote at 40@41c. per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—The general deal has been keeping right along at about former average, and there is little or nothing new on the market. Supplies are fairly controlled and prices steady. We quote Pitch at $1.40@1.55 per bbl.; Tar at $2.12½@2.30, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

NAILS.—Business has been of an irregular character, some of the orders developing quick and full, and others coming out in a manner to indicate much caution, if not indifference among buyers. The generally followed plan among manufacturers however, is to maintain a degree of firmness, and prevent the offering from becoming liberal so far as possible. Interior custom does not exhaust as much stock as expected. We quote at $1.80@1.85 per keg for car lots, and $1.85@1.95 per keg for parcels from store.

VOL. XLV. MAY 24, 1890. No. 1,158.

It is a real misfortune for the bull market, about which of late so much has been written, that during the last week it has had no better pap than that which was offered it by the Richmond Terminal people. Unless the quality of the food gets better the outside public will soon have a bad case of indigestion, and stocks will rattle down at as lively a pace as they ever mounted upwards. There is, however, a much better outlook ahead. It would seem to be a certainty that next week the Western rate troubles will be settled, particularly as Mr. Gould holds the key, which he is likely to turn very suddenly; but if one is to believe the Chicago dispatches there is every probability of an Eastern trunk line war. Congress is sure to pass a silver bill of some kind, and it looks as though it would be an extremely liberal one. There seems to be some difference of opinion as to the effect of the Silver bill on our gold exports. It is assumed in London that the total of our silver exports will be replaced by gold, plus the gold which would be sent in the ordinary course of affairs. If, however, they act on any such assumption it may be confidently asserted that they reckon without their host. The coinage of silver in this country and the issue of silver certificates has been accompanied not by loss but by an increase in our amount of gold. Disregarding any such possibility, then, as a cloud on the future course of prices in Wall street, it is perhaps better just at present not to expect too much of an immediate advance. The rate situation in the West is not all that it might be. A Chicago newspaper says that the lines east of that city are on the verge of an upheaval, which promises to dwarf the passenger rate war of the Western lines. Commission paying has been growing to such proportions that scalpers have taken advantage of it to cut the rate to New York. If this be true, it would possibly act as a severe check to the market—one which could be counter-balanced only by the possibility above referred to of Mr. Gould settling the rate difficulty on the Western lines. On the whole, while the market cannot be considered an undoubted purchase, it would be just about as dangerous to sell it.

We print on another page a series of interviews regarding the advisability of the city's owning and operating whatever new rapid transit facilities Time and our political masters at Albany may vouchsafe to us. It will be seen that nearly everyone of the gentlemen interviewed is opposed to a complete cession of any transportation franchise to a private corporation, and several indorse the more radical view expressed two weeks ago in these columns, that the city itself is the only owner that can be safely trusted with the management of so great a public necessity as rapid transit facilities must be in a city conditioned as New York is. The principal objection urged against the city's building or operating new lines is that our politicians, who would have charge of the matter, are too corrupt to be trusted with any further powers or duties. It must be admitted that there is some force in this, though at the same time it is hard to refrain from commenting on the character of a community that persists in tolerating a government which it dares not permit to deal with new municipal necessities as they arise. Moreover, the objection is an objection in so far only as our present corrupt government is irremediable, and indeed those who urge this objection plainly imply that at best good government in New York City is a remote possibility. This view, however, is too pessimistic, and though it is far from our intention to extol the system of spoils and plunder that is dignified by the name of government in this city, it has been shown in certain directions that average or even good results are not altogether impossible under it. But of more importance than this is the daily increasing body of facts demonstrating the success, not absolute but relative, of municipal management of public works throughout the country when those works must be, from their very nature, monopolies. Government here is no worse than in Chicago, Philadelphia, Richmond and other cities. Yet there the municipality has successfully undertaken works, such as the supplying of gas and electricity, with results that are on the whole more satisfactory to the public than those produced under private ownership, yet in this city people probably would oppose municipal control of the gas supply for the very reason given for the opposition to the city's owning and operating new transportation lines, viz.: that our officials are not to be trusted. We believe that any one who will carefully weigh the many considerations involved in the matter will be in favor of the city's owning, if not controlling, any further transportation lines that may be created.

The Special Committee of the Massachusetts Legislature appointed some time ago to visit the several cities in this country which own their own gas plants, and to report on the practical operation of these works, have—assuming that they were unprejudiced in their investigations—demonstrated an incapacity to deal with matters of public concern which even in persons of less pretension would seem startling. A glance at the part of the report of the committee which pertains to the city gas works of Richmond is enough to show their inability properly to perform the task assigned them. The committee give $33,065 as the apparent cash balance derived from the gas works in the city treasury at the end of last year. They are generous enough to add to this sum $35,528, or the amount of gas furnished free of charge for public lighting, computed at 87 cents per 100 feet, making the total apparent profit of the city gas works $68,593. But from this total sum the committee think should be deducted $90,000, or interest at 6 per cent. on $1,500,000, the estimated value which they place on the plant, and $21,000, the sum which the city would collect from the gas works were they private. According to the committee's calculation, therefore, the City of Richmond actually lost $42,405 last year by operating its own gas plant, as compared, that is, with what it would have cost the city had the works been in the control of private companies. Now, what is wrong with this calculation? In the first place, the net profit from last year's management, as given in the report of the superintendent of the works, was $58,390—over a third larger sum, that is, than that stated by the committee. A senseless step next taken by the committeee is to compute the value of the gas used by the city at 87 cents per thousand feet, the cost of city manufacture, instead of at $1.50, the price charged for gas in Richmond and that which the city would, at the least estimate, have had to pay rival companies for gas. These two corrections bring up the real profit of the city from its gas works to $123,094. The value of the city gas works of Richmond is placed by Mayor Ellyson at $800,000—a little more than half the estimated sum given by the committee. To deduct from the annual profit of the gas works interest at 6 per cent. on even this diminished sum would display an ignorance of facts concerning the plant and its management. Why should interest on the value of the whole plant be placed to the expenditure account of the city when the works have already been in great part paid for out of their own annual profits. It must be remembered that when once a city comes into complete ownership of a plant there is no longer any need of interest on the investment to be earned. Then, too, the committee forget when they deduct taxes which the city would derive from the gas works were they private that under private control of gas works the tax is some how always shifted to the community. For this reason it is not clear that taxes to the amount stated should be deducted from profits of city gas works. This blundering committee came within just about $150,000 of the truth.

Though Socialistic tendencies are so strong at present that Harcourt's "We are all Socialists now" is rapidly losing its exaggeration, very little attention is given to the direction the facts of social life are taking—to discover whether their trend is towards or away from Socialism. After all, this is a far more important matter than the extension of the Socialistic propaganda, the making of proselytes, the speech of a Prime Minister, or the actions of an inexperienced young monarch, for circumstances much more than theories and doctrine have been the preceptor of man, and the world usually does, not what it considers abstractly the best, but what it practically cannot well avoid doing. It prefers expediency to experiment. For an example of this we have only to turn to the Free Trade movement in Great Britain, which we see did not attain any practical result worth speaking of until famine caused the repeal of the Corn Laws, and led subsequently to the complete revolution of the commercial principles of the nation. In like manner the fate of Socialism will be determined by the practical facts of daily life rather than by the acceptance or rejection of a theory.

One of the characteristics of legislation in recent years in nearly every country where government is at all popular, is that it has been to so great an extent essentially Socialistic. For instance, the English Government has been compelled by the hard necessity of facts to adopt measures more or less Socialistic in dealing with the condition of Ireland. It has been forced by circumstances to intervene between landlord and tenant to annul contracts, to "fix" rents arbitrarily, and to lend State funds. In all countries every increment to the political power possessed by labor has been followed in a short time by an extension of State activity. Factory laws, laws limiting hours of labor, the establishment of public baths and national systems of industrial insurance, artizans' dwellings erected with State or municipal monies, what are all these things but embodiments of Socialism? Yet they cannot be said to be due to the acceptance of the Socialistic doctrine. In nearly every case they have been adopted as expedients necessitated by circumstances. In other words, they mark the extent to which the conditions of social life are making for Socialism.

The great aim of Socialism, however, is the nationalization of all the means of production, and to use Huxley's phrase, the "regimentation" of society. Are there any facts observable making in this direction? Apparently there are. The "trusting" of entire industries, the formation of large limited liability companies, so common in England and since the success achieved by the Claflin corporation likely to be more common in this country; the establishment of co-operative enterprises, in short the consolidation, organization, monopolization going on to-day in the industrial world, tending as they do to minimize the importance of the individual by creating larger and larger associations in ownership and interest, are certainly steps in the direction of Socialism. For what is nationalization of the means of production, at which Socialists aim, but in a sense the creation of a single Trust controlling all industries, a corporation in which any one is a shareholder? These facts are worth noting, not because they prove the truth of the Socialistic doctrine, or point to its acceptance or ultimate realization, but because they and a knowledge of the causes which created them are of much greater significance and value than academic or political discussions about Socialism. If the world were to put into practise to-morrow the Socialist programme, its success and essential existence the next day would depend upon the extent to which it harmonized with the conditions of social life, whereas fit conditions would establish Socialism though the world were ignorant of the term.

The "revelations" of the Fassett Committee during the past week have not been sensational; but they have been none the less instructive. People who think it Mr. Ivins' duty to ruin, say, one fair-sized political reputation a day, may have been disappointed, for game of that description has been scarce; but if he has brought to light no corruption, he has certainly "revealed" sadly loose and wasteful methods. The city pays over $114,000 a year to support the Excise commissioners and about sixty inspectors, who, if each inspected five saloons a day, could cover the whole 8,500 odd twelve times a year. It is just this kind of waste, allied, as it is, with a system that aids rather than prevents the evasion of the law, which it is Mr. Fassett's business to expose, and, if possible, to remedy at the next session of the Legislature. The Committee, however, is going to postpone most of its investigating to the fall. The reasons for this delay are tolerably obvious. "Burke," said Charles Fox, "is wise; but he is wise too soon." The Senate Committee is determined not to fall into the same error. The desire for truth forms a part of their philosophy, but it must be timely truth. The facts elicited by last month's investigation are practically like last month's leading editorial—as dead as the great god Pan. During March and April the committee pulled from the murky depths of one of the departments a great deal of sound doctrine; and, better still, it made

> The Mayor and the corporation
> Shake in mighty consternati n.

But aware as the committee is that the memory of the public is short, they consider it their duty to refresh it. The wisdom of March and April must be superseded by the wisdom of September and October. And after the first week in November the arduous duties of the committee will be over, for nobody wants to know anything about the city departments after election time. It is, perhaps, to be regretted that the great parliamentary abilities of Speaker Husted prevented the counter-committee of Hamilton Fish from adding interest and variety to the contest, by doing a little investigating on the other side. The combat at present is unequal. The Republicans, like the god Thor, have a magical hammer, which can seek out and crush the rotten spots in their opponents' armor, while the Tammany giant has no way of laying its hands on its more nimble adversary. The sachems, however, will have the summer months to smoke their pipes in the wigwam and conjure up some magical weapon of their own. Perhaps they will be able so to shroud themselves in smoke that Thor and his hammer will be unable to find anything to strike at. At any rate, it may be safely predicted that the Republicans will not have a walk-over. It has been a pretty fight during the winter, and if the Republicans had not possessed their magical weapon they would have been sadly worsted. But after all has been said Mr. Fassett and Mr. Ivins are to be congratulated on what they have accomplished. May the former find renewed energy in the balmy California breezes, and may the latter return from Europe to ferret out secrets which even his philosophy never dreamed of.

In the report of Colonel Haywood, Engineer to the Sewer Commissions of that part of London called the "city," will be found the statements; well worth the attention of our Department of Public Works, that no new granite pavement has been laid in the city since 1870, that all repairs to such pavements have been made with stone taken from other streets, and that all new work has been either wood or asphalt. It is to be regretted that the same assertion cannot be made of the pavements even in the commercial part of this city. We do not believe that granite block makes the best pavement, even for heavy traffic, and it is a downright shame that Broadway is to be repaved with that rough and noisy material. But if it is to be used, it should be put to its best use. It has been calculated that if well put down it ought to last fourteen years on its first trial and sixteen years after being relaid. In the streets where it is used in this city (and they are not so very numerous, the cheaper Belgian trap and trap block being preferred), its length of duration is shortened as it is seldom if ever relaid, and this is all the more reprehensible because its only real advantage is its durability. Furthermore, it is also a matter of regret that "all new work has not been done either in wood or asphalt." The laying of asphalt on the Boulevard, Madison avenue, Lexington avenue and elsewhere is a substantial recognition that the more placid material is adapted, at all events, to a light truck or carriage traffic. If this fact is recognized, why make all the new pavements in the northern part of the city of the discredited stone. The Public Works Department is continually advertising for bids to pave with granite blocks streets north of 60th street, that hitherto have been either mud holes or dust heaps, but so far there has not been the slightest disposition, apparently, to take a leaf from past experience, and begin by putting down pavements that will be smooth. The whole system of putting in sewers, water mains, flagging and paving, should be reformed. As Simon Sterne recently pointed out in THE RECORD AND GUIDE, it is at once slow and wasteful. It causes great inconvenience to residents and helps to delay improvements. But it seems to be the rule at the City Hall never to do a thing in the most economical way possible. The officials are actuated simply by a spirit of procrastination which refuses to deal with bad methods until they become unbearable. It is this spirit which permits the present reiterated tearing up of the streets to continue, which allowed the overhead wires to continue in existence until some of them had to be forcibly torn down, and which allows the wasteful practice of borrowing the money needed for our current city disbursements at a good rate of interest, only to pay it off when the tax receipts come in—a practice which, by the by, has its only parallel in that worst of governments, the French monarchy before the Revolution.

How to Perpetuate Pauperism.

The seventeenth annual meeting of the National Conference of Charities and Corrections has just been brought to a close. About two hundred specialists in the department indicated gathered there, and spent seven days in discussing problems which twenty-five years ago would have been held to be wholly foreign to American experience. It is almost exactly that length of time since a writer in the Nation, reviewing a work on the charities of France, remarked complacently that in this country we had never been compelled to recognize poverty as an institution. But at present it may be doubted if there is a country where the disease of pauperism is spreading faster than here.

This does not mean that it will probably be more fatal here than elsewhere, but only that we are at present especially susceptible to its inroads because we have so long considered ourselves inoculated against it by "the character of our institutions." It is dangerous because we have not dreaded it enough. That the specialists who have met for conference in Baltimore come from all over the country indicates that the disease is not an isolated one. Last year the same body met in San Francisco, and went there largely as a missionary duty, the condition of the charities of that State being represented as in a most deplorable condition.

While the specialists are conferring the charitable and correctional institutions are managed mainly by the politicians. The latter may often be honest, but they are nearly always ignorant and indifferent as regards the preventive measures by which alone we can assail pauperism in its causes. The Prison bill and the bill for the care of the insane passed by our last Legislature were more largely the work of specialists than most enactments on such matters with which we have been favored; and one can but hope that not only the lawmakers but also those who administer the laws will bow to the necessities of the case, and permit those who understand such matters to have a share in their management.

We have heretofore called attention to the fact that New York City is paying the board of some fourteen thousand dependent children, much to the injury of the children, and to the profit only of the institutions that herd them for two dollars per week per head. A surer way than this of perpetuating pauperism could not be easily devised; but another fairly successful plan for accomplishing the same end is being practiced by the city, in its management of the Work-house on Blackwell's Island. Anyone who doubts that pauperism has become an institution in this country, and that it has become so largely through official stupidity and indifference, will do well to study the operation of our Work-house. It is not brought prominently before the public because there is nothing to make a startling newspaper sensation; it can only be said of it that it is quietly, persistently, indubitably bad.

The average daily population of the Work-house is about 1,400, but in the course of the year some 15,000 different persons pass through the institution. They are nearly equally divided between the sexes, and about five per cent. of them are under twenty years of age. Ten per cent. of them are self-committed, and of those sentenced by the Justices the larger number are sent to the Island for from five days to a month. Over half of them acknowledge to having been sent to the same place before, and a table arranged to give an idea of the number of "rounders" concludes with a column headed "Those committed more than twenty times." Only six-tenths of one per cent. of those sentenced are committed for longer than six months.

This great herd of bummers, prostitutes and unfortunates is kept upon the Island at an expense to the city of only 15½ cents daily for food, clothing and salaries. There are but twenty-three officers in charge of them. The result of this is that the men and women govern themselves and each other, and the injustice, the tyranny, the favoritism, the corruption and want of discipline consequent upon this are unlimited. A lady who consented, from motives of philanthropy, to act as matron of the Work-house for six months makes these remarks concerning the women's side: "In no penal institution is the rigid classification and isolation of certain inmates more important than in the Work-house, for the daily changing element, the "ten-day women," keep the link of information unbroken between it and the haunts of vice of the city. The evils of the Work-house, as I found them, were uncleanliness, insubordination of the most glaring aspect, swearing and lewd language."

An attempt made by a former commissioner to start an industrial school to which the younger persons now committed might be sent, resulted, in the commissioner being removed, in the establishment of a branch Work-house on Hart's Island. The only difference between this and the parent institution is that the per capita cost of maintenance to the city is about two-thirds more than for the people on Blackwell's Island. Two hundred Work-house men and women are selected, for no particular reason, to be placed under these more favorable circumstances.

Whatever else our "Work-house" may be it is not a Work-house in any proper sense of the term. The inmates have no systematic work, and there are not the proper officers for making them do it even if there were an opportunity. It is a place where the beggar and the prostitute go to be supported when business is dull, where drunkards of either sex can sober off at times, and where the purely unfortunate are taught to be actively vicious. We suggest that it be called "An Institution for the Promotion of Vice and the Perpetuation of Pauperism."

Action on the matter of selecting sites for the new Federal buildings to be erected in this city will, we fear, be postponed for another year on account of the failure of the last Legislature to pass the bill giving the consent of the State to the United States to acquire the necessary land by condemnation proceedings. The act of Congress (September 14, 1888), which appropriated two millions of dollars for the purchase or acquisition of land—this sum being exclusive of cost of buildings to be erected thereon—provides that no part of that sum shall be expended, until the State shall cede to the United States exclusive jurisdiction over the same. The same Congress passed a general act (August 1, 1888) authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to acquire land by condemnation proceedings, whenever in his opinion it is necessary or advantageous to the Government to do so. The New York Legislature of last year passed an act (April 13, 1889) giving the consent of the State to the purchase by the United States of land for the purposes mentioned, and ceded jurisdiction over an area "not to exceed two hundred thousand feet." Secretary Windom decided to locate the Appraisers' Warehouse on the Bowling Green blocks, and also the new Custom House. But an effort to purchase the Bowling Green block, or the desired portions of them, proved futile. It became necessary, therefore, to get the Legislature to amend the act of last year by giving the consent of the State to the United States to acquire by condemnation, under judicial process, as well as to acquire by purchase. Accordingly a bill was drawn and sent to Albany. It passed the Assembly without opposition. When it reached the Senate, the up-town advocates of a location for the Appraisers' Warehouse did their best to defeat the measure, and the bill finally only got through the Senate by a narrow margin. Then it went to the Governor, who was importuned to veto it. Owners of Bowling Green property who have no desire to part with their holdings, or at any rate not to part with them at the prices that would probably be awarded to them by court appraisers, urged the Governor to veto the bill. The advocates of the up-town site, too, vigorously demanded a veto. The Bowling Green advocates, however, had an opportunity to present the merits of the case, and duly set forth that desirable sites cannot be purchased and of necessity must be taken by condemnation; that the appropriation of two millions of dollars could not be expended until the State gave the authority needed; that the proposed great buildings were for the direct benefit of New York, and that the signing of the bill was a wise and proper thing to do. Even with money to pay for land purchased or otherwise acquired, and with an act of Congress authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to acquire by condemnation, the United States Government still required the authority of the State, not only because the act appropriating the money required the State first to cede jurisdiction before the money was expended, but because the Constitution provides in Article I., section 8, that the United States can only take lands for public purposes by consent of the Legislature of the State in which the same shall be.

This presentation of facts seemed to be conclusive as to the duty of the Governor to sign the bill. But, one of the arguments of the enemies of the bill was to the effect that the bill did not limit the Federal Government from taking any land whatsoever in the City of New York, public parks or private lands. Statements were made that Secretary Windom did really intend to take a portion of Battery Park as a site for the new buildings. As a matter of fact Secretary Windom, with whom the selection of sites for public buildings solely rests, never intended and does not intend to take a foot of Battery Park nor the Bowling Green circle, nor any other park or part of any park. The Governor deemed that there was some force in the point raised, so he caused the bill to be recalled from his hands by the Assembly for the purpose of incorporating in it an amendment exempting the parks from the operation of the bill. The motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill was originally passed was lost. Not but what the proposed amendment to exempt the parks was a perfectly proper one, for there can be no two opinions that no park land should be taken away from the city. The opponents of the bill saw their opportunity to put the bill where it would receive its quietus.

Secretary Windom was promptly communicated with, and under date of the 28th ultimo, over his own signature, declared that he never contemplated selecting any of the public parks as a site for the new buildings, and that he would deem such an act wholly unjustifiable. This letter was filed with Governor Hill, and the Governor was asked to accept the Secretary's statement in lieu of the restriction that the bill should have contained, and which the Assembly refused to put in. We are authoritatively informed that the bill was never returned to the Executive Chamber. In the jugglery of legislative procedure the disappearance of this bill can doubtless be accounted for; but the bare fact remains that the city of New York must patiently wait for one more year at least before active steps will be taken in providing her with the much needed new Federal buildings.

Investments—Good and Bad.

DEALS.—The air is filled with stories of deals by which gigantic railroad systems are to be made more gigantic than ever, and the great trading combinations are to become greater still. The Pacific Mail Steamship Line is said to be about to become an adjunct of the Huntington and Villard Systems, the Big Four is reaching out for more lines to absorb, Richmond Terminal is to become exclusive owner of the lines which have for some time been operated within its midst, and, greatest of all, the Atchison has tacked on to itself the St. Louis & San Francisco, and, as a consequence, adding to its mileage not only the 1,329 miles owned and leased by the St. Louis & San Francisco, but also the 900 miles of the Atlantic & Pacific, which it owned jointly with the 'Frisco, and making altogether a system of nearly 10,000 miles, covering an immense territory between San Francisco and St. Louis and Chicago. The interest and other obligations of the roads comprising the system now amount to about thirteen and three-quarter millions of dollars. The terms by which San Francisco has been acquired are not yet made public, but it is understood that the Atchison is not to make new bonds, using its stock only, and with it acquiring the stock issues of the purchased company. The San Francisco has issued $30,000,000 stock composed of $4,500,000 first preferred, $10,000,000 preferred, and $15,500,000 common, but has $3,500,000 common in its treasury. If it is true, as is stated, that the purchase will be made on the basis of the relative values of the stocks at current figures, the purchase would seem to be a very good one for Atchison, considered from a bargain standpoint alone. San Francisco earned in 1889 $270,533 in excess of interest and other obligations. During this year earnings have increased very largely. Whatever is earned in excess of charges would go into the fund available for Atchison stock, because after the exchange there would be no preferences. The amount of stock which Atchison would have to issue to complete the purchase is variously estimated at from $20,000,000 to $25,000,000. It may be also, as is stated, that while Atchison will not issue new bonds in consummating this deal, it will use some of the bonds reserved under the plan of reorganization for contingencies. There are other features of importance in this undertaking which should not be lost sight of. One is that Atchison avoids the difficulty in which it seemed to be drifting over the control of Atlantic & Pacific, upon which it is dependent for its California business. If the two companies had remained apart it is certain that St. Louis & San Francisco would soon have built its projected extension to Albuquerque, which would have placed it in a position to demand a larger sharer of the California business than it has hitherto received, and it has now a freer hand and greater power in the contest which it has waged with the Missouri Pacific since it entered the latter's territory under the old management. Finally, in the hands of Atchison it is probable that the cost of the operation of the St. Louis & San Francisco can be reduced, and, under the redemption clauses of its mortgage, some changes in the bonded issues made to lessen the total amount of interest charges.

ADVICE GRATIS.

A Reader: "What is the value of the Richmond Terminal privilege just announced?" With the bond at 82 and the stock at 27, $160. Changes one way or the other can be easily computed. A decline of 1 per cent. in the price of the bond takes off $10, and a like falling off in the price of the stock $20. Advances will increase the value of the privilege proportionately.

R. M. asks: "To what do you attribute the advance in copper mining stocks, and are they good to buy?" The advance is due to the complete change in copper business since the collapse of the copper syndicate. The consumption has not only been equal to the production, but it has also reduced the 180,000 tons visible supply at the time of M. Secretan's failure to a reasonable limit. The demand for copper is continually increasing and copper stocks will benefit from that demand. It must not be lost sight of, however, that several of the copper stocks are now selling higher than they did prior to the failure of the syndicate two years ago.

Our Letter Bag.—Intellect and Dishonest Government.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

Underlying several articles published recently in THE RECORD AND GUIDE is the implication that the inefficient and dishonest government of this city is due to the intellectual deficiencies of our citizens.

I would like to bring to your notice a few facts which I think contradict strongly this implication.

The last quarter of the fourth century before Christ in Athens has never yet been regarded as a period of intellectual darkness. The influence of Pericles (who died in B. C. 429) must still have been felt in political life. It was the period that begot Plato, the finest of human intellects "exercising boundless dominion over the finest of human languages" (to use the words of Macaulay), though he was not of it. Sophocles, "the high priest of humanity," and Euripides, "the most tragic of poets," were its dramatists. Phidias had just completed the adornment of the Acropolis, and still more recently his statue of Zeus had been enthroned at Olympia. It was the golden age of Athens, the flowering time of Greek civilization; and not a few good judges declare, the supreme intellectual moment of humanity.

Now let us ask: What was the political condition of these times? An answer to the question, authentic and complete, is given by the great atirist of the day, the comic poet Aristophanes. In his comedy, "The Knights," produced B. C. 424, and, as all plays at the time were, in the public theatre, he derided the vulgarity, the dishonesty, and the demagogy then prevalent in the public life of Athens.

The play opens with a dialogue between Demosthenes the General, and Nicias. They complain that a "new-bought Paphlagonian slave," meaning Cleon, the statesman then in power, has obtained the ear and consideration of their master Demus—a personification of the Athenian people. Their position they declare is no longer the comfortable and profitable one it was. Consequently they determine to overthrow the usurper, and their intention is furthered by stealing from Cleon—the Paphlagonian—himself, while he sleeps, an oracle which declares that he shall continue to rule until superseded by a viler person—a sausage seller.

At this point of the play a sausage seller, peddling his wares, enters the stage. He is at once hailed by the two conspirators, and the following conversation occurs:

Demosthenes—O happy man! Celestial sausage seller!
Friend, guardian, and protector of us all!
Come forward, save your friends, and save the country.
Sausage Seller—Do you call me?
Dem.—Yes, we called to you to announce
The high and happy destiny that awaits you. * * *
Set these poor wares aside; and now—bow down
To the ground; and adore the powers of earth and heaven.
S. S.—Heigh day! Why, what do you mean?
Dem.—O happy man!
Unconscious of your glorious destiny!
Now mean and unregarded but to-morrow,
The mightiest of the mighty, Lord of Athens!
S. S.—Come master, what's the use of making game?
Why can't ye let me wash the guts and tripe,
And sell my sausages in peace and quiet.
Dem.—O simple mortal, cast those thoughts aside!
Bid guts and tripe farewell! Look here! Behold
(pointing to the people)
The mighty assembled multitude before ye!
S. S.—I see 'em.
Dem.—You shall be their lord and master,
The sovereign and the ruler of them all. * * *
You shall trample down the Senate under foot. * * *
Arrest, imprison and confine in irons
And feast and fornicate in the Council House. * * *
S. S.—Are there any means of making a great man
Of a sausage selling fellow such as I?
Dem.—The very means you have, must make you so.
Low breeding, vulgar birth, and impudence,
These, these must make ye what you're meant to be.
S. S.—I can't imagine that I'm good for much.
Dem.—Alas! But why do ye say so. What's the meaning
Of these misgivings? I discern within ye
A promise and inward consciousness
Of greatness. Tell me truly, are ye allied
To the families of gentry?
S. S.—Naugh, not I.
I'm come from a common ordinary kindred
Of the lower order.
Dem.—What a happiness!
What a footing it will give ye! What a groundwork
For confidence and favor at your outset!
S. S.—But bless you! Only consider my education!
I can barely read * * * in a kind of way.
Dem.—That makes against ye—the only thing against ye—
The being able to read in any way.
For now; no lead nor influence is allowed
To liberal arts or learned education;
But to the brutal, base and underbred.
Embrace then and hold fast the promises
Which the oracles of the gods announce to you. * * *
S. S.—These oracles hit my fancy! Notwithstanding—
I'm partly doubtful, how I could contrive
To manage an administration altogether.
Dem.—The easiest thing in nature! Nothing easier.
Stick to your present practice: follow it up
In your new calling. Mangle, mince and mash,
Confound and hack and jumble things together!
And interlard your rhetoric with lumps
Of mawkish sweet and greasy flattery.
Be fulsome, coarse and bloody! For the rest,
All qualities combine, all circumstances,
To entitle and equip you for command;
A filthy voice, a villainous countenance,
A vulgar birth, and parentage and breeding.
Nothing is wanting, absolutely nothing. * * *

Cleon here arrives, and the contest begins, each contestant in his effort to prove his fitness to be the slave of Demus trying to overreach the other in vulgarity and demagogy. They boast of their roguery, impudence, and villainy as qualifications for office. In the end the sausage seller shows that his whole life has been spent in "stealing and staring, perjuring and swearing," and as to education, as he himself says:

Where hogs are singed and scalded in the shambles.
There was I pummelled to a proper tune. * * *
I practised as a sausage seller chiefly.
Occasionally as pimp and errand boy.

Cleon admits with regret that he cannot show a viler record than this, and renounces his position "to a rogue, perhaps less perfect, but more prosperous."

With the Tammany biographies of the Evening Post in mind, it is true something not entirely unlike this might be written of the men who govern this city, but certainly not anything worse. True, Aristophanes wrote as a satirist, and his picture of Athenian government may not have the exactness of a photograph; but the dart of satire must be feathered with truth if not pointed with it, otherwise it will fly wide of its mark.

Now, if the vulgar government of New York City is the outcome of the intellectual condition of its people, if its vulgarity is begotten of their vulgarity, what are we to say of the Athenian citizens after the picture Aristophanes gives us of their government. Shall we say that they were a crowd of vulgar unintellectual wretches, ready to select their heroes from the sausage seller's class, and moved by the influence of any filthy demagogy? Few would care to say that. Yet if Athens in the last quarter of the fourth century B. C. could be intellectual, could be the ample theatre in which the genius of Pericles, Phidias, Sophocles, Euripides and Aristophanes, not to mention lesser names, was displayed, in spite of a government thoroughly corrupt and vulgar, may not New York protest that she is not wholly vile in spite of Tammany? A NEW YORKER.

Our correspondent is to be thanked for giving publicity at the present juncture to the above quotation from Aristophanes, which is timely, amusing, and highly suggestive. An acute writer has said all that you have to do to show the absurdity of a given form of government, whether it be a monarchy, aristocracy or democracy, is to describe it. When such a description is given by the uncompromising pen of a satirist, which throws the glare of a negative criticism on the weakest parts of a governmental machinery, the incongruity of the picture and the clumsiness of the devices become appalling. But for the very reason that the criticism of a governmental machinery is such a simple matter, it should be indulged in with due caution. What may be called the proximately remediable, and the unduly offensive parts of the absurd organization should be carefully distinguished from so much of the absurdity as in different ways is common and necessary to all governmental machinery. A satirist can never make such distinctions, but a critic in estimating the worth of a satire can and must do so. It is the merit of Aristophanes' comedy, "The Knights," that the satire does turn upon an unnecessarily offensive aspect of popular government, but one that will continually recur when sovereign power is exercised in the State by a mass of common people unchecked by the influence for the better class of citizens. Such a condition is the opportunity of the demagogue, and such is the present condition of affairs in this city. The demagogy New Yorkers have to deal with, however, is particularly dangerous since it is well organized, it is in power, and it offers the substantial bait of an office, rather than the more shadowy one of a law. The savage whip that Aristophanes applied, justly or unjustly, to the rulers of Athens, may and should be applied to the rulers of this city. When the history of our times comes to be written, when the mist engendered by our closeness to the present with its passions and interests clears away, New Yorkers, nay, all Americans, may feel quite certain that they will be held up as examples of men who sacrificed the purity of their institutions to the demands of their pockets, and who allowed foul abuses to creep into the State because of their purblind apathy. The spoils system, and all it implies, is in sad need, if not of an Aristophanes, at all events of a Beaumarchais.

But although our correspondent is to be thanked for sending the quotation given above, the criticism he bases on it is almost childish. THE RECORD AND GUIDE has never said that the inefficient and dishonest government of this city is due to the "intellectual deficiencies" of our citizens. New Yorkers are probably on the average quite as intelligent, class for class, as any other corporate body of similar size either in other countries or in other times; or if they are not it would be very difficult to prove the contrary. It is the lack of moral sensitiveness of which we complained. Universal suffrage or not, the natural rulers of a corporation or State are the more intelligent and more educated part of it. If they do not rule it is because they do not try, and if they do not try, but permit abuses to accumulate with only a spasmodic effort at charter tinkering to stop them, they do not necessarily lack intelligence, but they do lack sufficient public spirit to make an injury done to the commonwealth an injury done to themselves, and an abuse of public functions a personal matter to be removed by personal effort. Furthermore, history shows clearly that the times of the greatest intellectual activity, when that activity is of a negative sort, are not times of moral sufficiency. The Italian Renaissance, arising as it did in a protest from the bare formalism and gross abuses of the Roman Church, was productive of a high degree of intellectual and artistic culture; but it was also productive of a society and a government which were licentious, lawless and corrupt to a degree. So it was with the France of Voltaire and Diderot, and so it was with the Athens of Aristophanes. Our correspondent in quoting the principal names of the period, has given no clue to the character of the intellectual turmoil. As a matter of fact, it was a period just as subversive of established customs and ideas as the other two periods we have named. The Sophists, with their sceptical bent, were crowding the market places, and stifling objection with their wordy arguments. Socrates, while his aim was positive, adopted the same method of negative criticism, and the same is partially true of Plato. The time was distinctly one of scepticism and unbelief, due to increased material prosperity and an enlarged mental vision. The same influences may be traced in Euripides and Sophocles, while Aristophanes, who combined a deep respect for the established gods of his country with a savage hatred of all whom he felt were subverting their authority, lashed with his satire the various political, philosophical and social leaders of his time. That this satire was often misdirected is shown by his ridicule of Socrates, and it is probable that in the case of "The Knights" as in that of "The Clouds," his satire was to some extent unjust. As we said before, intellectual activity does not imply moral sensitiveness, and the present inefficient and corrupt government in this city is due to the lack of that quality. This lack of moral sensitiveness is simply due to absorption in the practice of dollar-making. Possibly New Yorkers think that it is cheaper to pay the expense of bad government and keep their time for their private affairs. If so, they are wrong in this opinion, and will have to pay the penalty, not simply in increased taxes, but in the contempt of posterity.

Rapid Transit in a New Phase.

SHALL IT BE UNDERTAKEN BY THE CITY—VIEWS OF PROMINENT CITIZENS AND REAL ESTATE OWNERS.

So much has been said in reference to rapid transit, and there has been such an utter failure of all the plans hitherto attempted to be carried out, that the question arises: Why should not the people of New York City consider the advisability of building a road or roads, to be determined upon by expert engineers, which shall be built, owned and operated by the city.

In an article in THE RECORD AND GUIDE, published on the 10th inst., entitled "A Phase of the Rapid Transit Problem," it was stated that the experience of municipalities all over the country had shown one thing, and that was, that "public necessity makes a service a public function." The question may, therefore, reasonably be asked, Why shall the people of New York City not own their own rapid transit lines? Will it not conduce to greater efficiency, better service, and quicker transit?

THE RECORD AND GUIDE has interviewed a number of prominent property-owners on this point, among those seen being several of the gentlemen who were among the fifty-six who petitioned Mayor Grant to appoint a commission, under the laws of 1875, to determine upon what routes shall be selected for a rapid transit road, and what further action should be taken under the law. The views of these gentlemen, as well as others seen, differ, as will be noticed from the interviews which follow:

F. B. Thurber said: "I believe the municipality ought to own its transportation and lighting facilities, just as the city owns its water supply. Such daily requirements as these should be a monopoly, but a monopoly owned by the people. There can be no true economy in the supply of such necessaries unless they are so owned. Our streets are full of competing systems of gas and transportation companies, all charging more for the service than the public would have to pay if they were owned by the city. Those municipalities of Great Britain which own gas works are now supplying gas of good quality at from one shilling and six pence (36 cents) to two shillings and six pence (60 cents) per thousand feet. The cities in the United States which own their electric plants—of which there are some thirty or more—pay less than half what other cities which do not own them pay for lighting. The chief objection urged against such service being supplied by cities themselves is the increased patronage and power that would be placed in the hands of political parties, but with street railways this can be obviated by the city owning the road-beds and leasing the operation of the road, just as a landlord would lease his property. In the British colonies this system is pursued to a greater extent, even with ordinary railroads, and with very satisfactory results. I see that Mayor Creiger, of Chicago, has recently been advocating that the city should furnish its own lighting plant. Prof. Ely, of Johns Hopkins University, has published a striking series of papers bearing on this subject. The abuses of private ownership are far greater than those pertaining to public ownership."

"Would you not, by leasing the roads to private companies, duplicate the old evil? For the companies would try to make as much as they could out of their lease, and thus put the public to the same inconveniences that they would suffer under absolute ownership; only possibly more so, for the means of making good profits on their leases might be more difficult for the companies than if they owned the fee."

"I don't think so," was Mr. Thurber's reply, "for in leasing the roads you can impose conditions upon the lessees. Besides, I am advocating absolute ownership; and it is only as a concession, especially in view of the belief that the politicians would get control, that I would suggest a lessorship."

Richard V. Harnett said: "I have always believed in the city owning the means of transportation, but not in running it. Mayor Hewitt's plan proposed this."

"May I ask your reason for not believing in the operation of such a road by the city?"

"It is against public policy," said Mr. Harnett, "for the city to become a railroad corporation. The city could own the rapid transit roads and lease them to private parties, imposing conditions as to the manner in which they shall be operated. One of these might be that each passenger should be entitled to a seat, so that there should not be overcrowding. With a comprehensive system of rapid transit this would be poss for there would be new lines of travel, and these would give greater accommodations. I am in favor of connecting the Battery with the New York Central Depot. This would go a great way toward solving the rapid transit problem. Then I also favor the cable system, which would greatly relieve the crush on the "L" roads south of 59th street, for many people living south of Central Park would use the cable road in preference to the elevated roads, even if it took a little longer to get to and from business. I am one of thousands who get on at 33d street and 6th avenue, and I can only say that if we had cable roads in operation now I would go down town by such a road, which would land me at my office in about as quick time as I could get there by using the elevated road. I may say that I am for any system that will give the people of this city efficient rapid transit."

Richard Deeves said: "It would be in the line of paternal government for the city to own its lines, and I don't believe in paternal government. If the city owned its own roads the politicians would control them, and you would have a lot of 'bruisers' as conductors." After some further talk, in which it was pointed out that the city already owns its own water, and is therefore, in a measure, a "paternal" government, it was found that Mr. Deeves' main objection was that the politicians would get control of the roads if they were owned by the city.

Dwight H. Olmstead, the lawyer, said: "I think it would be a dangerous experiment. It would place the rapid transit roads in the hands of the class of men who are now managing the city government. I am in favor of a body of gentlemen of high standing in the community building and operating the road."

"Then your objection is not to the city owning the road, but to its being owned while such men as now run the city government are in control?"

"That is so," said Mr. Olmstead, "and I do not see that there is any possibility of a change for many years to come in the character of our city government. If it were like that of London, where gentlemen of the highest standing in the community have control, I would be perfectly willing to have the city build rapid transit roads and operate them."

Geo. S. Lespinasse said: "There are so many conflicting interests opposed to each other in this matter, that I think we shall have to come to the city to give us rapid transit roads as a last resort. I would favor such a plan. The fear that the road would be inefficiently run by the politicians is a mistaken one. Look at the Brooklyn Bridge. There was one of the largest public improvements ever undertaken. Will anyone say that the cities of New York and Brooklyn are not running that bridge properly? And will anyone say that we would have had such cheap fares on that bridge if it had ever been undertaken by a private company?"

R. A. Chesebrough said: "I would be perfectly satisfied with it. would not object to seeing gas, electric light and rapid transit railroads in the hands of the city government. The profits would be very large and could be devoted toward reducing our taxes. The gas companies now manufacture excellent gas, at a cost of about 22 cents per thousand feet. They charge $1.25, and the profits are therefore enormous. They have watered their capital stock until it is now more than quadrupled, and if the city had originally built its gasworks and pipes, we would be getting gas at anywhere from 50 to 60 cents per thousand feet, instead of paying double that price. I think it would be a great advance for the better to have the rapid transit roads in the hands of the city government."

A. Disbecker, a member of the Legislative Committee of the Real Estate Exchange and an ex-Police Commissioner, said: "I am opposed to it, because the roads would be in the hands of the politicians and would not have efficiency. When I was on the Police Commission the Street Cleaning Department was under the jurisdiction of that commission. I made a strong effort to put in able-bodied and capable men, but the politicians had such a hold on my four colleagues that I found nearly every time the good men were displaced by inefficient ones, and the able bodied men frequently for decrepit men, who could not do the work necessary. These men were put in for political reasons, not on account of their ability to do the work required of them. It is because I think this would occur if the rapid transit roads were run by the city that I oppose such a project. If we had a perfectly honest set of officials, all the way through, and could rely upon a purely business administration of every department of the city government, as is the case in English cities where I have been, I would be satisfied to have the city give us rapid transit. I am in favor of getting a pledge from every candidate at the next election that he will support a measure of rapid transit in the Legislature."

E. V. Loew, ex-Comptrollor of the City of New York, said: "I am in favor of it. Rapid transit has become an imperative necessity, and I would be very glad if we could have the work undertaken by the city authorities."

Jas. L. Libby, of Libby & Scott Bros.: "If it can be kept as free from politics, and be as judiciously administered as the Brooklyn Bridge, I would favor a rapid transit road being built by the city."

Geo. H. Scott, President of the Real Estate Exchange did not wish to commit himself. He was in favor of any plan that would give us rapid transit, no matter by whom undertaken. He was not prepared to say whether he would favor a city rapid transit road, as he had not thought of the question in that light.

J. W. Maclay, of Maclay & Davies, said: "I am in favor of it. I think it would help real estate very much. I have been out in New Jersey lately, and I find that there is quite a little boom in the new towns and villages, due to the influx of New Yorkers who can get home more quickly and with greater comfort than they can to the upper parts of New York City, and can live there much more cheaply. This ought not to be. We ought to be able to keep our population within our own boundaries."

James C. Wells, the New York auctioneer, was facetious: "I am not prepared to solve such an important question as the municipal ownership of railroads," he said. "I have not yet read Henry George's book and I would want to study the matter thoroughly before deciding upon it. When I was a member of the Board of Aldermen or of the Assembly I could give my opinion off-hand on every question that arose, but I am now head over heels in the auction business and I have no time to think out such a question as you have put to me. We want rapid transit beyond the Harlem, and I don't care who gives it to us, provided it is the proper kind of rapid transit."

V. K. Stevenson says: "No subject has occupied more of my time and attention than rapid transit, and in view of the short duration of each Mayor's term in office, the vicissitudes and changes in politics, and also of the fact—which I am heartily in favor of—that our adopted citizens having the right to vote, many of them not speaking our language fluently, are imposed upon by designing men, who slip into office at intervals, which is radically disadvantageous to good city government, and also in view of the fact that the more financial undertakings and obligations the city assumes, the more chance for fraud and financial entanglements, adverse to the interests of taxpayers. I think that for the city to undertake the building of a rapid transit railway would be ridiculous. What is the use of abusing the present elevated railway system, when the late Commodore Garrison and that set of men, built the Sixth Avenue Elevated Railway, at a tremendous personal risk, spending millions of dollars, and taking their chances on adverse decisions by the courts. Furthermore, take men of the marvelous enterprise of the people now at the head of the Manhattan Elevated Railway system, giving employment as they do all over the American continent to hundreds of thousands of people. These men have the experience and the ability and are perfectly willing to build a first-class rapid transit in addition to their present lines and anywhere the public want it. Any man that wants to ride fifteen miles in the air for less than 5 cents is a hog. I think the quicker we get rapid transit the better, and the quickest and surest way to get it is to let this established system be quadrupled, as its managers have the means and the experience to do it."

Geo. De Forest Barton: "I am not in favor of the city building and running a rapid transit or any other railroad."

The Work of the Legislative Committee.

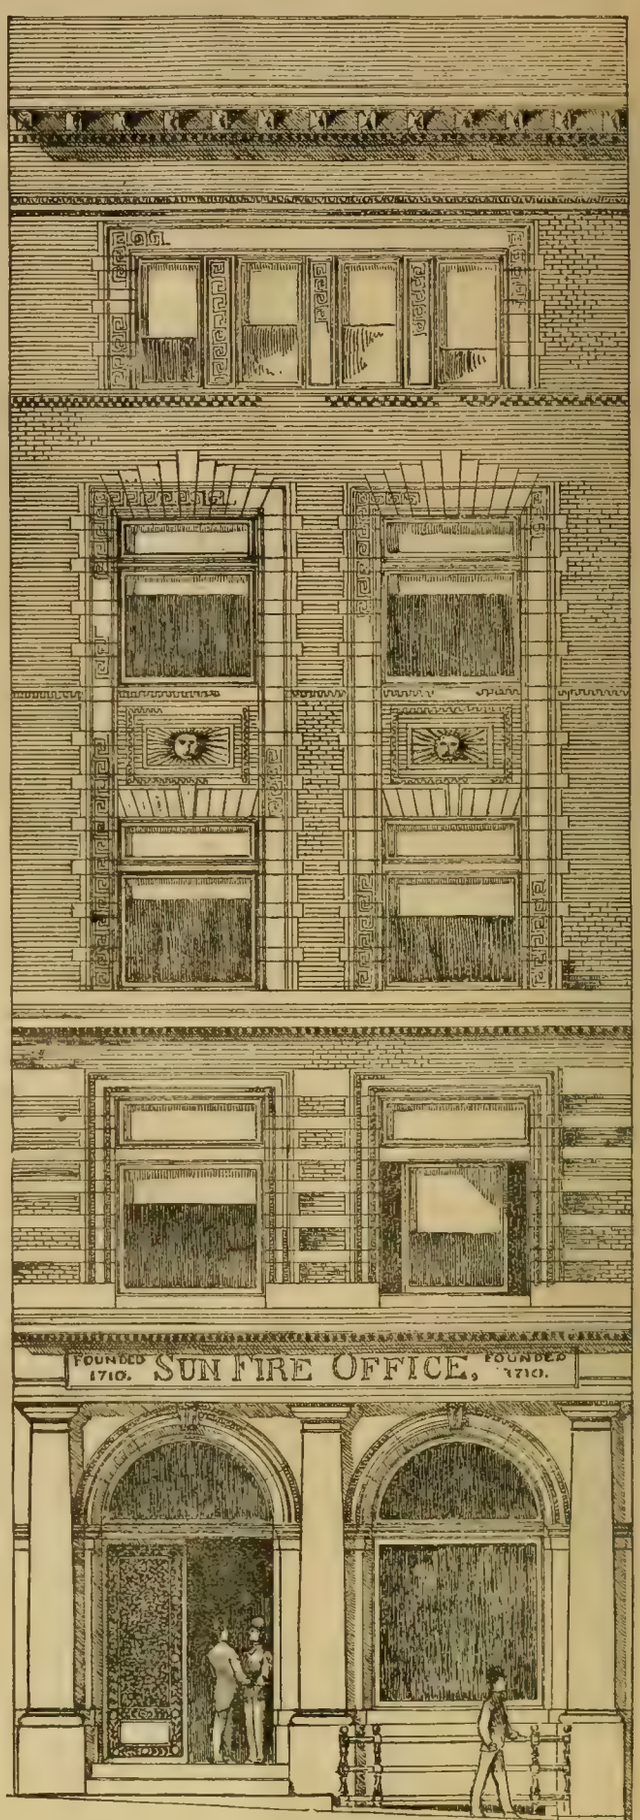
Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

An editorial in last week's RECORD AND GUIDE criticises the Legislative Committee of this Exchange for dissipating its strength by the consideration of measures not justly within its scope, and particularly refers to "resolutions about the hours of labor of postal clerks."

On referring to the minutes of the committee under date of May 6th, it appears that a letter was read from Henry E. Wilke, of the postoffice, requesting the support of the Exchange for the Postal Clerks' Eight Hour bill. The matter was referred to the appropriate sub-committee who have taken no action thereon. BENJ. HARDWICK, Manager.

Manager Hardwick does not state the matter quite correctly in saying that THE RECORD AND GUIDE criticised the Legislative Committee for considering measures "not justly within its scope." We did not refer to the scope of the committee at all, but suggested that it "dissipated its strength in the consideration of too many measures," and asked whether the Exchange would not achieve more good by concentrating its influence for or against a few bills than in dissipating it in the consideration of so many. This is a matter of opinion; but the question, we think, is worth attention.

How Much Will They Bring?



Last week we published estimates made by two brokers of the sum the Zion Church property on the corner of Madison avenue and 38th street would bring at auction Wednesday last. The first estimate was $269,500 and the second $315,000. After publishing this, and before the date of the sale, we received seven others, as follows: W. P. Seymour, $325,000; C. S. Brown, $325,000; E. J. Sause, Jr., $315,000; J. E. Leviness, $300,000; A. M. Arneberg, $295,000; E. M. Wilkins, $285,000; E. C. Wilde, $270,000. We would like to receive from our readers estimates of how much the following properties will bring: 5th avenue, northeast corner of 19th street, to be sold by A. H. Muller & Co., and No. 60 5th avenue, north westcorner 19th street, 50.9x125, to be sold by Richard V. Harnett & Co.

The Sun Fire Office.

[COMMUNICATED.]

Near Nassau street, in the midst of the district which has now become the centre of the fire insurance business, is the five-story building, an illustration of which appears below. It is a handsome structure, with an exterior of granite, brick and terra cotta, and bears the inscription, "Sun Fire Office, Established A. D. 1710."

The building has just been completed. It occupies a lot 27.6x97 in size, and each of its floors are already rented. The first and second floors and the basement are used by the company—the basement for the storage of documents and supplies, the first floor for the transaction of their local business, and the second floor for their out of-town business. The third floor is leased to the United States branch of the Transatlantic Insurance Company, of Germany; the fourth floor to Fred. H. Parson, insurance broker; and the fifth floor to Jos. S. Spinney, merchant.

The building has a very handsome interior. The main hallway is entered through a large door of massive oak, containing a centre piece of wrought iron in a novel design. The flooring and wainscoting are of marble, and this is carried through the entire building. Each floor is in hardwood trim, oak and qurtered oak being used. There are mantels, mirrors and fireplaces in the private offices of each suite, and all the necessary accommodations for an office building of a first-class character have been provided, including an elevator, steam heat, electric gas lighting, sanitary plumbing, etc. Every floor has excellent light and ventilation, and all the decorations and trim are in light colors, thus giving a bright and cheerful aspect throughout.

The Sun Fire Office is, with one exception, the oldest established fire insurance corporation in the world. It was established in 1710, and has therefore been in existence 180 years. The oldest company dates back to 1696, but the Sun Fire Office is said to have been in existence before 1710, though it was not reorganized as a regular company until that year.

As a corporation doing a purely fire insurance business it is, however, the oldest, as well as one of the richest. Its assets in Great Britain are not allowed by law to be published and made use of in the United States. The company was established in this country in 1882, and brought over $1,500,000. This has since increased to nearly $2,000,000; the company's assets on January 1, 1890, having been $1,956,331, and its surplus over all liabilities $817,610. Its business extends all over the United States, and its agents number some 1,500, all of whom report to the main office in the new building at No. 54 Pine street.

The New York trustees of the company are Messrs. Geo. D. Morgan, H. M. Alexander and John J. McCook. The building, with ground, cost about $160,000. The plans were drawn by Architect A. D. Pickering, and the building was constructed entirely by Horgan & Slattery. The construction is of a most substantial character, while the interior appointments are handsome and attractive. It may be added that the agent who established the rentals and negotiated the leases for the offices is Jacob Leuly of No. 42 Pine street. OBSERVER.

A Stable Misplaced.

In our "Out Among the Builders" column will be found the particulars of a stable to be built by William B. Baldwin on three lots on the north side of 76th street, 100 feet west of 8th avenue. The fact will prove of interest to property-owners and residents in the vicinity. The district is at present a desirable one, being improved with dwellings and the best class of flats. It is a pity that anything detrimental to the district should be erected in it. There are plenty of plots to be found in the neighborhood which would be just as satisfactory for the purpose, but which would not interfere with the erection of the best class of improvements.

A Building Trades Exchange.

On Wednesday last the Building Trades Exchange of the City of Brooklyn was opened at its meeting room, No. 179 Graham avenue, corner of Meserole street. A large number of prominent building material men were present, and the Exchange was opened by Mayor Chapin. The Mayor, in his remarks, pointed out the growing importance of Brooklyn's building interests and the advantages of organization. Other addresses were made, and the ceremonies were fittingly ended by the serving of a collation.

A Few Points About "Overbuilding."

[COMMUNICATED.]

There is no doubt that during the last year or two there has been overbuilding in this city. This is shown by the number of vacant houses on the market; and houses which have been on the market, not for two or three months, but for a year and, in some cases, even longer. This overbuilding has not been confined to any one locality or to any one class of structures, but is prevalent in all sections and all kinds of buildings. The cause of the evil has been variously attributed to the building loan operator for so readily furnishing money to carry on operations, and to the State Legislature for denying to the city the rapid transit which it has in its power to give, and for lack of which many people who would otherwise prefer to live in New York City have been driven to Brooklyn and numerous suburban towns within easy distance of the metropolis.

Overbuilding, however, is not to be attributed to any one cause to the exclusion of others. As a matter of fact, there are many, some operating in one direction, some in another; some predominating here, others there. The rapid transit difficulty has undoubtedly been a potent cause in keeping buyers out of the market, and the facility with which it has been possible to obtain building loans has certainly led to the erection of buildings scarcely warranted by the demand. The latter circumstance acts in this way;

A builder erects a row of houses on borrowed money. The buildings do not find a ready sale and, meantime, the interest and other heavy expenses must be paid. To meet these the builder is forced to buy another piece of mortgaged land and get another building loan for the purpose of building more houses. With part of the money thus acquired he pays the old debt, in whole or in part, and starts on the new job with only a portion of the money required to complete it. To meet the obligations of the second job he is compelled to start a third one, and so on until he either goes to the wall or by selling clears himself and comes out of the various complications. It is easy to understand that a man who operates in this way does not always build properly. His first rule is economy, and this economy not unseldom begets downright slip-shod work. There are some material men and others in the market with whom perhaps he may deal, who take advantage of his position. True, these men are not many, but they contribute their mite to the general distress. Knowing that the builder's money is not quick nor always sure, they fill his orders with a poorer quality of material than those furnished to other men, and consequently the house suffers. When the time for selling comes the builder has to demand a high price, so that out of the profits he may clear something for himself. He may find it difficult to obtain buyers at his price, the house or houses remain in the market, and the builder adds to his burden accumulating interest.

This is one of the ways in which the market becomes overstocked, and there are other causes which perhaps contribute just as largely to the "overbuilding."

The west side has, perhaps, been the most unfortunate in this particular building ahead of the market, and yet in the worst seasons there are some firms which always seem to have success in their business ventures. Take, for instance, the firm of Terence Farley's Sons, who have built on the west side even since the development of that section commenced. This firm now consists of Messrs. John T. and James A. Farley. Terence Farley, the father, who died in October, 1888, built in the four years preceding his death between 125 and 140 high grade houses, all of which were quickly disposed of at good figures. His sons, ten months after starting work, sold ten houses on West 71st street at prices ranging from $44,000 to $46,000 each, while builders on the same street, whose houses were completed some time before those belonging to the Messrs. Farley, have not yet disposed of them. It is not necessary to describe these houses which are so well known. Their construction may be judged of by the character of the purchasers. Dr. Howard left and sold his palace on West 72d street, for which he received $95,000, to live in one of these 71st street houses built by the Messrs. Farley. Three others were disposed of to Scholle Brothers, the bankers, and a fourth was sold to F. J. Dupignac, the well-known lawyer.

Since October this firm of builders has realized $1,179,000 from the sale of their own houses, and at the present time they own no houses which they wish to sell. The "Adrian" apartment house, however, which was built for investment, still belongs to them. This structure, which is situated on the southeast corner of 9th avenue and 72d street, contains eight apartments, one bachelor apartment, and five stores, besides the offices which are occupied by such representative men as Builders Francis Crawford, C. W. Luyster, and Architect Ralph S. Townsend. This apartment house is provided with every modern convenience.

The Messrs. Farley have just started four houses, similar in style and construction to the ten mentioned above, on the north side of 71st street, between 9th and 10th avenues. One of the four has already been sold. They are also building, for investment, an elegant seven-story brick and stone apartment house, covering about seven lots, which are bounded by the Boulevard, 10th avenue, 69th and 70th streets. This apartment house will have accommodations for fifty families, and it is estimated that the annual rental will reach $90,000. This will be the largest apartment house on the west side, north of 59th street and west of 9th avenue.

It will be said, of course, that we have selected the most successful firms of builders on the west side, perhaps in the city, to prove our position, but we might furnish others, if not such positive examples, to prove what we say.

The fact remains that the market is not overstocked with good houses. For such houses there has been, and things seem to indicate that there always will be, a ready sale.

We are troubled not so much with a superfluity of houses as with an abundance of poorly built structures. LYNX.

The City's School Buildings.

Supplementing such information as has been given in these columns concerning the new buildings for public school purposes, the following facts in relation to their present condition, date of completion, etc., together with the plans in hand for making necessary repairs during the vacation months and providing for relief from overcrowding will be of interest to those in any way connected with this branch of the city's work:

TO BE FINISHED BY SEPT. 1, 1890.

Grammar School No. 46, St. Nicholas avenue and 156th street.
Grammar School No. 89, Lenox avenue and 134th street.
Grammar School No. 90, Eagle avenue and 163d street.

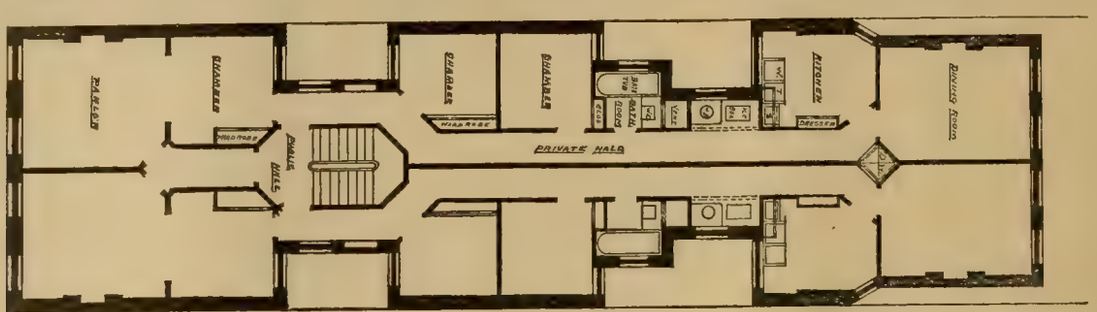
Plans and specifications under way for the expenditure of amounts as follows during the months of July and August:

Repairs, alterations, etc	$135,000
Sanitary repairs and alterations	50,000
Heating repairs and alterations	37,000
Furniture repairs and alterations	40,000

The above sums are in addition to the amounts applied to repairs from a contingent fund of the Board of Education and incidental ward funds.

Real Estate Exchange Matters.



On Tuesday the Legislative Committee met to receive the report of the Sub-Committee on Rapid Transit. The committee reported the Cable Railway bill favorably, and presented resolutions asking the Governor to sign the bill as passed. After some discussion the report was adopted and the resolutions passed.

The following gentlemen have been proposed for membership in the Exchange: Geo. W. Van Siclen, Octavio A. Zayas, Frank Perrin, Adelbert E. Hoyt, Nathan Wise and Anthony Arent.

A New Idea for Flats

[COMMUNICATED.]

It is surprising that architects and builders are so slow to originate and develop ideas and plans for making the interior of flats convenient and attractive. No housewife of any experience in these houses would fail to suggest a hundred changes in arrangement and appointment in and of themselves trifling and inexpensive and yet such as, if introduced, would do much to make these dwelling places attractive to a desirable and paying class of tenants. Much has been done in the way of exterior decoration to give to buildings of this character some more distinguishing appearance than they once had. But the interior arrangement is still largely of the stereotyped sort, offering a modicum of that comfort and privacy at all times desirable if not essential to home life. The difference in rents grows out of location rather than any improvement in the internal arrangement of flats, and the homeseeker finds a wearying sameness in them all. In another column we give the location of four five-story flats in West 83d street which are to be arranged as per the plans of the architect, illustrated in this issue and copyrighted by Mr. Minuth. An examination of this cut as given will show in part the special features and purposes sought for. The stairways are so placed and the halls so divided on each floor that each suite of apartments has a separate hallway which can be entirely shut off from either side. All windows open directly upon an open court affording an abundance of light and air to halls, stairs, sleeping rooms, kitchen, etc. The dining-room is placed directly at the rear which gives a pleasant outlook for the room and makes larger window space possible, together with any advantage to be derived from yard. This arrangement puts the kitchen in the best possible location, and brings the bed and bathrooms conveniently together. In houses of this class it is almost invariably the case that neither the kitchen nor the bathroom can be reached without passing through the dining-room for that purpose, so that any plan which affords independent access to each and every room must commend itself to builders at once. The cut we print will give quite a clear idea of the architect's purpose, and show that for convenience, comfort and privacy little is left to be desired by this arrangement. The addition of an elevator shaft will be a simple matter when required for houses of six or seven stories, with a frontage of thirty or more feet. It would seem that Mr. Minuth has hit upon a disposition of floor space and a provision for light and air which are the best of their kind, and which will, we think, mark a new departure in the arrangement of flats.

IMPROVED PLAN FOR FLATS. Copyrighted by F. A. Minuth, Architect.

A Complaint from the East Side.

The following letter, addressed to Mr. Richard V. Harnett, deserves attention, though in connection with the subject it should be understood that work on the Tranverse Car Road through the Park, from West 86th to East 85th street has been commenced:

R. V. HARNETT, Esq.:

DEAR SIR—If your committee don't think there are any more cross-town street cars wanted, let any one of them come on 2d avenue, between 59th street and 125th street, and make an attempt to get on the west side. They will have to take a day off to do it in. The fact is, people on the east side don't know what the west side is. They hardly know it exists, and the same with the people on the west side. It seems strange to me that some of our larger real estate dealers have never seen the necessity of more cross-town roads between 59th and 125th street from east to west. There are so many nice wide streets to lay rails from east to west for the convenience of travel, but it has been neglected, and no one seems to show the necessity of having them now. I hope you will study this, and see what a benefit it would be to the public at large by giving us several railroads to the west side.—Yours respectfully B. BOPP.

2030 2d avenue, between 104th and 105th street.

Notes.

Notice is given by the Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment, in the matter of acquiring title to that part of East 137th street extending from Rider avenue to Locust avenue, that the bill of costs will be presented for taxation to one of the Justices of the Supreme Court on the 27th day of May.

The Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment, in the matter of acquiring title to that part of East 153d street extending from Railroad avenue East to 3d avenue, give notice that the abstract of said estimate has been deposited at the Department of Public Works, there to remain until the 26th of June, and that all persons objecting thereto must present their objections in writing at No. 200 Broadway on or before the 25th of June.

For several weeks past, in their Wednesday sales of stocks and bonds, A. H. Muller & Son have sold stocks of the Real Estate Exchange. Blocks of ten shares brought on the dates stated the following prices: April 30, $1,203; May 7, $1,350; May 14, $1,335; May 21, $1,350.

E. T. Young created something of a sensation in the meeting of the Real Estate Exchange Legislative Committee last Tuesday by his suggestion that New York be divided into Eastern and Western New York States. This he suggested as a remedy for the neglect of New York City by the State legislators.

Jersey City News.

A GOOD BUILDING PROSPECT.

Real estate and building are in a bright condition at present. The spring has seen rents well held at last year's figures, while in some cases there have been advances. In sales of property prices have shown an advance, and the tendency is to higher figures still.

The building prospects for this year are considerably better than they were in 1889. Every month, so far, has shown an advance over last year. This will be seen from the following figures:

	1889			1890
	No. of buildings.	Estimated cost.		No. of buildings.	Estimated cost.
January	33	$83,445	January	47	$111,046
February	67	172,125	February	74	186,301
March	90	151,831	March	90	207,447
April	83	267,267	April	110	296,790
Total	273	$674,668	Total	321	$801,584

The figures for April, 1890, were made up by THE RECORD AND GUIDE in the office of the Building Inspector. The official statement for the month will not be published until next week. It will be seen that in the first four months of the year there is an increase over 1889 in the number of new buildings projected of forty-eight, and in the estimated cost of $126,916. This increase, from a New York point of view, may be considered small, but in a city where the buildings are still for the most part frame they show an important gain over the corresponding period of last year. Of the 110 new buildings projected during April, 1890, only thirty-five were of an estimated cost of $3,000 and upward, while twenty were of a cost of less than $1,000, the latter being one-story frame structures. The lowest cost of a building during the month was $300 and the highest $15,000.

BUILDING NEWS.

One of the most important improvements to be undertaken this year is the erection of a cotton mill for the Ling Spinning Company. They will erect buildings which will have frontages on Greenville and Linden avenues and Morris Canal, covering 233 feet in length and 124 feet in depth. The buildings will be one, two and four stories high, and of brick. The cost is estimated at $75,000, exclusive of machinery, etc. The plans are now being prepared by Architect Wm. H. Beers, of New York, and excavations for the improvement will shortly be commenced.

Another building, for which the foundations will soon be started, is that for the Jersey City and Bergen Horse Railroad Company. It will consist of a large brick stable and feed house, and will cost about $14,000.

The First German Evangelical Church intends to build a brick and frame place of worship on Monmouth street, between Wayne and Mercer streets. It will be 40x80 in size, and will cost $9,000. R. W. Sailer is preparing the plans.

Dr. Walter Rae contemplates the erection of a very handsome flat on Jersey avenue, near Bright street. It is to be a six-story, attic and basement structure, and is to contain an elevator, steam heat, electrical work and other improvements. The size will be 35x75, but the cost is not yet estimated. L. H. Giele is to be the architect.

Henry Ottersen will build a five-story brick apartment house on Grove street, size 25x62 and extension, from plans by G. L. Bettcher, to cost about $10,000.

R. W. Sailer has plans under way for a two-story and attic frame dwelling, 20x34 and 12x16 extension, to be built by Wm. Werther on Tonnelle avenue, near Pavonia avenue, at a cost of $3,800. The same architect is preparing sketches for altering August Zeugner's gymnasium at Greenville into a dancing hall, 45x70, with a dining-room, bowling alleys, etc., in the basement. The cost of the changes will be about $5,000.

Wm. H. Falconer, the real estate and insurance agent, is about to leave on a two years' tour. The name of the firm of which he is at present the head will be continued under the name of Wm. H. Falconer's Son.

Real Estate Department.

The market is dull, and although there are undoubtedly many transactions under way sales are hard to consummate. This is due largely to the high prices which prevail, and the prospect that large figures may be realized in the coming fall. While this feeling makes a strong yet it prevents an active market. At auction the sales have been only fairly successful, and suburban property on the Exchange floor continues to excite the most interest, except in extraordinary cases like the sale this week of the Zion Church property on the corner of Madison avenue and 38th street. The largest sale reported at private contract this week is that of the Burnham estate on the corner of 5th avenue and 18th street. Other sales along 5th avenue, and adjoining on side streets, will be noticed in our "Gossip" column. There seems to be quite a movement along upper 5th avenue, and it is probable that other sales in this section will shortly be consummated. It will be observed that Wm. Waldorf Astor has disposed of some more property during the week, both up town and down town.

On Monday very little business was transacted at the Exchange. The only New York City parcel sold was No. 411 East 123d street, in a foreclosure suit. It was sold for $3,500 over taxes and assessments to the plaintiff. There was due on this property $4,048. Fifty-four lots in the 8th Ward, Brooklyn, on 4th avenue, 41st and 42d streets, sold at prices ranging between $590 for a street lot to $1,650 the figure paid for a corner.

On Tuesday there was a fair attendance on 'Change notwithstanding the unpleasant weather. To close the estate of Mary J. Genin two four-story brown stone dwellings, one on 54th street, No. 20, east of 5th avenue, and the other on 69th street, No. 50, east of Madison avenue. The 54th street house was knocked down to Edmund Hennessy for $43,500 and the other dwelling was bid in by W. Westley at $40,000. Four lots on 63d street, west of 10th avenue, with a little rock on them, sold for $3,850 each to John Laughlin. Auctioneer J. Thomas Stearns sold that part of the Zborowski estate which is situated on Webster, Crestline and Brook avenues, in the 23d Ward, consisting of 125 lots. They were sold in plots of from two to ten lots, at prices ranging from $585 to $1,280 each lot. The principal buyers were B. P. Fairchild, J. Romaine Brown and W. T. McGrath. To close the estate of the late Charlton Ferris. H. C. Mapes & Co. sold about 113 acres of land at Throgg's Neck, Westchester. The prices were between $235 and $675 an acre, and a total of $40,095 was realized. The buyers were F. J. Schnugg, L. Lowenstein and E. B. Levy. Under foreclosure of a mechanic's lien No. 707 Greenwich street was sold to the plaintiff for $28,400.

On Wednesday there was a substantial-looking crowd on 'Change, many of them being interested in the sale of the property belonging to the Zion Protestant Episcopal Church which recently consolidated with St. Timothy's Church. Among those present were Robert Winthrop, Wm. A. Wheelock, of the Central National Bank, Jas. P. Kernochan, S. De Jonge, Amos R. Eno, Hugh N. Camp and Samuel Sloan. This property, consisting of a rectory, chapel and church, on a plot 98.9x125 feet, is situated on the southwest corner of Madison avenue and 38th street. The first bid was $200,000, from which figure it was advanced by bids of $5,000 and $10,000 to $300,000, the selling price. The buyer was Samuel Sloan, president of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad, who purchased the property for the South Reformed Church, corner of 5th avenue and 21st street. No. 17 8th avenue was sold for $12,400. A four-story tenement on 3d avenue, south of 109th street, sold for $20,000 to Jas. C. Devereux. A flat on 127th street, west of Lenox avenue, was sold for $26,750, and the adjoining house was withdrawn. Some lots were sold for the Pentz estate on the east side of St. Nicholas avenue, north of 141st street, for $3,950 each.

On Thursday there was a large attendance on 'Change. No. 38 Stanton street, near Forsyth, was started at $23,000 and sold for $28,500 to Samuel Keller. By order of the Supreme Court, in partition, No. 168 Elm street was sold for $20,750 to Alexander Bros. The first bid was $15,000. The sale of Brooklyn property was not very successful, as many of the parcels were bid in for the account of the owners. The Tarrytown property was withdrawn as the auctioneer could get no reasonable bid. All the foreclosure sales were adjourned.

On Friday the only sales announced were under foreclosure. Two of these were disposed of and the third was adjourned.

On Tuesday, May 27th, James L. Wells will sell by order of the executors, to close the estate of William Ross, deceased, Nos. 395, 397 & 399 Broadway, and 61 to 67 Walker street, being the southwest corner of the two streets. The plot has a frontage of 50 feet on Broadway by 100.4 on Walker street, and it includes the lot 27x100 adjoining on the street. Sixty per cent of the purchase money may remain on bond mortgage at 5 per cent.

On Wednesday, May 28th, Adrian H. Muller & Son will sell by order of the Supreme Court, in partition, the four-story and basement iron and marble building, with lot at No. 175 Broadway.

On Wednesday, May 28th, John F. B. Smyth will sell four two-story brick dwellings on the south side of 169th street, 100 feet west of 10th avenue; two four-story brown stone buildings, Nos. 271 and 273 7th avenue; the four-story and cellar brick building, lot 18x100, No. 364 9th avenue; and, by order of the executors, four five-story brick double tenements, Nos. 216, 218, 220 and 222 East 99th street.

On Wednesday, May 28th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell five lots on the north side of 67th street, between West End and 10th avenues; Nos. 248 and 250 West 40th street, the former a four-story brick flat, and the latter a three-story brick dwelling; the four five-story and cellar brick tenements Nos. 329, 331, 333 and 335 Stanton street; the three-story brick house No. 4 Lewis street; the four-story, high stoop, brown stone dwelling No. 4 East 43d street; eight lots on 127th and 128th streets, east of Park avenue; and the three-story brick dwelling, lot 20x98.9, No. 14 East 24th street.

On Thursday, May 29th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell twelve lots, situated on 117th, 118th and 119th streets, between 5th and Lenox avenues.

On Thursday, May 29th, Fairchild & Yoran will sell fifty-five well-located villa sites of from one to five acres each, situated at Sunnyside Park, Irvington, overlooking the Hudson. The property has many city improvements, such as fire hydrants and water mains, and will be sold under restriction against nuisances. The title is guaranteed to each purchaser by the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, and the terms are liberal.

On Friday, May 30th, at 11 o'clock, on the premises, Jere Johnson, Jr., will sell by order of T. H. Brush & Co., 1,000 desirable plots and lots at Massapequa, on the Great South Bay, Long Island. The property is situated near the water and railroad stations, and adjoins the Massepequa Hotel. It is twenty-eight miles from New York. A special train will leave Long Island City at 9:45 A. M. The titles are guaranteed by the Title Guarantee and Trust Company.

On Friday, May 30th (Decoration Day), James L. Wells will sell on the ground the Henry Stoney estate, consisting of a residence and 112 lots, situated on Tremont, Prospect and Marmion avenues, Elsmere place and Fairmount place, Tremont, 24th Ward. The ground is high, is supplied with city conveniences, and is only a few blocks from the Tremont station of the Harlem Railroad. The lots are sold separately. The title is guaranteed free of cost by the Lawyers' Title Insurance Company, and 60 per cent. of the purchase money can remain on bond and mortgage at 5 per cent.

On Saturday, May 31st, James L. Wells will sell on the grounds a portion of the Perot estate, situated on the historic heights of Kingsbridge, overlooking the Harlem Valley. Eighty-six choice lots will be offered, located on Sedgwick avenue and the old Boston road. Railroad stations, both on the New York Central Road and the New York City & Northern are but a few minutes' walk from the property. Sixty per cent. of the purchase money may remain on bond and mortgage at 5 per cent., and the title is guaranteed to each purchaser by a policy of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company.

Out Among the Builders.

Ralph S. Townsend is preparing plans for an eleven-story basement and sub-basement hotel, 50.5x100 in size, to be built on the southeast corner of 5th avenue and 59th street. It is to be of fireproof construction and will be one of the most imposing structures on the avenue. The architecture will be of the Romanesque order, and the first four stories will be treated in granite, rock-faced, and the front above in limestone. The first floor will contain two large stores, capable of subdivision, as well as the offices and reeeption rooms of the hotel. The floors above will contain parlors and living rooms for guests, exclusive of the top floor, which will be a mezzanine story. This is to be laid out partly as a dining-room, which will overlook the Central Park. The culinary department will also be on that floor, as well as servants' rooms, etc. The building will be steam-heated throughout, and will have elevators and all the modern improvements. Fifty men are now engaged excavating and the hotel is to be ready by October, 1891. The cost to the owners, Judge P. H. Dugro and Frederick Wagner, president of the Union Square Bank, is estimated at upwards of $500,000.

W. Osborn Stoddard will erect a ten or eleven-story office and store building on the plot, 92x175 feet, on the southwest corner of 5th avenue and 18th street. Nothing is definitely settled in regard to the plans for the building.

Charles L. Colby, the railroad man, will build an elegant private residence on the plot, 55x100, on the south side of 69th street, 175 feet east of 5th avenue. The building, which is to cover the entire plot, will be four stories high, and it is reported that it will cost in the neighborhood of $200,000.

F. A. Minuth is at work on plans for a four-story basement and cellar dwelling, 25x90, to be built for Samuel Boehm, on the north side of 80th street, 150 feet east of 5th avenue. This house will be one of the most elaborate, complete and expensive of its size in the city, and in many respects a model of its kind. The brick and stone front will be of the German and Italian Renaissance combined. A central bay in the second and third stories will be supported by a full-length figure in stone, while the cut stone in the bay itself will be tool work. A box stoop leads to the main entrance, over which projects a balcony from the second story. The keystone of the window opening on this balcony supports the base of smaller oriel window which extends to the roof line, and is finished with an ornamental top in frame and slate. In the cellar provision will be made for a bowling alley. The basement, in addition to kitchen, laundry, etc., will be finished with a billiard-room, and the first floor above will contain the parlors, library, music, dining and smoking rooms, conservatory and butler's pantry. The upper stories will be devoted entirely to sleeping and bath rooms. The entire house will be finished with cabinet trim of various woods, and the sanitary arrangements and plumbing will be of the best. The house will be built by day's work, which, in the opinion of many, secures better results. From the architect's estimate the cost cannot be less than $75,000.

Chas. Rentz is the architect for the $5,000 alteration to be made by Jacob Miller in the property on Broome street at the northeast corner of Norfolk street. These changes call for a one-story extension, 12x25, new store front, excavating of the cellar and finishing it as basement, new cornice, lintels, sills, internal alterations and changes in walls.

Schneider & Herter will furnish plans for two five-story brick, stone and terra cotta flats, 25x88, to be built at Nos. 410 and 412 West 39th street, at a cost of $45,000 for Weil & Mayer.

Paul F. Higgs has drawn plans for a two-story frame dwelling, 20x33, to be built on the west side of Hall place, between 165th and 167th streets, for E. J. Foley, at a cost of $1,800.

Francis Moran will build three five-story flats, 25x80, on the lots recently purchased by him on the south side of 105th street, 145 feet east of Madison avenue.

Bloomingdale Bros. will erect a six-story brick store, 40x100, on the west side of 3d avenue, just north of 59th street and adjoining their present quarters, and a five-story brick building, 45x60, on 60th street, between 3d and Lexington avenues.

The cost of the building to be erected by Oscar Hammerstein on the north side of 125th street, east of Park avenue, will be $80,000, not $45,000 as previously stated.

A Spence has plans for two five-story brick flats and stores, 25.4x90, to be built for Moses Solomon on the east side of 2d avenue, 75 feet north of 80th street, at a cost of $36,000; for five five-story flats to be built for John Walker on the northwest corner of 5th avenue and 116th street at a cost of $140,000—the corner house will be 35x96, and the inside houses 27x84 feet each; for four five-story flats, 25x75, to be built for St. Cecilia's Roman Catholic Church, at Nos. 305 to 311 East 105th street, at a cost of $15,000 each; and for a five-story brick and stone flat, 26.4x87 feet, to be erected on the southeast corner of 116th street and New avenue, for Kate Gallagher, at a cost of $30,000.

Wm. Greene will build a livery stable on the south side of 124th street, 147 feet west of 3d avenue, on a plot 91.4x101.

Franklin W. Baylies will furnish plans for two five-story brick and red stone flats, 50x92. These buildings will have very ornamental fronts, all the modern improvements, and are to be built for John Goerlitz, at Nos.

17 and 19 Greenwich avenue, costing $22,000 each. The same architect has completed plans for a six-story basement and sub-cellar brick, iron and granite warehouse, 50.11 and 32.8x88.9. It will be complete in all details of a modern building of its class, having steam heat, electric light, elevator, etc. Fred'k Beckstein is the owner, and the building will be built at Nos. 98 and 100 Hudson street and Nos. 1, 3 and 5 Leonard street, costing $70,000. Also for a five-story brick, terra cotta and red sandstone flat, 25x97, to be built for F. Siegbardt, at No. 713 5th street, at a cost of $22,000. Also for a $15,000 alteration, to be made for James Dillon, in the building at 441 East 19th street. The present building will be extended 30 feet and the whole raised three stories. The walls will be altered and internal alterations made, converting it into a first-class stable. Also for a $10,000 alteration, comprising bakers' ovens, vaults and internal changes to be made for David Bleier, in the property, on Avenue C, at the north-east corner of 4th street. This same architect will also furnish plans for the alterations to be made in the property on 4th, Christopher and Grove streets, for Phillip Goerlitz, mentioned last week.

Mrs. Catherine Garrick will build a seven-story and basement store and loft building, 70x116 in size, at Nos. 149 to 153 Leonard street. It will contain two elevators, one freight and one passenger, and will have electric light and steam heat throughout. The front will be of brick, iron, granite and Carlisle stone, and the cost is estimated at $150,000. Plans are being prepared by Horgan & Slattery, who will also be the builders.

Geo. H. Budlong is preparing plans for alterations, decorations and a butler's pantry and a dining-room extension to the residence on 56th street, owned by Mrs. Emma Richardson, adjoining the southeast corner of Madison avenue and 56th street. Cost, about $10,000.

Anne E. Leaycraft will build a five-story and basement business building, 50x50, at Nos. 43 and 45 College place, near Warren street, from plans by R. S. Townsend. to cost $20,000.

James Brown Lord is preparing sketches for a three-story addition, decorations and alterations to the residence of Chas. Marshall on 20th street, between 5th and 6th avenues, and for a two-story extension and similar alterations to the residence of Mrs. Frank Lawrence on 37th street, between Park and Madison avenues.

P. M. Stewart is about to build five three-story brick and stone front private dwellings on the north side of 85th street, between Riverside Drive and West End avenue. They will each be 20x55 in size, exclusive of two-story and basement extensions 11x12. They will cost about $75,000. Architect, R. S. Townsend.

The factory building at Nos. 19 and 21 Roosevelt street, recently destroyed by fire, will be rebuilt at a cost of $15,000 by Horgan & Slattery for the owner, Mrs. C. Garrick. The new building will be six stories high, and will contain steam heat and an elevator.

G. Fred. Pelham has plans under way for three two-story private stables, to be built for Wm. B. Baldwin on the north side of 76th street, 100 feet west of Central Park West. They will have fronts of granite and Philadelphia brick. Two will be 25x88 each and one 25x100. They will cost about $30,000.

A four-story brick and stone front addition is to be built on 7th avenue, between 11th and 12th streets, to the St. Vincent Hospital on 12th street, near 7th avenue. Plans are being prepared by Wm. Schickel & Co.

J. A. Webster has plans for a five-story flat, 25x96, to be built on the southwest corner of Lenox avenue and 134th street, and for a three-story tenement, 25x48 and extension, to be built on the south side of 187th street, 75 feet east of Arthur avenue.

Robt. S. Pollock is preparing plans for a five-story tenement, 25x89, to e built at No. 173 Madison street for Jos. L. Buttenweiser.

A seven-story and basement apartment house is to be built at Nos. 47 and 49 Morton street for Mary C. McLaughlin, from plans by Fred. Ebeling. It will be 59x irregular in size.

Stephen W. Smith will build a two-and-a-half-story frame cottage and a barn and carriage house on the east side of Court street, for Harvey Husted; cost, $5,500.

Contractors' Notes.

Sealed proposals will be received at the Department of Public Parks until 11 A. M. Wednesday, May 28th, for constructing sewers and appurtenances in 161st street, from Morris avenue to Sheridan avenue; for regulating and paving with trap-block pavement 140th street, from 3d avenue to Brook avenue; 166th street, from 3d avenue to Vanderbilt avenue, east; 146th street, from 3d avenue to St. Ann's avenue; for regulating and paving with granite-block pavement the carrageway of 161st street, or Clifton street, from St Ann's avenue to Cauldwell avenue; for regulating and grading, setting curb-stones, flagging the sidewalks and paving with trap-block pavement the carriageway of 148th street, from 3d avenue to Courtlandt avenue; for regulating and grading, setting curb-stones and flagging the sidewalks, and building and adjusting receiving basins where required, in 169th street, from the easterly line of Vanderbilt avenue, east, to the westerly line of Franklin avenue.

Sealed proposals will be received at the Hall of the Board of Education until 3.30 P. M. Monday, June 2d, for supplying new furniture for Grammar School Building No. 90; for sanitary work at Grammar School No. 61 and Primary Department Grammar School No. 60; also for repairs, etc., to heating apparatus in Grammar School No. 61 and Primary Department Grammar School No. 60.

Special Notices.

Not long since we announced that the well-known brokerage firm of Brown & Leviness had been dissolved. Both the partners, however, have continued in the real estate business, and both continue to occupy an office in the Real Estate Exchange building, No. 59 Liberty street. Mr. Leviness makes appraisements his specialty, but does a general real estate business also.

The important auction sale of vacant property which is to take place on Decoration Day, of the Henry Stoney estate, in the 24th Ward, will no doubt draw together a large crowd of buyers. There are 112 lots to be offered, all of which are about the ordinary size of a city lot, with the exception of ten corners, which are about 33 feet front. The property is choice, about 80 feet above tide-water. It is within a few minutes' walk of the four-track Harlem Railroad, and near other lines of conveyance. Miss Agnes K. Murphy, of 3d avenue and 177th street, who has to a large extent superintended the laying out of the property, and who is in charge of the sale with Auctioneer James L. Wells, says that she has personally obtained the signatures of all the property-owners between 169th and 177th streets, freeing the Suburban Rapid Transit Road from damages, and that that road will have a station at 177th street and 3d avenue, near the lots, by the fall. The sale takes place at noon on the grounds of the estate.

Joe H. Stewart, of No. 62 Wall street, advertises in another column that he has for sale three tracts of land, containing 17,712 acres each, in Texas.

John J. Cody is one of the most active and able of the young men in the real estate business in this city. His office is at No. 1438 3d avenue, between 81st and 82d streets. The fifteen years he has spent attending to the purchasing and selling of real estate have given him an invaluable experience. He is able readily to dispose of lots on and adjoining Madison avenue, so that any one who puts property in his hands would probably find an early purchaser. He also manages estates, and can give first-class recommendations.

Wallace Bryant, whose office is well situated at No. 2017 3d avenue, between 110th and 111th streets, is an energetic broker who does a good business in buying and selling real estate in his neighborhood. He collects rents, manages estates, and property placed in his hands is likely to be sold if there is any market for it. He makes a specialty of examining buildings and estimating values.

JUDGMENTS.

In these lists of judgments the names alphabetically arranged, and which are first on each line, are those of the judgment debtor. The letter (D) means judgment for deficiency. (*) means not summoned. (†) signifies that the first name is fictitious, real name being unknown. Judgments entered during the week, and satisfied before day of publication, do not appear in this column, but in list of Satisfied Judgments

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

[For prices see pages XII., XIII., XIV. and XV.]

BRICKS —Once more cost has settled off somewhat and the lowest prices of the season on Common Hards have been reached. It seems to have been the result of a continued excess of supply over demand with sufficient increase in the proportion of the better grades to prevent their holding a positively premium position, and $6.25 at the present writing is the highest figure claimed with some of the poorest sold down to $4.00 per M. Probably most of the really good smooth brick sold at about $5.50@$6.00 per M., while the balance of the stock of washed and inferior sorts were held for a bid and went for the best bargain that could be perfected. On Pales the range has been from $2.50 up to $3.25, according to quality, with a fair trade doing considering the general conditions of the market. Most of the further loss on value came soon after our last report, and while up to the present writing there is no real recovery the market has gained a point in the matter of supply, the accumulation of cargoes which at one time embraced a representation of more or less magnitude from every point tributary to this city has run down to really reasonable proportions, and receivers assert that so far as informed the chances are against any early important additions. Production is progressing steadily at all points, with no check beyond such as may arise through influences of the weather, but there has been some hints thrown out about checking the moulding unless prices soon shape up so as to give a better return. More or less old stock is left in manufacturers' hands, but it will probably be pretty much all cleared off by the end of the month Consumption expands a little slowly, but still is on the whole progressive, with the present outlet in the main up town, but the progress of work in the middle and lower sections of the city is such that the large structures are rapidly approaching a point where they will want brick, and when that outlet is fully opened it affords a quick and liberal call for the best quality of stock.

GLASS.—The general run of business in window glass is of fair volume and tends to increase somewhat with the progress of the season and the apparent fair chance for the evasion of any serious labor troubles. There is room for further distribution, however, and thus far supplies have proven quite sufficient to meet all the calls made for either imported or domestic stock. At about the middle of the month, according to statistics then published, there were 1,318 pots in blast and 196 idle. According to an agreement entered into at a recent meeting of domestic manufacturers the summer shut-down will be perfected by one half the total number of factories going out of blast on June 1st, and the balance on the 14th of that month. Prices are well supported all along the line Plate glass, without showing any unusual animation, has a fair uniform demand from week to week and at steady rates. The discounts are named at 50 and 10 per cent. on sizes over ten square feet, and 60 per cent. on smaller sizes.

LATH.—The market appears to be shaping into better form. Demand, especially on local account, has not proven particularly vigorous, and some buyers seemed inclined to make a dead stand off, but the arrivals, though a little larger than last week, were placed without apparent difficulty from $2.25 for ordinary stock up to $2.30@2.40 for the better grades, and $2.50 per M on out-of-town orders, and sellers are now firmly inclining toward the higher line of figures. Indeed we observe more than ordinary unanimity among receivers in taking a hopeful and even somewhat buoyant forecast of the early future, based upon the small fluantity afloat, light offerings at primary points and continued excessive cost of transportation coupled with a belief that a great deal of stock has been passing into consumption, and dealers are in want of more lath than willing to acknowledge. The probabilities of competition from Northern stock, too, have become materially modified of late by increase in the cost of freight and great scarcity of available boats on the canals, where the movement of ice monopolizes all the shipping room with thousands of tons still awaiting shipment.

LIME.—Not much new can be found on this market and reports run in pretty much the old channel, receivers claiming a fair general demand about exhausting current arrivals, and maintaining a steady line of value. From the eastward the advices indicate that a number of kilns have been stopped owing to an accumulation of stock in the sheds but there is an assumption of ignorance regarding the plans of manufacturers in the matter of the combination for the coming year. If the passage of the act increasing duty is perfected the chances are that manufacturers will make another combine.

LUMBER.—There may be heard the usual assortment of speculative talk about the conditions of the local market past, present and prospective, but they embody very little that is really new and scarcely anything worthy of repetition. There has already been a very good general consumption of lumber by the various natural outlets, and chances are favorable for continuation and increase, especially in the building line where new work is getting above ground, the upper section of the city above the Harlem and Brooklyn affording the best field. Against these outlets dealers are in turn very good buyers and the various channels through which supplies are purchased from first hands secure their due proportion of business. There is in a quiet way quite a movement among some of the dealers, and large local manufacturers of furniture, etc., to extend the practice of operating direct with mills where arrangements can be made to furnish uniform cut and selection according to the needs of respective custom. Of late the export movement has been a little fuller but not thoroughly satisfactory.

Eastern Spruce remains as one of the best praised woods on the list, and from the expression of views by some receivers it is not difficult to draw the deduction that they in no way abandon the idea of a high-strung market throughout the season. It is claimed that not only here have the supplies of dealers run down into almost exhaustion, but the same holds good all along the coast drawing supplies from the Maine and provincial mills, and that even with full production and full transportation facilities it will be difficult to make good the deficit, for many weeks at least. However, cost is admitted to be about as high as the market will stand, and now and then a seller is conservative enough to suggest that if all the logs are secured manufacturers will make every possible effort to get the money there appears to be in present production.

Piling is without much if any change, and while there may not be quite so many large parcels wanted, the amount under contract still to be delivered, and quite a call for medium and small bunches of stock, keep the advantage all on the side of the seller and thoroughly supports values for anything useful and merchantable.

Hemlock shows no more than the ordinary irregularity, and the variations of opinion may in many cases still be traced to the efforts of operators, representing different sections of the country, to deprecate each other's products. The general run of demand seems to be about as full as for some time past, possibly not observable on the local outlet, but including a further and slightly increasing call from the Eastern trade, considerable of it really new custom, and on prices we find full former quotations mentioned for both joist and boards.

White Pine is probably commented upon in as many conflicting ways as any article in the list of local lumber. Of course those who continue to make a specialty of the wood give the most roseate reports, and the opposite side of the question comes from operators who are running stock pushed as a substitute, and probably this latter division of the trade is most earnest in the effort to promulgate the idea that the consumption of white pine is shrinking. We doubt, however, if there be any loss as compared with last year, and while the casual agent may not find the custom here he had calculated upon the regulars are placing some very good contracts and claim to be securing about former rates. Advices from primary points do not as yet indicate any increasing cost on desirable goods.

Yellow pine develops few if any real changes. Demand of a general character prevails, including more or less trade in the way of yard orders for stock both here and at "up the river" and Sound ports, besides the usual average of specials, and something to be picked up now and then in the form of f. o. b. deals for export account. Business seems to be conducted in the former healthy manner, preserving a uniform range of value both wholesale and retail, and which neither the seller finds occasion to force up and the buyer does not waste much of an effort to break down. At primary points the Western orders are coming in with greater freedom.

Carolina Pine does not retain the uniformity of tone noticeable last year, and rather singularly this seems to be due to the popularity of the wood. Seeing the prosperity of the older manufacturers new ones are every now and then seeking to enter the field, and between their lack of experience and desire to make an impression they offer terms that really can only be offered as a sort of dubious method of advertising, and it is not always possible to abstain from competing by the use of similar tactics. On the whole, however, there is a good trade, and the average advantage is in favor of the buyer. Timber as before finds sale where cheap stock is wanted, and there is said to be a great deal of the stuff handled in small lots, but a demand of necessity rather than of choice is of course quite unstable.

Hardwoods of nearly all standard descriptions are in more or less demand, but oak is the fad this season and it is going into consumption through all sorts of channels, with, of course, quarter sawed away in the lead, and said to be inclining toward a fuller line of valuation to balance increase of cost at primary points. Ash, poplar, maple, chestnut and cypress for their respective uses are also securing attention, and there is a universal claim for steady value on all really fine stock. Home demand does not want much walnut, but the foreign outlet will take choice stock including logs, and also favors oak, poplar, ash, maple and hickory to some extent.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

In respect to white pine there is a slow movement of cargoes on Lake Michigan because of the late carpenters' strike in this city which gave the wholesale dealers here the opportunity which they desired, that for bearing the cargo market. Thus far there has been apathy among buyers of bulk stock in this city, and a consequent lifeless condition in the cargo business. Yard dealers appear to have determined to stay out of the market as far as possible until prices shall settle to a basis of nearly $9 a thousand on piece stuff. They have succeeded in forcing down prices 50 cents a thousand and are still insisting on a lower scale. At the same time they are distributing lumber rapidly from the yards and must put in a stock before long or go out of business.

A change in the cargo condition here may be expected before long, but it is difficult at the present time to predict as to the direction it will take. The manufacturers assert that they are in condition to pile their lumber and wait till the market shall be stronger, and in fact they are talking something besides buncombe.

The manufacturers all along the lakes are in better shape for getting value out of their lumber than in years gone by. Not only are they better equipped financially than of yore, but the Eastern demand has come in as a helper. Buyers from beyond Lake Erie are now plentiful as far west as Duluth, and they generally capture the cream of stocks, for which they are willing to pay a little more a thousand than their Western competitors. This enables the manufacturers to get good value out of a large portion of their product; but, while it gives them an outlet that they did not once enjoy, they are still bothered to sell their coarse stuff, which must be mainly marketed in the West at a profit. Besides, the quality of logs is constantly getting poorer, and this increased proportion of coarse stock has met a rising competition from the newer fields of Wisconsin and Minnesota, as well as that from Southern pine.

There is one class of Northern pine product that is in specially active demand, and that is bill stuff of the longer, larger and special sizes, such as enter into bridge, railroad and heavy construction of various kinds. Mills that are equipped to saw such stuff are having all they can do. This demand is likely to influence the general dimension market later in the season; for all mills that can be supplied with logs by railroad or tramway will be fully employed, leaving the ordinary dimension or piece stuff market to be furnished from the ordinary water side mills.

The Timberman says:

Operators in the Northwest are beginning to feel considerable anxiety in regard to the log drives. Recent rains in the lower peninsular of Michigan have improved the situation somewhat, but in Minnesota and Wisconsin the case is different. In these States the most conservative lumbermen and mill men anticipate an active lumber business, provided always that the log drive is what it should be. The increase of the lumber output, on the whole, will probably be but a slight increase over the cut of 1889. It is true that many mills will endeavor to increase their cut, and others will not. A number of small mills have been destroyed by fire, and though the individual capacities were small, the total would be considerable. Very little night work will be indulged in by the larger concerns unless the orders for lumber are pressing.

The stock of last year's lumber on hand is pretty well cleaned out, and the new cut is likely to be called upon in the near future.

Of course the summer's prosperity depends largely upon the drive, and upon this attention is riveted. Some mills have fair stocks on hand at the present time, but continued dry weather will greatly diminish the possibility of securing large bodies of logs.

Notwithstanding the fact that so few weeks of the sawing season on the eastern Michigan has passed, at least a half dozen mills have been interrupted in their work and compelled to call a halt, owing to the lack of logs. This does not give a very promising aspect to affairs. Both shingle mills and sawmills have suffered from the same cause, and little regret is expressed concerning the former, as it is believed the shingle market would be benefited if half the mills suffered from the same inconvenience. It is different with the sawmills, however, as there is no danger of the supply exceeding the demand.

Arrivals for the week were of about the same class of timber as heretofore, mostly common inch, cull and piece stuff, with an occasional load of good, but very little choice stock. Prices on piece stuff are ruling a little lower than a week ago. For short green ordinary lengths $9.50 is asked, and cargoes containing a fair sprinkling of short timber bring from a quarter to half a dollar more. Dry piece stuff is worth from fifty cents to a dollar more than green, and there is ready sale for what little comes in.

Common inch is bringing from $11 to $12, a great deal depending whether it is cut to boards or strips. Good inch is worth $15 to $19, strips bringing the top price.

The tone of the market is firm, and with the increased activity is likely to remain so. Commission men are confident that prices on piece stuff will go no lower, and until arrivals are much heavier than they have been it is not likely they will.

There is a better feeling among hardwood dealers generally than prevailed a week ago, and evidences of an increased activity in trade are to be seen on every side. Not only is there a better feeling because of an increased number of orders, but supplies are coming in with greater freedom. It was this phase of the matter that troubled dealers more than any dullness caused by the carpenters' strike, or other labor troubles. All winter they had been holding back, anticipating a lower market in the spring, and not desiring to stock up with high-priced lumber. Their anticipations were not realized. In all sections of the country, except perhaps portions of Wisconsin, conditions were unfavorable for logging, causing a short crop, especially of oak, and many interior mills, which were fortunate enough to have a fair supply of logs were unable to transport the cut to the railways, because of the impassible condition of the roads. Prices in the country went up and dealers were less inclined to buy than ever, although they were obliged to take some high priced stock to supply their regular trade, but this they had to hunt for.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman, in reviewing the general lumber situation, mentions as a significant feature the large sale of bulk lots in the Menominee district to go East:

Our Chicago correspondent chronicles some of the larger of the sales ranging from 17,000,000 to 30,000,000 feet, aggregating nearly 150,000,000 feet. The prices realized were as good as last year. This is in contradiction to the prices being realized further West, which are much lower than was paid then. The Eastern markets are all conspicuously strong. The Eastern buyers apparently appreciate fully the shortage in Maine, the Adirondacks region, Pennsylvania and in Michigan and are purchasing accordingly. The purchases thus far made more than justify the confidence already expressed that this large Eastern demand will more than counterbalance any increase in production there might have been, had all last winter's cut of logs become immediately available.

ENGLAND.

The London Timber Trades Journal reports a fair trade in American hardwoods, but no new features of a pronounced character and apparently nothing worthy of extended comment. From Liverpool the following is published:

There have been no further public sales of pitch pine, but we may look for some at no distant date, as several large vessels are now due, and these, if consigned on the market by the shippers, will probably have to be disposed of in that manner. We cannot disguise the fact, nor have we any disposition to minimise it, that the consumption has been upon a very extensive scale. A reference to the statistics of last month and the previous one will show the full effect of this. But we cannot shut our eyes to the fact that however good the demand may be at present, yet the stock, especially of sawn wood, is far too heavy. This is all the more apparent when we consider the quantity now at sea must approach half a million cubic feet of all kinds. Under these circumstances we cannot look for improvement in prices, but on the contrary we think the facts give good grounds for arriving at an opposite conclusion. Any improvement that may arise can only be effected by a very large curtailment of supplies, but to expect that shippers having their stocks on hand will stop sending them forward is as hopeless as trying to keep back the tide with a broom.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Generally, trade is in very good form, and the outward movement of supplies does not differ in any essential particular from about what the majority of operators have calculated upon. For house painters' dry colors there has been quite a steady sale, as well as for colors in oil, and there is also said to be a satisfactory deal in grinders' colors. Prices as a rule remain steady, and it is asserted that the recent advances noted in Paris Green and Vermilion are supported without difficulty. White Lead is steady, and the rates are understood to be closely adhered to by corroders both in and out of the Trust. As matters stand, according to a recent review of the prices and allowances, figures are named at 7¼c. per pound for lead in oil, in lots of 500 pounds and over, 60 days, or 2½ per cent. for cash in 15 days from date of invoice, but not otherwise. Corroders will prepay, or allow the actual freight on all shipments of 500 pounds and over to all railway stations and steamboat landings during open navigation. Lead in transit from factory to destination, and lead sold but not delivered, will be protected against a decline. On June 30 and December 31 the corroders will pay the following rebates, if the quantities specified have been taken by those dates, and provided that the buyer has maintained their prices in making sales, viz.: To buyers of 3 tons and less than 10 tons 4%, 10 tons and less than 25 tons 6%, 25 tons and less than 50 tons 8%, 50 tons and upward 10%. To make up the required quantity, all purchases of regular corroders' brands of strictly pure white lead, red lead and litharge may be counted. Dealers may allow out of their own rebate the rebates offered above, but only to actual buyers of the quantities, and payable at the times specified herein. Corroders reserve the right to discontinue these rebates should they find it expedient to do so, but in such event the rebate will be paid on all lead delivered and entitled to the same. Dry White Lead is quoted at 6¾c. in casks and 7¼c. in kegs, subject to the same discount, terms and rebates as lead in oil. Linseed Oil has found good general demand, and in fact crushers frequently report orders in excess of current production with little outside stock coming in and value on all makes thoroughly well supported. We quote at 60@64c. for Western and 62@64c. for City. Spirits Turpentine has come to hand with greater freedom of late and the demand falling away sellers lost advantage, the close showing lower and somewhat irregular rates. We quote at 38½@40c. per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

NAILS.—A pretty good business has been done with most dependent outlets, buyers taking hold more freely at a season when consumption is reasonably well assured. They are, however, a little combatative whenever manufacturers talk about asking fuller and better terms, and are not likely to submit to an advance without resisting as strongly as possible. Rates at the moment, however, are pretty low, about as low in fact as appears consistent with cost of production, and it does not look as though much could be gained by holding back orders. We quote at $1.75@1.80 per keg for car lots and $1.85@1.90 per keg for parcels from store.

TAR AND PITCH.—Business fairly active for the season, and as a rule the market seems to be in reasonably healthy condition, though showing no special buoyancy. Supplies are ample for all present wants. We quote Pitch at $1.40@1.55 per bbl.; Tar at $2 12½@2.30, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

VOL. XLV. MAY 31, 1890 No. 1,159.

Wall street seems to have been at its old tricks again, and one of the best signs we have noticed in that locality for a long time is that it is once more up to its game of discounting the future. For weeks past there has been a steady rise against seemingly adverse circumstances—a rise which culminated with the announcement that the Granger war with which operators have been rigging the street so long had been settled. But no sooner is it settled than stocks of all kinds rattle down in such a hasty way that one would think some new disaster had overtaken the market, and that the war had broken out instead of coming to an end. A reaction is in order, and the extent of it will depend on the settlement of the Southwestern rate war to which Mr. Gould is supposed to hold the turn. If he does we may be sure he will work it for all it is worth, and it will be Mr. Gould who will profit by the settlement and not the outside public. It is against the stock market that cotton should have advanced to what will lessen largely our exports of this staple; and our cattle trade, which a short time ago was so prosperous that shippers engaged all the available freight room, is likely to drop away to very narrow limits, owing to the low prices prevailing on the other side. The coming week is sure to be a very lively one, as stocks are selling at prices where a strong bear party—and there seems to be a well-organized one now at work—has a good chance of making some headway. On the whole it is a good market to let alone until things more clearly adjust themselves. Any holder, however, of such stocks as St. Paul, Northwest and the Omaha who has carried them through the wars which have carried rates to the low points of the last ten years ought to be now in no hurry to part with his stocks, but should a decline take place he should take on more, as Wall street may shake things for a short time; still it must have fuel, and managers of railroads are likely to furnish less combustible material in the future.

The announcement that the Astor estate is going to build a large and exceptionally handsome hotel on 33d street and 5th avenue opens a wide field for comment. Something over a year ago we pointed out in these columns that New York needed a model hotel. Those that we already have possess a fair reputation, but there is nothing exceptional either in their appearance or management. As specimens of architecture not one of them is imposing or noteworthy, and as to the accommodations lodgers may be satisfied, but they are neither delighted nor dazzled. The new Hotel Imperial on Broadway and 32d street is externally far superior to anything of its kind in the city, and its lessees will probably furnish good accommodations, but it is neither sufficiently large nor sufficiently handsome to become the model hotel of the country. It is needless to remark that the Plaza Hotel will not occupy such a place, and good as is the site for Judge Dugro's building on 5th avenue and 59th street, and handsome as is the structure said to be called for by the plans, there is no indication that it will amount to anything more than another hotel to be classed with the Windsor, the Fifth Avenue and the like. If, however, this Astor project is all that it is said to be, as the building will cost a million and over, and as the lessee is known to be a man of energy and ideas, it would seem that New York is likely to get a caravansary which will be distinctively metropolitan in architecture and appointments, distinctively the best in the country. Such a hotel would in one sense advertise the city if the city needed advertising—that is, visitors who stopped there and who came away with the impression that it was a model of its kind would of course talk about it from one end of the Union to the other, just as the Auditorium in Chicago has been talked about. It would become one of the sights of New York, and if the restaurant is conducted on the same plan it might well rival Delmonico's. Furthermore, the name of Astor is the best in the city to be associated with such an enterprise. It is a guarantee that it is not merely a shaky speculative venture which would have to aim at making a cheap and showy building, but a substantial business investment. There are a number of hotels soon to be opened and soon to be built in the city—a fact that is due doubtless to the general prosperity of such enterprises. New York, however, has room for still another of the kind we have indicated.

There are already signs of a faint agitation in the political sea. The party committees are meeting to consider what changes in their methods will be the necessary result of the registration and ballot acts; the Mayoralty booms of General Sickels and others are beginning to show signs of activity, if not of expansion, and the papers are beginning to estimate what sort of a political plum the next two years in the Mayor's chair will be. The politicians, of course, have carefully considered that little question long ago, and they are now occupied with the more difficult task of determining what will be the effect of the recent vigorous onslaught on Tammany, and how far they can count on it to aid them or to hamper them, accordingly as they do or do not wear ex-Senator Platt's livery. Everything, we judge, must be in a position of grave uncertainty even to insiders who know how many votes each ward politician is good for, in spite of all the investigations and exposures in the world. A few points only may be considered reasonably certain. It is not a Presidential year, and our election in this city can be fought out very much on its own merits. The politicians will have to pander to that sentiment in the community, periodically active, which demands the nomination of some respectable citizen. Just as Tammany recovered from many defeats by the election of Abram S. Hewitt, so it may hope to smooth things over and exorcise investigations and biographies for two years by the nomination of an irreproachable character. But they will be met by an equally good nomination from the County Democratic and Republican camps. These two latter organizations are certainly not likely to lose what may be considered a fair opportunity to get the better of Tammany, so that it is probable the ticket in the field will be triangular. There are many cards in the game which, however, have still to be played. The return of Richard Croker, on June 6th, will reopen the discussion on Mr. McCann's testimony, and will force the Fassett Committee either to show their hand more openly, or else forego any claim to have exposed anything by the testimony of the late proprietor of Mount St. Vincent. The continuation of the process of investigation next fall is probably the most uncertain element in the contest, and until it is seen what sort of a sensation Mr. Ivins has in store for us for the autumn season, judgment on the prospects must be reserved.

There is just one newspaper in New York City which considers that the city at the present time is well governed; and it may be worth while in passing to glance at the case which can be made out for so parodoxical an assertion. The points made by the Sun in support of this proposition may be fairly summed up as follows: That the arrests and the convictions are small in proportion to the population; that its death rate is smaller than that of most other great cities; that its tax rate is less than in any American city, with the exception of Philadelphia, and that our rulers, instead of having been thieves, have usually been men deserving of honor. It will be noticed that the Sun's defense is not particularly discriminating. The accusation that a city is badly governed does not mean that there is a particularly large proportion of criminals to the population, or that the city is an unhealthy place to live in. It does indeed imply (in this case at any rate) that the criminals have rather too much to say in the government of the city, and for that very reason, possibly, there are not as many of them arrested and locked up as there ought to be. The health of the city also is due to a thousand other causes not connected with its government, and to instance it as a proof of that the administration of the city is not corrupt is parallel to the far-famed logical conclusion that he who drives fat oxen must himself be fat. As to the tax rate, it forms no equitable basis of comparison between the expenditure of two cities. It is not the outlay per hundred dollars which would prove or disprove a lavish expenditure, it is the outlay per capita. Whatever is the proportion between the population of New York City and that of other cities, the proportion between the assessed value of our real estate and that of other cities is far more favorable to the metropolis. And since the tax rate is made by dividing the total assessed valuation of the city by the total expenses, any comparison of tax rates would be absurd, as comparing 3 x with 5 y, x and y being unknown quantities. Mr. Newton, in the very sermon the Sun is criticizing, gives figures that constitute a fairer basis for comparison. Says he:

> The per capita cost of the government of our city was estimated a few years ago by the Committee of One Hundred as more than 300 per cent. greater than the average cost of the twenty cities of this country whose population exceeds 100,000; as more than 400 per cent. greater than the average cost of forty-eight of the largest cities of this country; as three times as great as the cost of Berlin; as double the expenditures of Paris; as fourteen times as great as the per capita cost of the General Government; and as twenty-eight times as great as the per capita cost of the government of this State.

Even these figures, however, mean little or nothing, without a further estimate as to what a city gets in return for its money, and the very criticism that Mr. Newton passed—one made in these columns hundreds of times—is that we do not get any such adequate return. Think, for instance, what streets, pavements and parks Paris gets for one-half the expenditure per capita. Lastly, to prove its contention that our rulers have usually been "men deserving of honor," the Sun selects the names of our best officials to the exclusion of others who justify the contrary statement. The same is true, it says, of nearly every public department in which our people retain the right of choice. There is much virtue in that "nearly."

It is necessary that people should not fall into the same error that the Sun has made, and confuse criticism on the administration of our city affairs with the statement that our city is unhealthy, vicious, and in every respect a wretched place of residence. We all know that it is not. New York is a city that offers not only large opportunities for making money, but it has many special advantages in the way of getting return for it. Its places of amusement are the best of their kind, its stores and markets contain the product of all countries and climes, and of easy access are watering places and inland healthy resorts that are equal to the best in the world. Everything, in fact that intelligent private enterprise acting on large natural advantages has been done, and in consequence our city is growing rapidly in population and wealth. There is much even of a public nature which is well done. We have ample park room in some districts, and we are adding new breathing spaces every year, our Fire Department performs its functions very well, the higher branches of our Judiciary are in the main above reproach, and in some respects the work of the Police Department is satisfactory. A city is always, of course, a better place of residence for a rich man than a poor man. This statement is perhaps truer for New York than for most other cities. But the very fact that the metropolis does in many respects offer exceptional advantages, the very fact that it is increasing in population and wealth, should make us all wish to wipe out the many stains that blacken our municipal administration and remove the many disadvantages which we suffer therefrom. Our interest in the welfare of the city and our pride in its greatness would both counsel such a course. Dissatisfaction is the condition of all improvement, and we have too much to be dissatisfied with to relax one moment our efforts at amelioration. Our future commerce demands that our docks be both ample in size and permanent in construction; the necessities of internal transit requires that our streets be well made and well lighted, and that our railroads give the best service at the smallest cost; the comfort of our dwellings makes necessary well-cleaned and smoothly-paved streets; our form of government renders it essential that education should be as widely diffused as possible; and our self-respect and civic pride should make all of us wish to see the metropolis a model of good government to which smaller cities could turn for instruction and example. The best friends of New York are not those who think her a "pretty good town," but those who are aware of her faults and who strive to remedy them that she may be worthy of her destiny.

An interesting article is that of Mr. Frederick Greenwood in the Nineteenth Century for May, on the "Newspaper Press." It has, indeed, particular application only to the English press, and if Mr. Greenwood had been writing of our American newspapers he doubtless would have been delivered of quite a different series of propositions. Nevertheless, what he says has its application to the daily journals of this city, and is consequently worth the consideration of people interested only therein. Mr. Greenwood sets out to inquire why it is that newspapers which have increased marvelously both in number and circulation have rather retrograded in influence. Doubtless, a great many journalists would deny that this is true, at all events, in this country, or if they admitted its truth they would make an important reservation in the shape of the paper which they themselves were connected with. Thus the Evening Post makes small beer of the influence of the World, the sensational methods of which deprive its assertions of dignity and authority, while the World deems the comparatively small circulation of the Post to be evidence conclusive that its influence is limited. Whatever reservations are made by individuals, however, it is apparent that as a general thing the editorially-expressed opinions of the daily journals of this country carry with them little or no weight and exert little or no influence, just as, according to Mr. Greenwood, it is "less powerful" than it was in England. The latter finds several causes for this retrogression. One is that the multiplication of clamorously competitive newspapers has ended in a babel more tiresome than impressive; another, that the English press is not managed by the capable men who formerly made its columns weighty and effective with timely and sympathetic suggestion; still another, that the influence of the press has been superseded by that of the platform. If there is anything in the first of these two suggestions—and in all probability there is much — they are as applicable to this country as to Great Britain; but the last of Mr. Greenwood's causes has no bearing whatever on our own conditions. If there is a mode of forming and expressing popular opinion which possesses but little efficaciousness in the United States, it is the platform. In England, as Mr. Greenwood points out, public meetings and speeches have more influence over the common mass of opinion and sentiment than any similar machinery. The speeches are made by all the greatest statesmen, during all the seasons of the year; and, being reported in full, they reach the ears not merely of the 5,000 people present at the delivery, but of the hundreds of thousands who read the daily newspapers. But here, except during a political campaign, there is but little public speaking, and what there is does little to modify public opinion. A complete analysis of the reasons for the meagre effect of a newspaper-expressed opionion would carry us too far for our present limits; but the fact is one which should not be overlooked when we find a chorus of them howling for or against a man, measure, or custom.

How to Obtain Good Government.

Senator Fassett gravely declares the misgovernment of cities in this country is a matter of bookkeeping. It is to be hoped that to no such impotent conclusion as this the Investigating Committee over which he presides will come. The important part played by the ledger in daily affairs is not to be underestimated; but to regard it as the "palladium" of good government, to make it as Senator Fassett does the very fountain of a moral influence that will check the infirmities of the political character and rouse an apathetic public to a state of highly sensitive concern about municipal affairs is to claim for perhaps the most mechanical factor in city government a power that on the face of it is absurd.

The contention of the Senator amounts to this: If the public, now so indifferent to the character of city government, could see plainly in black and white how the taxes were spent, they would use every effort to elect only men of undoubted character and ability to office. There might be some force in this if figures, no matter where they be, were not naturally such dumb signs, mere hieroglyphics that must be interrogated before their full meaning is made plain. Behind figures there are always facts, and to get out those facts one must get behind the figures. To exhibit to citizens in the plainest bookkeeping that the policing of the city costs annually $5,000,000 reveals very little of value, unless the citizen is thoroughly acquainted with the work that ought to be done by a thoroughly satisfactory police force, and the extent to which the work is actually performed. Few citizens have that knowledge, and how many are there that will take the trouble to acquire it? As a matter of fact the system of bookkeeping now in vogue in this city reveals about as much of the way in which our city is managed as bookkeeping is capable of revealing. To acquire further knowledge committees such as the one over which Senator Fassett presides are necessary. No. The principal element in good government is not mechanical, but moral. No form of government or administrative method will insure good or honest government. The latter depends upon character.

As we have insisted over and over again in these columns the misgovernment of this city—its generally vulgar and dishonest nature—springs primarily from the people. But if a more proximate cause must be selected we would say New York is badly governed because it is governed politically. Citizens should recognize that in our municipal affairs there is no legitimate place for politics. No political question or principle is involved therein. In national affairs there are theories and principles which it may be conceded are sufficient to divide men into camps—into Republicans and Democrats, Liberals and Conservatives, Left and Right. The clash of contentious minds, even where the differences are trivial, may in the larger matters of State, where vast and remote consequences are involved, work for the general good, by preventing hasty action, by compromising extremes, by winnowing ideas, even by preparing the public for new conditions or arrangements in social life. But in city government there is not room for any real important divergence of opinion. The cleaning, lighting, sewering, scavengering and policing of a city, the chief functions of municipal activity, are not matters of controversy either as to method or as to end. The health and welfare of the city depend upon the adequate performance of these functions. Democrat and Republican administrations alike must perform them, and, in a general way, must perform them alike.

In short, politics have about as natural a place in the government of our cities, as at present constituted, as in our households. One of the first steps towards securing honest, efficient administration in this city is to exclude absolutely political influences from the selection of all officials from Mayor down to street sweepers. To this there are two preliminaries—first, the separation of general from local elections; and second, the establishment of Home Rule, so that the city be no longer dependent upon Albany. Will the Fassett Committee recommend anything of this kind to the Senate in its report? We fear not. A committee of politicians is not likely to decry politics. It is far more likely that they will recommend some sort of mechanical device like bookkeeping for the production of honest government. But citizens should not be deluded. Not until the object of our local elections is solely good government irrespective of politics, until in city affairs every voter is a citizen and all party distinctions are absolutely non-existent shall we have good government.

There is a rule of political action which was very popular in England during the first part of the present century and which at no time in the history of the world has been completely without authority. This rule may be expressed as follows: Always consult your grandfather about everything; do pretty much as he did for the reasons that he did it. The rule is a very simple one and it requires but small mental exertion to carry it into effect, and that no doubt partially explains its popularity. It seems to be at the basis of some of the opposition to a few of the questions propounded by the present census. By some of our newspapers it was deemed a sufficient objection to the ramified inquiry undertaken by Superintendent Porter and his subordinates that our grandfathers had never intended the census to be more than enumeration of the inhabitants for the purposes of reapportionment—a statement which is doubtless very true but which we venture to believe "has nothing to do with the case." Government of the present day is Protean in the scope of its action, and if that action is to be intelligent it must have data to act upon. The opponents of the census, conscious that their argument from antiquity is producing but small effect, have seized upon certain special questions which are to be asked relating to the acute and chronic diseases and the mortgage indebtedness of the sovereign people. These they denounce as monstrous. People, they say, will be justified in refusing to answer them and defying the minions of the law to arrest them. Picture, says the Sun, the scene in the streets as the wife, or mother, or daughter, of the absent citizen is dragged away charged with this new misdemeanor. One would think that the Inquisition had come again. Oh! for martyrs in the great cause of keeping your diseases to yourself. There is no necessity of any heroics about this very small matter. Heaven knows there are plenty of people in the world who go around prating about their ailments, and they need not refuse to do it once more to a person who wants to hear it and who may put it to some good use. No man is particularly proud of a damaged liver or a fractional lung, but it is no disgrace; and a person who has an acute or chronic disease which he is ashamed of will probably not scruple to lie about it. Indeed it is very probable for various reasons that these disease statistics will be utterly unreliable. But it still remains a very slight matter. And so it is with these mortgage statistics. Digging them out of a recorder's office would take an enormous amount of work; and no man need be ashamed of a mortgage any more than of a chronic disease. Probably no one would have even thought anything about it if it had not been for this foolish newspaper talk. We look forward to June 2d with the firm conviction that nobody will be dragged to prison; and it is to be hoped that since the questions are to be asked they will be answered truthfully. If a lot of totally false information is gathered it may do a good deal of harm; and while the enumeration of the number of fatal diseases you have may not be a pleasant task, it certainly provides no justification for making a fuss.

Men and Things.

"If I wanted a son of mine to succeed at the present day," I once heard an astute gentleman say, "I would make of him either a toady or a tough." Another gentleman who was present when the remark was made added reflectively that it stood for a deeper truth than one might superficially imagine. How far this is so I will leave for people profounder than myself to decide, but it has a certain degree of truth in reference to the style of plays and actors which succeed at the present day. One can hardly name a popular comedian, especially in the light opera line, whose methods of entertainment are not derived from Bowery music halls, and, as a matter of fact, many of them are products of the variety stage. Your popular play is simply a mixture of slang and slop-over: your popular actor (with, of course, some notable exceptions) either a toady or a tough. Walter Bagehot has said, with his customary briskness, that the reason so few good books are written is that so few people know anything. That is doubtless one reason. Another is that so few people demand anything better. If more books and plays were damned; if more actors were hissed, both the former and the latter would be very much benefited. But the actor and playwright are like Mr. Pickwick. "Always do as the mob do," said that worthy man. "But suppose there are two mobs," objected Mr. Snodgrass. "Then shout with the larger," returned Mr. Pickwick. All of which is advice which most people need no urging to follow. Our orators, papers, actors, all endeavor to shout with the largest crowd. But even this explanation is not sufficient to account for all the trash which the smaller "mob" are obliged to endure. It is impossible to conceive, for instance, how anyone with common sense could have gone to the expense of putting on such an absurd mixture of flimsiness and fustian as the "Blue Officer." A good play is, whether comedy, melodrama or tragedy, the nice union of plausible circumstance and consistent character, acting and reacting on each other under some definite plan and good dialogue means that, given the circumstance and the character, the conversation should be that which would naturally follow. Both the characterization and the construction of the "Blue Officer" were worthless; but the dialogue was even more so. The various counts and countesses, princes and serfs, simply talked gibberish; that is, they talked as no human being under such circumstances would talk. In the same way it is impossible to understand how De Wolf Hopper could have the courage to start on his astral career with an opera like "Castles in the Air," in which the action is prolonged without being sustained; the libretto trite and vapid, and the music monotonous in motive, and with some few exceptions utterly colorless. In one sense, there is no opera in which Mr. Hopper could bring himself to appear which would be worth seeing in and for itself. In all his productions there has to be written into the opera the one peculiar part which he plays, and which, with some few incidential variations is always the same. He properly does not belong to the operatic, but to the variety stage; he simply uses a certain libretto and music as a setting in which to interlard his "acts." Consequently everything else is really, if not apparently, subordinated to his grotesque caperings and vulgar gags. I have heard people say that he was a man at which everybody must laugh and at the same time feel ashamed of themselves for so doing. What truth there is in this remark comes from a certain unctious character to his humor, which overpowers the judgment and the taste (in cases where those faculties exist in meagre development) and constrains the risibilities. And it is this fact which makes him a more amusing clown than Francis Wilson, Powers or Solomon, whose vulgarity is never for a moment disguised by the superabundant animal spirits, which is Mr. Hopper's best claim for recognition and approval.

The widespread success of the many communities which enterprising property-owners have built up round about New York and elsewhere would suggest that the same methods of organizing might not be used on a larger scale. The simplest form of this community is that adopted at Asbury Park. The land is sold under restrictions which prevent objectionable kinds of settlers to people who subsequently sustain this object by the force of public opinion. There are so many communities built on this plan that it is scarcely necessary to name them. They are frequently united with a Building and Loan Association and other co-operative machinery. In other places the same principle of judicious limitation of the resident's individual rights with his consent has been carried further. No fences are permitted, separating one man's property from anothers, thus placing the dwellings in a species of park. This would not be bearable unless a man was sure that his neigbbors are people to be trusted; but as the land is only sold to a respectable class of people this objection is obviated. In the town of Pullman the principle has been carried even further, and has been worked successfully. The development of this species of co-operation would make an interesting study. It is animated fundamentally by the same idea as were the earlier unsuccessful communities, such as Brook Farm; but they do not require the individual to surrender any portion of his personal rights, which a man who pays his debts desires to retain. As I said at the beginning, in time they will probably be extended to embrace larger numbers of people of a greater variety of classes; and, furthermore, it is probable that the extent to which individual rights will be willingly surrendered, so that the community may become a pleasant and wholesome place of residence will increase. Just as the inhabitants of western towns combine for the purpose of bringing factories and industries to their cities, so will these communities combine for the purpose of making their residences both delightful and economical dwelling places.

The clergymen of the city seem to be taking up the war against Tammany rule. A number of sermons of late have held our municipal misgovernment up to reproach, and last Sunday the Rev. Heber Newton joined in the chorus. It is, perhaps, well that there should be some public speakers to impress home truths on the public, and under the circumstances it is advisable that the work should be done by the ministers. The papers do not lay enough stress on the fact that these very church-goers are responsible in the main for our City Hall cesspool, and perhaps in the lack of eloquent and convincing editorial appeals in their favorite newspapers, the next best thing is a little plain speaking from their spiritual adviser. Not only, however, did Mr. Newton's sermon smite Tammany hip and thigh, but it contained a large share of good sound doctrine as to the placing of public functions in the hands of public authorities. In doing this perhaps he went somewhat outside the boundaries which it is proper for a minister to keep. Purely political and administrative doctrine, however good, is out of place in the pulpit. His denunciation of Tammany and of the apathy of the "better classes" may be justified on moral grounds, but not so the promulgation of economic truths. If nobody else quarrels with him for so doing, I certainly am not likely to.

An Important Up-town Improvement.

MADISON SQUARE AT LAST SUCCUMBS TO BUSINESS.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company is about to build an immense structure on the northeast corner of Madison square and 23d street. For several months past the company has been quietly, and with unusual secrecy, acquiring several properties on that corner, and it was long ago reported to this paper that their intention was to secure a good part of the block for the purpose of improvement. THE RECORD AND GUIDE some months since announced the fact that the company had purchased one or two of the private residences on the corner mentioned, and from a conversation then had with Joseph F. Knapp, the president of the company, it was evident that the sales were withheld from publication because the purchase of other property adjoining was contemplated.

The company has now acquired Nos. 1, 3, 5 and 7 Madison avenue and No. 33 East 23d street. These properties all adjoin each other, and altogether cover a plot 126.5x125, which is 15,802.1 square feet, or nearly 6½ full city lots in area. No. 1 Madison avenue, which is 44x125 in size, was purchased from the Samuel L. M. Barlow estate for $260,000; No. 3, which is 33.1x125, from William H. Appleton for $150,000; and No. 5, which is 24.8x125, from William E. Laimbeer for $100,000. These have all four-story residences on them. No. 7 was purchased from Edwin Parsons for $115,000. It comprises a four-story house on a lot 24.8x100, and an interior lot adjoining in the rear, 24.8x25 in size, with portion of a one-story brick school on it. The company has also purchased No. 33 East 23d street, adjoining No. 1 Madison avenue, size 25x98.9, from the Barlow estate for $50,000. The five parcels, therefore, cost $675,000. The property adjoins on the north the Madison Square Presbyterian Church, of which the Rev. Dr. Parkhurst is minister.

President Knapp, when called upon at the offices of the company, declined to give any information on the matter. When asked if any architect has drawn plans for the building to be erected on the site, he said: "Yes, about a dozen; but we have not really decided what sort of a building we will put up."

The contract for tearing down the buildings has been given out to Thos. E. Tripler, and a visit to the spot shows that workmen have already nearly torn down the property to make way for the improvement.

It now transpires that plans for the structure to be built on the site are being prepared by Architects N. Le Brun & Sons. It is to be an eight-story, basement and sub-basement business building, of fire-proof construction throughout, and will cost about $750,000. It is to occupy the entire plot purchased, and will have a stone front. The first floor will partly be occupied by the company, the balance being laid out for store purposes. The entrance to the former will be on Madison square, and to the latter on 23d street, the corner probably being leased to a bank. The second, mezzanine, third, fourth and fifth floors will be used exclusively by the company, the offices of the president, etc., being on the second floor. The sixth, seventh and eighth floors will be rented out for office purposes, and, possibly, in part for studios. There will be four elevators all grouped together at the main entrance on Madison square. Steam heat, electric lighting and other improvements will be provided. The facade shows a massive and imposing structure, one which will dominate the square, and will only be surpassed in height by the adjoining steeple of Dr. Parkhurst's church. The roof of the building will be 125 feet above the sidewalk. Excavations will shortly be commenced for the foundation, and the structure is to be completed by the fall of 1891.

Another Fifth Avenue Hotel.

AN IMPROVEMENT INVOLVING $2,000,000.

Only last week THE RECORD AND GUIDE announced the fact that an eleven-story and basement hotel was to be erected on the southeast corner of 5th avenue and 59th street. Now comes the announcement that another hotel, of much larger proportions, is to be erected on the northwest corner of 5th avenue and 33d street.

There have been conflicting statements about the improvement. The facts, gathered from the most reliable sources, are as follows: William Waldorf Astor has agreed to build for George C. Boldt, of Philadelphia, a ten-story hotel building. It will have a frontage of 100 feet on the avenue and 225 feet on the street, nine lots in all. The site is at present occupied by the residence of the late John Jacob Astor, and by two private houses on 33d street. Out of respect to the memory of the deceased, the former will not be rased till about the year of mourning for the late Mr. Astor has expired. The two houses will not be demolished till May, 1891, until which time they are leased to the present tenants. No contract has been signed by Mr. Astor or Mr. Boldt, but "the understanding is complete," to quote the words of an authority on the matter. The cost of the new building and ground is estimated at $1,700,000, and may prove to be $2,000,000 by the time the structure and decorations are completed, which will be by about the fall of 1892. Mr. Boldt will lease the hotel for twenty years, at a rental to be decided upon according to the entire cost of the land and improvement. The lessee is well known in Philadelphia as the proprietor of the Bellevue and Stratford hotels and the Bullit Building restaurant, all of which are said to be unsurpassed in their management in this country. Mr. Boldt is said to have been supported by the best families of Philadelphia, including the Childs, Drexels and others well known in that city.

Preliminary drawings for the new hotel are now being prepared by Architect H. J. Hardenbergh, of New York City. The front will be of stone and brick, and there will be a grand entrance and ladies' entrance on 33d street, as well as an entrance for tradesmen at the extreme westerly end of the building. There will be no entrance on 5th avenue, the idea evidently being to keep the avenue side as private as possible, thus not interfering also with the privacy of the adjoining house on the southwest corner of 34th street, which will continue to be occupied by Mr. William Astor, notwithstanding the erection of the hotel adjoining. The front of the new building will be very imposing, and will be broken up into several balconies and loggias. These will, indeed, prove the main features of the street and avenue facades, which will contain about 300 windows in all. The dining-room will front on the avenue, and will be 50x95 in size. On the same floor there will be a grand salon, 37x40 in size; a ladies' room, 23x37 in size; and a music room, 37x45 in size. Besides this there will be a wine room, offices, café, pantry and hairdresser's rooms. The second floor will contain parlors and supper rooms and apartments, while the floors above will be laid out in suites of living rooms. There will be about forty rooms on each floor. An open court, 40x50 in size, will give light and ventilation to the interior rooms, and in the centre of this court a garden will be laid out, and it is possible that a driveway may be made, giving access thereto, though this has not been decided upon.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment have been requested by the Fire Board to appropriate $35,000 to purchase sites for fire-appartus houses at 145th street and 7th avenue, 137th street and Willis avenue, 161st street and Forrest avenue, 177th street and Morris avenue, 181st street and 10th avenue, and 110th street and 5th avenue, and to assign for the same purpose a lot, owned by the city, on the north side of 149th street, near Cypress avenue.

Important to Property-Holders

BOARD OF ASSESSORS.

No. 27 CHAMBERS STREET,
NEW YORK, May 26, 1890.

Notice is given to the owner or owners of all houses and lots affected thereby, that the following assessments have been completed and are lodged in the office of the Board of Assessors for examination by all parties interested, who must present their objections in writing, if opposed to the same, within thirty days from date of notice:

REGULATING, GRADING, ETC.

No. 1.—87th st, from West End av to Riverside Drive.
No. 2.—131st st, from Boulevard to 12th av.

PAVING.

No. 3.—138th st, from west crosswalk 3d av to west crosswalk Rider av; granite block.

[The limits embraced by such assessments include all the houses and lots situated as follows:

No. 1.—87th st, both sides, from West End av to Riverside Drive.
No. 2.—131st st, both sides, from Boulevard to 12th av.
No. 3.—138th st, both sides, from 3d av to west side Rider av, and to the extent of half the block at the intersecting avs, which includes the west side of Rider av, from point 414 south 138th st to point 804 north 138th st.]

The above described lists will be transmitted for confirmation on the 25th day of June, 1890.

NEW YORK, May 28, 1890.

PAVING.

No. 1.—St. Nicholas av, from 155th st to 10th av and Kingsbridge road; macadam.
No. 2.—138th st, from e s 3d av to w s St. Ann's av; granite block.

[The limits embraced by such assessment include the following:

No. 1.—St. Nicholas av and Kingsbridge road, both sides, from 155th st to 190th st, and to the extent of half the block at the intersecting avenues.
No. 2.—138th st, both sides, from 3d to St. Ann's av, and to the extent of half the block at the intersecting avenues.]

The above lists will be transmitted for confirmation on the 30th of June, 1890.

Notes.

The Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment, in the matter of acquiring title to 132d street from the easterly side of 12th avenue to the westerly side of the Boulevard, give notice that the completed assessment has been deposited at the Department of Public Works, there to remain until the 8th day of July, and that all parties objecting thereto should present their objections in writing on or before the 7th day of June at Room 4, No. 280 Broadway.

Rent and Damages.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

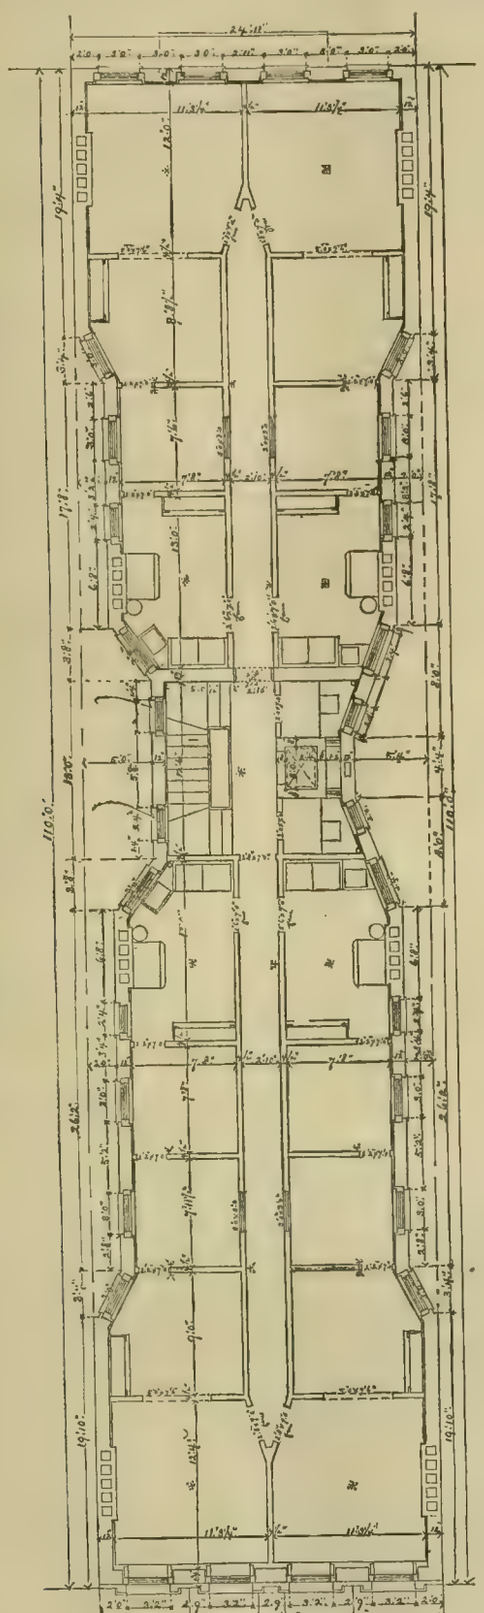
Will you favor me with an answer to the following question:

A rents an apartment in a flat owned by B. A signs a lease for the year a certain rent, payable monthly in advance. After A moves in, the Building Department orders B to make certain structural changes in the building, owing to there being danger to life and limb from faulty construction. B informs tenants in the building affected by the alterations that they may move, giving them the option of doing so. A decides to stay, owing to his having undergone the expense of moving in furniture, getting in new carpets, and otherwise settling down in his home, not wishing to undergo the expense of moving due to this notification. B said the alterations would take about a month, but they take three and a half months. During all this time A is put to considerable inconvenience, and is only able to use two or three rooms out of the entire suite. Besides that, the dust and dirt get in all over the carpets and furniture, and everything is in confusion during the alterations, even the wind and weather getting at the rooms. In addition, A loses, in consequence of the alterations, the revenue from a lucrative boarder for the three and a half months from the loss of the rooms due to the alterations. Can B demand full or partial rent for those three and a half months, and has A a good cause for damages against B?

MEMBER REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE.

[The tenant A was not obliged on the landlord's notice to quit the premises. He might remain, but by doing so he did not release nor surrender his rights, and did not waive the damages sustained, except that having received notice of the alterations, and understanding their nature and effect, it was his duty to keep down the damages if he reasonably could, especially in view of the fact that the alterations by the landlord were compelled by the law and the action of public officers charged with the administration thereof.

If the house became untenable and unfit, because unsafe for occupancy, the tenant would have the right, whether landlord was willing or not, to remove therefrom, under the privilege conferred by the statute laws of 1860 chapter 345, but the tenant could, if he chose, remain, and therefore, while he would be liable for the rent, yet he was entitled to his rights as a tenant; and the act of the landlord which deprived the tenant of the use of part of the suite of rooms hired by him, was a partial eviction and suspended all rent for the entire suite during the continuance of the eviction, and while this eviction continued relieved the tenant from the payment of the rent of the suite of rooms hired. We think the actual damages done to furniture and carpets by the dust and dirt can be recovered.



In regard to damages sustained by loss of boarders, we think these cannot be recovered. They are too remote and were not in the contemplation of the parties at the making of the lease.—LAW EDITOR.]

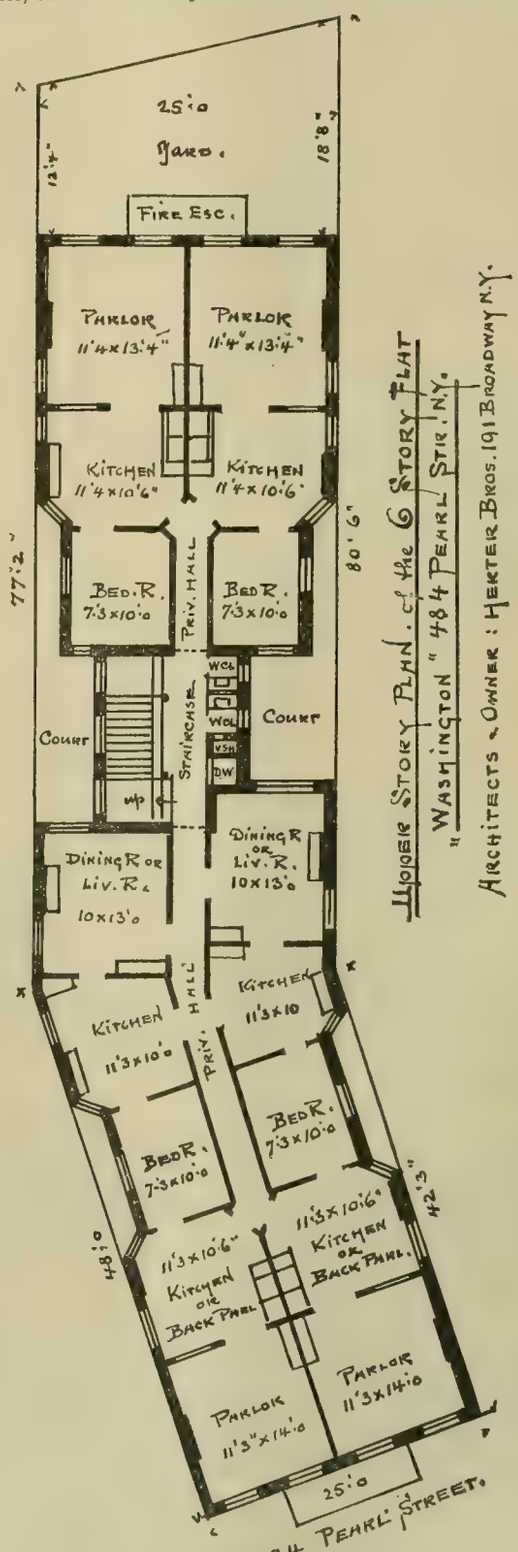
Fifteen cents each will be paid for the following copies of THE RECORD AND GUIDE: Year 1887, Nos. 981, 989 and 992; year 1888, Nos. 1034 and 1035; year 1889, 1087 and 1099. Apply at office, 191 Broadway.

A New Idea in the Planning of Buildings.



The question of how to plan and construct buildings with the least possible waste of land is one which has received in recent years close attention from owners, architects and builders. The changes made in the laws relating to building, restricting the area to be built upon as well as the height of dwelling houses, have caused special attention to be given to this element in a design. The owner of a lot, plot or block of land when contemplating the improvement of his land must consider and understand the laws already referred to; for he cannot lay a brick until his plans are first approved of by the Health and Building bureaus of the city government. In the first place, only 78 per cent. of the lot or plot can be covered if the structure is intended for use as a dwelling, apartment house or tenement; and, secondly, the height is restricted if the construction is not fire-proof. These restrictions are intended to secure—and no doubt do secure—the erection of better and safer buildings, but at the same time it makes clear the necessity for intelligent study in laying out the plans, so as to get all the advantages possible because of the high figures at which lots in desirable sections are held.

The foregoing facts are so well known to our readers that it would be unnecessary to refer to them were it not that we wish to call attention to a departure recently made which may possibly cause a radical change in the system of planning so long in use. It is well known that in all that section of the city north of 14th street the distance between the streets is about 200 feet, while between the avenues the distance varies from 400 feet to 900 feet. It is also known that the blocks are divided into two, and a depth of about 100 feet obtained for all street lots no matter whether they are used for building flats and tenements or private dwellings. When flats or tenements are built extra depth is desirable, while for private dwellings shorter lots would answer. Not many months ago the German and Catholic clubs bought plots of lots on 59th and 58th streets and divided them into plots having a depth of 110 feet on the former street and only 90 feet on 58th street. They needed extra deep lots on which to build and they were secured in the way explained. The Catholic Club has sold the 58th street plot and the German Club are endeavoring to do the same with theirs. The question, therefore, suggests itself, why do not owners and builders do as the clubs have done, purchase a plot running through from street to street and divide the same in such a way as to get the best possible buildings thereon, or, in other words, build, say, extra flats on one street and private dwellings on the other. Of course this might not do if the dwellings were of a costly character where flats in the rear would be undesirable, but for moderate priced houses built for sale or investment it seems entirely feasible. As to the returns there is little doubt but they would be satisfactory. The dwelling would be bought or hired by the man of moderate means, while the flats would command a very respectable lot of tenants who are not at present considered in the planning of such houses. We give below two cuts, showing what can be built on extra deep lots—in fact, what has just been completed on two such lots—and accompanying the cuts are some figures showing the comparative rentals received on a west side street for flats arranged for ten, fifteen and twenty families, or two, three and four families per floor. The figures are made as full and accurate as possible, so that our readers who are interested in the subject under consideration may be able to determine how to build.

	Size of house and lot.	Cost of building.	Value of land.	Sold for when compl'd.	Estim't'd annual rental.
A—10 family flat, 2 per floor	24.9x79x92	$15,000	$13,000	....	$3,816
B—15 family flat, 3 per floor	25x87x98.10	20,000	15,333	$34,575	3,600
*C—20 family flat, 4 per floor	25x87x98.10	15,000	13,000	31,000	4,100
*D—20 family flat, 4 per floor	25x88.9x98.10	18,000	13,000	32,250	4,200
†E—20 family flat, 4 per floor	24.11x110x123.10	22,000	17,750	....	5,100

* 14 rooms. † 18 rooms

It will be seen from the foregoing table that in the case of A the rental is equivalent to about 13⅜ per cent. of the cost of building and land; in the case of B, a little over 10 per cent.; C, about 14⅜ per cent.; D, 13½ per cent.; E, not quite 13 per cent.

In reading the table there are a few qualifying facts to be kept in mind. Flats C and D have fourteen rooms per floor and flat E eighteen rooms. Furthermore, flats A, C and D were erected between two and three years ago; B one year ago, while E is not finished yet. This is tantamount to saying that the relative value of the land occupied is greater in E than in B, and in B than in A, C and D, for the price of lots has increased. Another fact to be remembered is that the ten-family flat is not quite so profitable as the figures seem to indicate. There is usually, as landlords know well, a considerable margin between possible rent and actual rent received. In the ten-family flat, vacancies have a more important influence on the rent account than in the other flats. The fifteen-family flat stands next in this respect, and the twenty-family flats last. Beyond these considerations there is the following which must not be lost sight of. The extra deep tenement, not only utilizes the land it stands on advantageously, but affords an opportunity for the erection of small dwellings for which there is a good demand at profitable figures. Under the present system these cannot be erected. Land is too valuable to be allowed to remain unoccupied, and it is too expensive for people of quite moderate means to acquire. What is needed is houses that are of a comparative small price, because the land value entailed in their cost is small.

High Prices on Forty-second Street.

The sale recently of No. 124 West 42d street at $60,000 shows how largely values have increased on that thoroughfare in late years between 6th avenue and Broadway. Between Madison and 6th, and especially between 5th and 6th avenues, values had largely increased years ago, but the movement west of 6th avenue is of more recent date, and is interesting as showing that 42d street is, next to 14th and 23d streets, to be the greatest cross-town business thoroughfare south of 125th street and north of 23d street.

As illustrative of this we give below some examples of transfers made within the last few years, which will be of interest:

Real Estate Notes.

The work of removing a mountain of rock from the northeast corner of 9th—excuse the slip—Columbus avenue and 66th street has been commenced. As a matter of fact, it should be reported that it looks now as if Columbus avenue, south of 70th street, was to be taken in hand by enterprising builders.

Contractors inform us that, after spending much time on figuring for the work on a costly structure, to be put up south of 59th street by a company, they were quietly told they would have to take stock of the company in part payment for their bills. This is not as it should be; better work is obtained when contractors are paid in full, and in the end the cost is less. In the case referred to the number of estimates put in were materially lessened or the bids greatly increased, owing to the taking of stock being made obligatory on the part of successful bidders.

The opening of a depot near Central Park for the sale of waters from a red sulphur spring is a novel departure for a builder to engage in. The fact is, the springs referred to were taken in exchange for city property, and the sale of the water is expected to turn an honest dollar the way of the builder. Another builder and operator we know of now runs three summer hotels, all acquired in exchange for improved property. Still another was engaged in working a farm for several months, which he took in trade for city realty.

Denis Horgan, who for several years past has been living at Kenmare, County Kerry, Ireland, coming to New York occasionally, is at present in town. Mr. Horgan is a large property-owner, and keeps track of New York realty by having THE RECORD AND GUIDE sent to Ireland regularly.

The lack of facilities for the easy and rapid transaction of business at the New York Register's Office is very well known to all who have occasion to visit the old jail in the City Hall Park. A trip to the Register's office in Kings County strongly emphasizes the fact if emphasis were needed. In the latter office there is a place for everything and everything is in its place. The map room and map stand, for instance, are as far ahead of those in the New York office as the Dakota is ahead of a tenement on 60th street near the North River. When will the new municipal building so badly needed here be erected. Its completion would provide a suitable office for the Register as well as for other departments which now occupy offices for which the city pays many thousands of dollars annually.

The Gladys, on the southeast corner of 9th avenue and 75th street, which has been building for about a year, is nearing completion. There are sixteen suites and two stores, from which it is estimated a total rental of $20,000 will be realized. The size is 51x99 and 96x100.

For two years past rails for horse cars have been laid on the Southern Boulevard, between 3d avenue and North 3d avenue, and a car has never been run over them yet. People going to Oak Point are forced to go by a circuitous route that takes much longer than it would to go over the Boulevard. It is said that residents of the 23d Ward are about to circulate a petition asking the revocation of the present charter and the granting of a new one to people who will operate the road. It is said that the present owners of the charter are holding it for sale. Meantime the rails, which are partially torn up, are dangerous to life and limb.

Jersey City News.

John Muller will build a five-story and cellar brick store and apartment house, 25x50 and extension, on the south side of Montgomery street, near Henderson street, from plans by L. H. Giele. The store will be fitted up for a saloon.

L. H. Broome is preparing plans for a four-story brick and stone front tenement, 25x55, to be built by Louis H. Warncke at No. 100 Bright street, to cost $8,000; for a three-story frame dwelling, 21x40, to be built on Monmouth street, between 4th and 5th streets, for John Rugge, to cost $4,000; and for a three-story brick house, 21x38, to be built for P. O'Meara at No. 35 Harmon street, to cost $4,000.

President Thurston, of the Jersey City & Bergen Railroad Company, states that electric cars will be in operation on the company's route some time in June. One of these cars has already arrived at the Montgomery street stables.

Real Estate Department.

The feeling in the market this week is much better than that which prevailed at the close of last week's business. Reports of sales are not as numerous as they should be in view of the improved tone of the market, but this is easily explained by the fact that this is a "holiday week," and we have had practically only four working days.

At auction there have been some interesting sales, notably No. 175 Broadway, and the northeast corner of 5th avenue and 19th street. The number of parcels bid in for the owner's account has also been less than in the few weeks immediately previous.

Altogether the outlook is good, and we will probably be able to present next week reports of a number of sales which are now negotiating.

On Monday there was but little business transacted at the Exchange. By order of the executrix of James J. Fogarty, No. 236 East 31st street was sold for $14,850. No. 262 West 25th street was sold to Shepard Knapp, the carpet dealer, for $11,100.

On Tuesday there was a good attendance on 'Change, attracted, doubtless, by several first-class properties announced to be sold. Among these was the southwest corner of Broadway and Walker street, to be sold by order of the executors of the estate of Wm. E. Ross. The buildings on the plot at present lease for $24,000. The auctioneer announced that no bid less than $370,000 would be received and he started it at that figure. The property was not sold, as no one would make a bid higher than the figure demanded by the executors. At public auction the northeast corner of 5th avenue and 19th street, 25x100, was sold to Martin & Bro. for $125,000, to which figure it was advanced from the first bid of $100,000. Adjoining the above, in the rear, on 19th street, a three-story brick store, which is leased for $3,650 per annum until May, 1896, was sold for $59,000 to Wm. Berrian, who represents the Goelets. The first bid on the property was $45,000. In a foreclosure suit to recover $48,409 due on the property, Nos. 2 and 4 East 59th street, known as Morton Hall, was sold. This is 50x100 feet in size, and it is immediately in the rear of the plot on which Judge Dugro intends to build his hotel. The first bid was $50,000, and it was advanced to $73,000, at which figure Abraham Swartz became the purchaser. Mr. Swartz, however, refused to complete his purchase, and the property was sold to Judge Degro for $70,000. A similar accident happened in the sale by Auctioneer Peter F. Meyer of Nos. 4 and 6 West 4th street. The property was sold at first for $77,000 and resold to W. C. Winters for $74,000. In both cases it will be noticed there was a deficiency of $3,000 between the sale and resale. In a partition sale No. 609 Washington street sold for $19,025.

On Wednesday there was a fair attendance on 'Change. Two pieces of down-town business property attracted special attention. The first of these, No. 175 Broadway, just north of Cortlandt street, a four-story building which rents for $12,000 a year, was started at $150,000. It was sold by order of the Supreme Court in partition to J. B. Lounsberry for $205,000. The northeast corner of West and Cedar streets was started at $60,000 and sold to John Woolsey for $78,500. By order of the executors of the estate of Wm. Simpson, No. 14 East 24th street was sold for $27,800; No. 4 East 43d street sold for $39,000. At an executor's sale about thirty-six acres of property at Yonkers was sold for $295 per acre. The eight lots on 127th and 128th streets, east of Park avenue, belonging to St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, and on which the old church edifice formerly stood, were bid up to $7,900 for each lot, at which figure they were withdrawn. They will be sold on June 11th.

On Thursday there was no important sale of city property. In the receiver's sale, by order of the Supreme Court, of property at Irvington-on-the-Hudson, Henry W. Donald officiated at Auctioneers Fairchild &

Yoran's stand. The sale netted $41,225. Among the buyers were C. H. Butler, Chas. and Geo. Palliser and F. B. Mayhew.

Friday, Decoration Day, the Exchange was closed.

On Tuesday, June 3d, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell 120 lots well situated in Yonkers, on South Broadway, Herriot street, Radford street, Van Cortlandt avenue, Park Hill avenue, South Waverley street, and other streets in the vicinity of Park Hill and Lowerre stations. These lots are centrally located in a neighborhood rapidly enhancing in value, and command views of the Hudson River, Long Island Sound and the surrounding country. The location is healthy and convenient, the lots are ready for immediate improvement, and they have all the city conveniences. Eighty per cent. of the purchase money may remain on bond and mortgage at 5 per cent. interest, and the title is guaranteed by the Lawyers' Title Insurance Company.

On Tuesday, June 3d, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell the four story dwelling No. 448 West 20th street.

On Wednesday, June 4th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell the three-story frame double tenement, 25x50x110, Nos. 854, 856, 858 and 860 Dean street, Brooklyn, and by order of the executors of the estate of Daniel Hogencamp, deceased, a plot 50x99.11, situated on the north side of 125th street, 175 feet east of 7th avenue.

On Wednesday, June 4th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell three lots on 126th street, east of 7th avenue, connecting with another plot to be sold on 125th street.

On Thursday, June 5th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell fifteen lots, 25.2x100 each, situated on the west side of St. Nicholas avenue, between 131st and 133d streets, and the three-story dwelling No. 157 East 30th street.

On Thursday, June 5th, James L. Wells will sell sixteen choice lots at Williamsbridge, Westchester County, near the station of the Harlem Railroad.

On Monday, June 9th, James L. Wells will sell 109 desirable lots and six villa plots on and near the Grand Mosholu Parkway, Webster, Decatur and Hull avenues, adjoining Bedford Park, 24th Ward. This property is well located, being opposite to and overlooking Bronx Park, Mosholu Parkway and the handsome residences of Bedford Park. The avenues are graded, all city conveniences are to be obtained, and the property is within five minutes' walk of a station on the Harlem Railroad. The lots are sold separately, the terms are liberal, and the title is guaranteed to each purchaser by the Lawyers' Title Insurance Company.

Gossip of the Week.

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

William K. Aston has sold the four-story brick and stone office building No. 7 Pine street. The purchaser is said to be a lady who is now in Europe. The particulars of the sale have not transpired.

Keeler & Greenman have sold the northwest corner of 3d and Wooster streets, 42x75, covered by old buildings, to F. M. Jackson for $57,500.

D. Kempner & Son have sold, for the Huner estate, the northwest corner of 51st street and 11th avenue, 25x50x100, for $21,850, and for R. C. Winters, Nos. 347 and 416 West 25th street, two five-story apartment houses, each 25x85x100, for $65,600.

Fox & Kronengold have sold for Louisa Huber to Moses Goldstein, the four-story brick store and flat, 18x31, Nos. 116 and 116½ Monroe street, for $7,000.

NORTH OF 59TH STREET.

Solomon & Benedict have sold for John Ruck, Nos. 205 to 219 West 66th street, eight five-story tenements, to Richard C. Voth for $205,000; also 400 feet on the north side of 97th street, between Park and Madison avenues, for $175,000.

Hoffman Bros. have sold for Dean Eugene A. Hoffman the northwest corner of the Boulevard and 79th street, 100x125 feet, to the First Baptist Church for $73,750. The purchasers will erect a handsome church edifice on the site.

Frank L. Fisher has sold for Charles McDonald to M. C. Marsh No. 77 West 91st street, a five-story single flat, 18x88x100 feet, for $23,500; for Rev. Dr. Edmund Guilbert, No. 52 West 76th street, a four-story brown stone dwelling, 19x55x102.2, to Joseph F. Mosher for $35,000; for A. Johnson five lots on the south side of 80th street, 250 feet east of 10th avenue, for $70,000, for improvement; and the six-story apartment house and stores, 40x98x102.2 feet, built by Mr. Fisher on the northeast corner of 76th street and 9th avenue, to George A. Denning for $160,000. This building is not quite finished.

A. L. Mordecai & Son have sold for Samuel Joseph to N. J. Phillips the two four-story brown stone flats, 23x70x100 feet, Nos. 61 and 63 East 121st street, on private terms.

Swartwout & Co. have sold for Christian Bohlan to Mr. Broffet, Nos. 232 aad 234 West 121st street, two five-story single flats, 18.9x70x100, for $50,000. Mr. Bohlan has taken in exchange as part of the consideration a piece of property on Main street, Orange, N. J., valued at $20,000.

O'Gorman & Sturtzberger have sold to P. H. McManus the southeast corner of 138th street and Willis avenue, 75x100, for improvement.

We hear that the Furniss estate have sold to Henry Morgenthau the sixteen lots on the south side of 104th street, between Riverside Drive and West End avenue. This is half of the block which it was reported that Jay Gould was negotiating for a month or two ago.

F. Zittel has sold for John A. C. Gray to Hirsh Bros. the northwest corner of 9th avenue and 77th street, 100x100.8. Mr. Zittel was the broker in the sale of lots on 77th street, adjoining the above, reported a couple of weeks ago.

James T. Hall has sold another of his four-story high stoop residences on the south side of 75th street, between Central Park West and 9th avenue, the purchaser being E. H. Peck. This is the fourth sold of a row of ten recently completed.

Max Simon has sold for Sophia Boehm the five-story double flat and stores No. 1645 9th avenue, 25x about 65x100, to Miss Josephine A. L Cummings for $25,500.

Potter & Bro. have sold for J. W. & A. A. Teets the three-story and basement brown stone dwelling No. 361 West 122d street to E. B. Jack for $16,400. Mr. Jack has resold the same to Roland Reed for $17,000. This is the last of eleven houses completed in January, 1890. It is reported that the Messrs. Teets have sold one of the ten similar dwellings which they are now building on the south side of 122d street opposite the above.

T. A. Burnett has sold for Mrs. A. Pinner the three-story brown stone residence No. 133 East 64th street, 20x55x100 feet, for $22,500.

Francis Crawford has sold a four-story brown stone dwelling, 20x55x100, on the south side of 89th street, between Central Park West and 9th avenue.

Adler & Herrman have purchased from Christian Blinn, Jr., the northwest corner of 9th avenue and 102d street. This includs four five-story flats and stores on 9th avenue and a five-story flat on the street.

J. M. Horton has purchased two lots on the north side of 111th street, 150 feet west of 11th avenue, at $6,000 each.

The report that Oscar Hammerstein had sold his office building adjoining the Harlem Opera House, on 125th street, west of 7th avenue, we are reliably informed was premature.

G. W. Oakley has sold for John Sanders one lot on the north side of 140th street, 100 feet west of 10th avenue, to Fred. Meyer for $4,000.

Ketcham & Butler have sold for C. W. Lindsley the two three-story brown stone front houses Nos. 207 and 209 West 123d street, 15.7x50x100, to J. H. Snow for $27,000.

Westcott & Crouch have sold the five-story brick tenement No. 522 West 39th street, 25x75x100, for Ellen A. Brown for $14,250 to August Schellenberg; the three-story private dwelling No. 201 West 124th street, 14x50x90, for Wm. Morris for $11,500 to Mr. Retz; and the three-story private dwelling No. 205 West 124th street, for Emily R. Mitchell for $11,000 to C. A. Parsons, and have resold the same house for $11,400 to Edw. Out Among the Builders.

J. C. Burne has plans under way for two five-story brick and stone flats, 25x90, to be built on the south side of 99th street, 225 feet west of 8th avenue. Cost, $25,000 each.

A. Spence is the architect for three five-story brown stone flats, 25x82, to be built on the south side of 105th street, 180 feet west of 4th avenue, for Francis Moran, at a cost of $60,000.

The First Baptist Church, whose place of worship was at 39th street and Park avenue, have purchased the northwest corner of 79th street and the Boulevard, 100x125 feet, on which they will erect a handsome church. The plans in the matter are not yet definitely settled.

Peter Wagner will build a stable on the plot, 125x55, on the north side of 125th street, 100 feet east of the Boulevard.

J. Averit Webster has plans under way for a five-story brick and stone flat and store, 25x96 feet, to be built on the southwest corner of 134th street and Lenox avenue by Ferriter & Roselle, at a cost of $25,000. The same architect has plans for four five-story flats to be built for P. H. McManus on the southeast corner of 138th street and Willis avenue.

R. R. Davis has plans under way for two five-story flats to be built on the north side of Lawrence street, running through to 127th street, 274 feet west of 126th street, for Wm. M. Moran, at a cost of $40,000. Together the houses will have a frontage of 39 feet on Lawrence and 54.9 feet on 127th street by a depth on either side of 62 and 87.6 feet. Mr. Davis will also furnish sketches for a frame hotel, 48x122, to be built on the west side of Edgecombe avenue, about 100 feet north of 155th street, for Tony Eiser, at a cost of $6,500.

Isaac Stern intends to build a handsome residence on a plot of 60x125, on the southeast corner of 5th avenue and 68th street. No details have been settled upon as yet.

Stanford White, when seen a few days ago, stated that the erection of the Washington Memorial Arch will be proceeded with after Decoration Day. It will be in white marble, and a fac-simile of the original erected at the Centenary.

Fred Ebeling will furnish plans for a four-story extension, 15x22.6, to be added to the building on the southwest corner of 2d avenue and 62d street. The cost will be $5,000. The owner is H. Pohalski. The same architect has plans for a two-story stable, 13x180 feet, to be built for Mr. Tehulski at No. 646 East 13th street at a cost of $5,000.

Walgrove & Israels have plans under way for a five-story tenement and store, 40x irregular, to be built for Ester Silberman on the northwest corner of Division and Suffolk streets.

Fr. S. Barns has drawings on the boards for three five-story flats to be built on the south side of 124th street, 75 feet west of Lenox avenue, for Flood & Van Note.

A. B. Ogden & Son are the architects for three five-story flats, 25x80 each, to be built by Geo. H. Johnston on the south side of 104th street, 70 feet east of Madison avenue, and for two five-story flats, 25x86.8 to be built on the south side of 121st street, 90 feet east of 4th avenue, for Jane Browning.

We understand that the five lots on the south side of 80th street, 250 feet east of 10th avenue, will be improved by the erection of four-story brown stone dwellings.

Brooklyn.

The New York & New Jersey Telephone Co. will build a two-and-a-half-story brick and stone building, 25x80, on the northeast corner of Decatur street and Throop avenue. R. L. Daus is the architect.

Daniel Ferry will build two four-story brick and stone flats, 29.6x48, on the west side of 4th avenue, 40 feet north of 20th street, at a cost of $15,000, in South Brooklyn. I. D. Reynolds & Son are the architects. The same architects will furnish plans for a two-story and attic frame dwelling, 25x42, to be built for A. M. Suydam, at a cost of $3,000, on the northeast corner of Evergreen avenue and Cornelia street.

Out of Town.

BENSONHURST, L. I.—Dr. Speir will build a two-story frame stable, 30x50, for which R. L. Daus will draw the plans.

Special Notices.

Richard D. Kehoe, the well-known real estate agent and insurance broker, whose offices are in the Mount Morris Bank Building, No. 81 East 125th street, makes a specialty of selling real estate, placing insurance risks, and getting loans in the growing section of the city in which his office is situated. He has been a resident of Harlem for the past thirty-five years, and has watched its growth with confidence, being himself a property-owner. Consequently he is very well informed on real estate values, and has formed many connections. He has long been connected with the Germania Fire Insurance Co., and adds renting and collecting to his business.

Squires & Cleverdon, whose office is at No. 80 East 125th street, opposite the Mount Morris Bank Building, has some excellent private houses for sale on West End avenue and Manhattan avenue. They also have some dwellings on West 132d and 134th streets, which can be purchased on advantageous terms; and some land in the 24th Ward, and in Yonkers.

The firm name of Geo. Ashforth has been changed to that of Ashforth & Co. This noted firm was established in 1852 by James F. Chamberlain, and subsequently became known as Chamberlain & Ashforth. The decease of Mr. Ashforth has necessitated a further change, the firm now being as stated. The members of the newly-constructed firm are Edward Ashforth and Frank Blackhurst. Their particular specialty is the management of estates, some prominent New York estates having been and being still in their charge. Their office continues at No. 1477 Broadway.

William Danmar and Adam E. Fischer, architects, have just formed a partnership under the firm name of Danmar & Fischer, with offices at No. 296 Potter Building. Both are able men in their profession. Mr. Danmar has been established for five years in Brooklyn. He has done considerable work in the 26th Ward of that city, including the Vienna flats built by R. C. Wittmann. Mr. Fischer was for ten years the head assistant of John G. Prague, and did considerable work on the drawings which formed the basis for that architect's handsome buildings on 86th street, near 9th avenue.

Contractors' Notes.

Sealed proposals will be received at the hall of the Board of Education until 9 o'clock A. M. on Tuesday, June 10th, for repairing and altering Grammar Schools Nos. 39, 57, 68, 72 and 78, and Primary School No. 32, and until 3:30 P. M., Monday, June 9th, for making sanitary changes at Grammar Schools Nos. 57, 72 and 83.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

[For prices see pages VI., XI., XII. and XIII.]

BRICKS.—It would require a search warrant to discover anything that could be called positive improvement in the general conditions of the market for Common Hards. Not that there is any evidence of a tendency toward demoralization or an absence of occasional promising features, but sellers cannot as yet get a good grip, and since our last report the line of valuation has settled a little lower with $6.60 at the moment about all that can fairly be quoted, and probably no excess would be paid unless on a small load of superior quality and peculiarly adapted to some special want, a contingency too remote to fix a market rate. Supplies have been coming forward somewhat less freely, and the afloat accumulation was in consequence kept within boundaries that would not under ordinary circumstances be considered particularly liberal, but the indifferent character of the demand naturally had a tendency to magnify the proportions of unsold stock. It has not been a first-rate week for trade, however, and some allowance should be made for rainy weather to commence with, and practically two holidays to wind up upon, features quite likely to have some effect on actual consumption, though fortunately partially compensated by the lighter shipments, so that there was simply an amazing surplus of stock without reaching a depressing excess. Considerable inferior stuff has again turned up, and met with the usual fate of knocking about for a bid and generally going at whatever buyers would pay within reason. Owing to the large number of cheap Haverstraws this spring the medium grades of Up-Rivers have suffered greatly, and considerable very nice straight stock sold down to $4.50 per M as the best basis at which it could be worked off. Some of the poor Jerseys have gone out pretty low also, but no one will admit less than $4 per M. Pales quoted about the same as last week, with somewhat uncertain demand. Work at the yards undergoes no stoppage except as Nature may interfere in the shape of stormy weather, but manufacturers do not like ruling rates. Fronts are not over active, and there is some cutting into the sale of the red stock by a fashion favoring the buff descriptions.

HARDWARE.—Generally the market for hardware is quiet as compared with the expectations entertained by many of the trade, yet there has been a slightly increasing demand of late, with some evidence that it will expand further after the turn of the month. The gain has been principally in staple goods, of which builders' hardware forms a very large component part, and the selection covers a good average assortment. Prices have been very well sustained, but had to be held up by close adhereuce to combination agreements, as buyers contend hard for allowances, especially on productions of iron and steel, owing to reduced cost of the metals.

LATH.—Receivers, including those who may be classed as ordinarily quite conservative in expression of views, are feeling pretty cheerful over the situation, and the tendency is to take a buoyant idea of the prospective course of values Since our last a parcel of nearly 800,000 Ottawa pine stock 50 to bundle came to hand, and was placed at $2.25 per M., while the coastwise arrivals of spruce have ranged at $2.35@ $2.50 per M. with the latter price now generally asked and not many offerings even at that. Indeed the record of afloats and loading from St. John would not make enough stock for more than a good day's business with any vigor to the demand. The Maine shipments are also reported light and production generally small, with receivers confident that supplies from the interior can now only come forward in a limited desultory manner. The argument further follows that if consumption continues at present average it looks very much as if the tardy buyer would find precaution somewhat expensive, even to the limit of what are ordinarily considered mid-winter rates.

LIME.—Several cargoes have come to hand in addition to supplies from the State kilns, but about all of them placed with no more than an ordinary effort, and nothing to show that there was any change made in the general line of valuation. As a rule dealers are fairly well stocked at the moment, and cognizant of this it is understood manufacturers are keeping production within bounds and restraining shipments.

LUMBER—Trade on the distributive outlet is irregular, according to location of yards, but dealers who supply the upper wards of the city and consumption across the bridge do not appear to find any serious cause for complaint, while some of them are very enthusiastic in recounting the progress of business. The actual movement, however, is by conservative operators thought to be no greater than last season, if as large, taking into account some defection in call from manufacturers, and planning for a widening field of operations in placing first hand parcels may meet with some disappointment. Dealers are all willing to negotiate and some of them are first-rate customers, yet really no better than usual at this juncture, and there is certainly a great deal of caution shown at times, especially over such descriptions of stock as may appear a little strained in value and which judgment seems to suggest should be handled only as early wants. By degrees various localities in the country are commencing to take measures for uniform methods in handling lumber. A Canadian journal says: "Toronto lumber merchants are endeavoring to arrange an official scale of grades for measurement and inspection that will, with regard to the buying and selling of lumber, have the same effect as the grain inspection standards. A committee was appointed at a meeting of the lumber section of the Board of Trade to propose rules for measurement and inspection which after adoption by the section are to be submitted to the trade of Ontario generally."

Eastern Spruce, it is claimed, cannot accumulate in first hands at this point longer than may be necessary to announce the fact that cargoes are here, be the number great or small, and of course from the selling side come a constant reiteration of the assertion that prices are unassailable. The usual exception to the rule may be found, however, in the persons of reasonable and conservative receivers, who are not blind to the fact that a great many consumptive wants have already been filled by other woods, and that cost will have to go a great deal lower before the incentive for urging production and shipments to the fullest possible extent shall have become removed. Since our last some pretty full arrivals put in an appearance, but as usual this spring the majority were found to be under engagement and the balance readily sold. Northern Spruce is not a factor on this market, a great deal of stock having been detained by a break on the canal

Filing assisted by the dual influence of the large demand, and the cost of getting supplies forward, retains good supporting elements, and reports over the condition of the market lose none of their cheerfulness as a rule. Some exceptions now and then develop, but they can generally be traced to operators who are looking for stock, and endeavor to pave the way by deprecating the tone of the market. Comparatively liberal arrivals this week are said to have all been taken care of without difficulty.

Hemlock has no special boom, but is standing up in better form than some of the trade had expected, if the predictions they made a few weeks ago were really earnest. The comparative liberality of demand, however, and sufficiently narrow boundary of supply to prevent any surplus offering of stock is a healthy factor, against which the buyer cannot command much advantage, and cost stands up pretty well throughout. There appears to be no danger of any important quantity of Northern stock for some time to come.

White Pine retaining a reasonably steady basis of valuation, and meeting with fair average demand is giving no great amount of trouble to those who may be considered regular sellers upon the market. These are resident agents well posted as to the requirements of the market, and pretty much in the same category the regular traveling salesmen representing large interior operators, and also representatives of manufacturers sent on here to secure orders from customers they have served in an acceptable manner before. It is the casuals, however, who meet with disappointment in attempts to place supplies, and from whence comes the major portion of the grumbling, indicating that buyers still have sufficient independence to select the sources from whence they will purchase. From latest advices it does not look as though there was likely to be any real scarcity of logs owing to generally improved facilities for getting them forward.

Yellow Pine does not appear to furnish material for any serious fault finding. Now some of the operators think they should be booking a larger number of orders; but this is neither an uncommon or unnatural suggestion from an ordinary business standpoint, and is really less prominent than upon some other descriptions of stock. From all natural sources demand seems to be good, and most of the leading mills are reported as holding orders enough to keep them running right along for a long while to come without the necessity for seeking additional trade. Since the first of the year the receips at this port coastwise are nearly twelve million feet in excess of corresponding time last season, and that is the most pronounced evidence of the condition of trade.

Carolina Pine kiln dried, rough and dressed, has a direct and positive demand, and there is not much difficulty in selling the stock, the conditions so far as a chance for an outlet is concerned being in good form. There is at times, however, continued evidence of trouble over prices, and, from the causes before mentioned, a want of unanimity of action among manufacturers. The timber business, as before, is dependent upon continued full cost of other woods, spruce principally, and sellers claim to be satisfied with the business they are doing at present.

Hardwoods afford opportunity for considerable talk, but, after all, the suggestions narrow down to about same general ideas for some time current and there is really very little news upon the market. In the claim for favorable conditions most emphasis is still laid upon quartered oak, though, of course, poplar may be set down as a steady selling wood, indeed to probably a larger aggregate than any other. In a general way prices may be considered as very well sustained, although now and then charges and countercharges of cutting may be heard and it is not unlikely that watchful buyers pick up a few comparative bargains

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

The drives are moving slowly in some parts of the Northwest, but numerous logging roads are laying down their freight at the mills with the regularity of clock work. The determination at many points to establish a night run indicates an assurance that there will be no general scarcity of logs.

Several conditions have this season tended to defer a full development of the general lumber trade. The weather has been cold and backward since March, and powerful storms and floods have prevailed in nearly every section of the country. The roads have been muddy a greater length of time than is generally the case. This has prevented deliveries in the country and in the suburbs of cities, thus causing delay in building. In early April the carpenters went on strike in several of the large cities, which caused a partial suspension of building at a season when great activity is usually counted on. This checked the requirement, and kept it below the volume that was expected. Naturally a crippled distributive trade had an influence on the market for bulk stocks at the mills.

It should be observed, however, that the view here taken pertains more to the West than the East. In the section of country last indicated trade has, throughout the spring, been in a relatively better condition than at the West. This has induced Eastern dealers to compete sharply with Western in the purchase of stocks at Michigan and Wisconsin mills. Western buyers have realized this competition within the past three months very emphatically—perhaps as never before. The strife between the great Eastern and Western dealers is to so buy as to secure a large share of good stock, which, in white pine is everywhere in short supply. It forces the Western dealer to be early on the ground in order to be sure of his chance, while otherwise he would like to delay in order to depress the market. He is thus, this season, placed at a disadvantage. Coarse lumber that is most in demand in the West is low, and the supply abundant.

The supply at the docks for the week past has been only moderate. For one thing, the wind has been contrary to in-coming vessels, and, besides, market conditions are against free offerings. Aside from the reasons given, the mills at Muskegon are not running for all there is in them. The drives are slow in coming, and the saws are kept going mainly on old logs. The mills are in some instances swapping logs in order to keep running. Amid such a state of things it is but natural that there should be small accumulation of green lumber, and no great anxiety to sell in the present state of the market.

For a few days there has been an increase of inquiry for piece stuff. Owing to the meagre supply on the market, considerable has been sold to arrive. The price for short green is still $9,50 as a general thing. A large percentage of wide joists or slim jims adds a little to the price on a basis of about $10.50 when the wide joists or the slim jims are sold separately, which is seldom the case.

Long joists are doing relatively better than at this time last year. But few are arriving at the market, however. Long wide are priced at $12 to $13, but it is likely that a liberal movement would develop some change in that range. The market for long stuff has not yet been fully developed. At this time last year short green piece stuff was quoted at $11 to $12.50. It is now assumed that when the prices of long and short are averaged, the value of framing stuff this year is not far from that which prevailed at a corresponding time last season.

It is claimed that the quality of the lumber coming to market is somewhat better than hitherto. The cull at Muskegon that was carried over the winter has been mostly disposed of, and that which will hereafter arrive will be new stuff.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman as follows:

The rains of the week have invested the driving situation on the Mississippi with a more hopeful aspect. It is believed that the tributaries will from this on be supplied with a good driving stage of water, as the rainfall, though not as heavy as wished, has been sufficiently general to help out the drivers to a considerable extent. The main drive had passed Sauk Rapids yesterday morning, and will be at the sorting works Thursday of next week, and undoubtedly by the first of June furnishing an abundance of logs for the Minneapolis mills. It comprises about 40,000,000 feet. As regards the tributaries, the drives are being generally resumed, a sufficient supply of water having accumulated to bring them out. No apprehension is now felt as to the progress of driving operations for several weeks, and only moderate rains at intervals will be required to bring the whole cut out.

A great many logs have undoubtedly been hung up on the streams in Minnesota and Wisconsin. But there has been heavy rains in this section during the past two or three days. These rains cannot fail to better the situation on many of the streams, and will undoubtedly bring out some of the old logs the driving of which had been abandoned. At this writing it is still raining. How materially the situation may be changed depends upon how long these rains may be continued. But none of the mills at Minneapolis can be said to have fairly started; the Beef Slough and West Newton sorting works have shut down, and such of the down river mills as are in operation are running on logs procured on the hand to mouth principle.

SOUTH AMERICA.

By mail steamer just at hand from Brazil, we have the following report on the Rio Janeiro market:

Fitch Pine.—Receipts nil and the market is reported firm at 34$000 per doz. Receipts in April were 2,796,352 feet against 689,206 feet for the same month last year.

White Pine.—The E. W. Stetson brought 635,941 feet which were retailed at 100 rs. per foot and satisfied the requirements of dealers for the moment. The market is reported very flat. Last month receipts were 625,941 feet against 530,627 feet in April, 1889.

Spruce Pine.—Nothing whatever to report

Swedish Pine.—Receipts in April were 703 doz against nil in the same month last year. There is nothing new.

METALS.—COPPER—Ingot has not been meeting with a steady full deal, but quite a number of small lots were constantly changing hands and now and then a comparatively large parcel, making in the aggregate a very respectable business. The movement, too, seems to have gradually absorbed the cheap offerings that for a time were quite an annoyance and now, with supplies well concentrated, the market is firmly held in even better form than before. Advices from Europe represent the position quite as cheerful as upon this side of the water. Quotations are generally placed at 15¼@15½c. for Lake and 13⅜@13¾c. for casting brands. Manufactured Copper has good steady sale with most staple descriptions going out about as rapidly as they can be produced and values in consequence sustained readily at full list figures We quote as follows: Sheets, not above 30x72 in., 16 oz. and over, 22c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 23c.; do, 12 to 14 oz., 24c.; do, 10 to 12 oz, 25c.; do, 8 to 10 oz, 28c.; do, under 8 oz, 30c. Sheets longer than 72 inches add 1c. for 12@14 oz., 2c. for 10@12 oz, and 3c. for 8@10 oz. Sheets, not above 36x96 in., 16 oz and over, 22c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 24c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 26c.; do, 10 to 12 oz, 30c.; do, 8 to 10 oz, 33c. Sheets longer than 96 inches 22c. for over 32 oz, and add 1c. for 16 to 32 oz, 14 to 16 oz, 12 to 14 oz, and 2c. for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets, not above 48x96, 32 to 64 oz, 22c.; do, 16 to 32 oz, 25c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 27c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 34c. Sheets wider than 48x96 and longer, 22@25c. for 32 to 64 oz. and over, and 27@30c. for 16 to 32 oz. All bath tub sheets, per lb., 16 oz, 25c.; 14 oz, 27c.; 12 oz, 29c.; and 10 oz, 30c. Bolt copper, ⅜ inch diameter and over, 22c. Circles, 60 diameter and less, 3c. above price of sheets of same thickness; circles, 60 to 96 do do, 5c. do; circles, 96 do and over, 6c. do. Segment and pattern sheets, 3c. above price of sheets required to cut them from. Cold or hard rolled copper, 1@2c. per lb. above the foregoing prices. Copper bottom, 26@29c. per lb. IRON—Scotch Pig has apparently no regular demand, buyers simply coming into the market from time to time as special necessity might arise and generally managing to get along with small parcels of stock. Prices are somewhat unsettled, but on the whole inclined to tameness, and on liberal orders concessions might be allowed to a reasonable extent. We quote at about $19.50@24.50 per ton, according to brand. American pig of well-established reputation is meeting with a steady satisfactory demand on new orders, and the deliveries at the same time running full a satisfactory outlet is kept open. There is, however, a very liberal production under way at all points, and while no immediate weakness on price is suggested, there is quite a general admission that an advance would be a genuine surprise. We quote at $18.40@19.00 per ton for No. 1 X foundry; $17.00@18.00 for No. 2 X do., and $16.00@17.00 for Gray Forge. Old material has an uncertain demand and a market void of any great amount of inherent strength. Supplies appear to be well enough situated to prevent pressure to realize, but holders on the look out for custom and probably not closely wedded to the full outside rates asked. We quote at about $23.50@24.00 for old rails; $21.00@21.75 for No. 1 wrought scrap; $17.00@17.50 for cast scrap, and $18.00@18.50 for car wheels. Manufactured iron retains about the average run of demand and the market shows very few if any really new features, except possibly weak spots now and then developing to catch desirable customers on special contracts. We quote Common Merchant Bar, ordinary sizes, at 2.10@2.12c. from store, and refined at 2.30@2.60c.; Rods, round and square, 2.40@2.45c.; Bands, 2.60@2.65c.; Norway Nail Rods, 4@5c., and domestic sheet on the basis of 3.00@3.05c. for common Nos. 10@16. Other descriptions at corresponding prices, with 1-10c. less on large lots from cars Steel rails since last report have further declined, and fair orders were secured at the concession. Demand is now apparently indifferent again, but manufacturers talk as though they would make no further shading for the present. We quote at about $31.00@32.00 per ton for standard section at the mills and $33.00@34.00 do. at tide water. LEAD—Domestic Pig has continued the unsettling influence of speculative deals, and there were constant fluctuations in value going on. The wants of consumers, however, do not seem to require a very great amount of stock, and the deal is mostly in small lots. We quote at 4.30@4.40c. as to quality. The manufactures of lead are quoted: Bar, 4½c.; pipe, 6c.; sheet, 6¾c., less the usual discount to the trade; and tin lined pipe, 15c.; block tin pipe 45c., on same terms. TIN—Pig meets with merely a fair consumptive demand, but speculators keep active and constantly stir up fluctuations in value. We quote at about $21.15@21.20c. for round lots, and 21¼@21½c. for jobbing parcels. Tin plate more active, including some future delivery contracts extending into the winter, and prices generally are steadier. We quote prices as follows: I. C. Charcoal, ½ cross assortment, Melyn grades, $5.80@5.85, each additional X add 1.50; I. C. Charcoal, ½ cross assortment, Allaway grade, $4.90@5.00, each additional X add $1; Charcoal terne, M. F. grade, 14x20, $6.87½@6.90; M. F. grade, 20x28, $13.75@13.80; Worcester, 14x20, $4.80@4.85; Worcester, 20x28, $9.60@9.65; Dean grade, 14x20, $4.55@4.60; Dean grade, 20x28, $9.00@9.10 D. R. D. grade, 14x20, $4.45@4.50; D. R. D. grade, 20x28, $8.90@9.00; I. C. Coke, Penian grade, $4.40@4.45; J. B. grade, 14x20, $4.40 @ 4.45; I. C. Bessemer steel, squares, $4.70@.—— basis; I. C. Siemens steel, squares, $4.80@—— basis. Spelter—Somewhat less active than at the date of our last report, but supply well in hand and firmly controlled. We quote 5.45@5⅝c. for common Western, according to brand, PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Reports differ in no essential degree from those noted for two or three weeks past. Business is not of a really animated and fairly expanding character, yet on the whole is fairly full, so far as all the really standard descriptions of colors, dry and in oil, are concerned, and the majority of dealers seem indisposed to make any serious complaint. No changes worthy of special mention have taken place of late in values, yet all along the line a good showing of firmness is preserved, and the buyer generally wastes time in seeking to obtain shadings. Linseed Oil retains a steady free outlet, and the supply is closely sold up at full rates. We quote 60@61c. for Western and 62@64c. for City. Spirits Turpentine under a continued pretty full supply, and lacking the assistance of a respectable demand, has ruled weak with prices a fraction lower. We quote at 37½@39c. per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

NAILS.—Demand may be considered fairly active, with a tendency to improve if anything, and business altogether about as full as could be expected. Sellers, however, secure no special advantage, owing to sufficiently full supply available and a measure of independence among buyers that permits resistance to increased cost. There is also at times something in the way of outside offerings to keep values toppy. We quote at $1.75@1.80 per keg for car lots and $1.85@1.90 per keg for parcels from store.

TAR AND PITCH.—Demand appears to be running along about as expected, and there is no special or noteworthy incident since our last. Values fluctuate fractionally, but on the general range are about as before. We quote Pitch at $1.40@1.55 per bbl.; Tar at $2.12½@2.30, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

VOL. XLV. JUNE 7, 1890 No. 1,160

The stock market for the week cannot be called a satisfactory one for either the bull or the bear, although the tendency has been towards slightly higher prices, particularly with the Vanderbilt stocks. All of these show great strength, due to the general impression that larger dividends are likely to be declared at the meeting of directors which takes place very soon. While the reports of the condition and prosperity of Lake Shore will be most gratifying, it is extremely doubtful if any increased dividend will be declared, for the policy of keeping a large surplus for emergencies of every kind is likely to be continued. The Granger shares close the week at about the same prices at which they opened, and any concession from present figures will find steady buyers. We are one week nearer the solution of the silver question, and it looks as though the bill introduced by Senator Plumb, which is strongly supported by President St. John, of the Mercantile National Bank, contains the provisions which Eastern people would like to see compromised upon by the House. This bill provides for the purchase every month of four and one-half million ounces of fine silver, payment for same to be made in silver certificates of such denominations as are now provided for the silver certificate of the United States. These notes are to be lawful money—a legal tender in payment of all debts, unless otherwise specified, in any contract, and shall be receivable for customs and other public dues. While the Secretary is directed to purchase this fifty-four millions of ounces of silver per year, he is only directed to coin not less than two million silver dollars per month, and more if he shall deem more requisite to meet demands for the redemption of notes issued for bullion. It is estimated by the supporters of this bill that the purchase of fifty-four million ounces per year will absorb the product of our own silver mines, provided the world at large can spare us the whole of our own production. There can be but little doubt but that our production of silver during the coming year, stimulated as it will be by the passage of a silver bill such as is now contemplated, will run up to very large proportions. The price of silver is even now such that old mines long neglected are being reopened and worked profitably. The Denver & Rio Grande Railway Company, in a recent report accounting for increased earnings, gave decided prominence to this feature as one of the principal reasons for the larger tonnage of the road. Too much dependence, however, must not be placed on the passage of a silver bill. We have recently had experience in this State of the way in which two Houses of a legislative body may disagree on a matter of prime public necessity, even when both branches are controlled by the same party. It is quite possible that such a disagreement may take place over the silver matter.

What, we may ask, is going to be the result of the work of the present Rapid Transit Commission? Very certainly a place on it is not a bed of roses. The commission, we may be sure, is sparing neither time nor labor. It is sitting assiduously, and trying with determination to find a route up and down a city which has been designed to keep people from moving in those directions. The Elm street improvement would have been a great assistance to them, but that needed change has been postponed by our Tammany rulers, so they hardly know where to turn. It is said that they have discarded the idea of any more elevated roads. But it is useless to discuss the details of any plan except after the most careful collection and consideration of all the available sources of information. The commissioners frequently complain of the difficulty of their task. And in truth they are trying to build a pyramid with a weak-kneed derrick. Politics created it not because it could accomplish anything, but because it would tend to prevent the Republicans from accomplishing anything; and so it sits and sits in wordy impotence. The commission, indeed, can help matters in one way—a way, indeed, which seems never to suggest itself to them. They can co-operate with the Manhattan Company to help that corporation to extend its lines and increase its facilities. We are aware that, if such a course were adopted, our newspapers, which, in this matter, as in that of the cable road, seemed possessed of a mighty desire to injure the interests of the public they pretend to represent, would raise a howl of disapprobation, but a wise man at present can do as well with their opposition as with their assistance. Richard Cobden said that all a reform needed was a good cause and the opposition of the Times to insure its success, and the remark is not as paradoxical as it seems. At any rate, in this case the commission could afford to disregard the press for the sake of the public. The commission has powers to construct the makeshift we propose, whereas any comprehensive plan it endeavored to devise, either from the limitation of its powers or the insufficiency of the time for consideration, would certainly be inadequate. Leave bridges of stone for them who have the tools; let us be satisfied for the present with an improvement which will take the edge off the difficulty.

No newspaper in New York seems to have any other policy on the transit question than to be pulled hither and thither by whatever propositions are put forward by prominent men, whether wise or otherwise, and to take somewhat the position that any practical measure is a good measure, the aim being to do something, no matter what, so long as it has the sanction of a few "prominent citizens." An intelligent and creditable position for any newspaper to take might be this: That the whole work of fixing the number of railways required, their extent, method of construction, and system of operation, should be referred to a board of railway experts; that any attempt to settle these matters officially by bankers, merchants, or other persons who are not masters of railway science, should be opposed; but that when the technical plan has been made by experts, financiers and lawyers, should then determine how the needed capital is to be raised, and draw up bills of the legislation found necessary.

Some years ago the whole technical problem of making a plan for the terminal facilities of the Brooklyn Bridge was referred, on motion of Mr. Hewitt, then Mayor, to a board of engineering experts. The report of the engineers was rejected by the trustees. But it has since come pretty generally to be believed that the plan proposed by the engineers was a better plan, and better elaborated, than any of the many plans proposed before or since that time by persons who are not engineers, and that the rejection of the plan reflects upon the trustees rather than upon the board of engineers. At all events, the method of having a plan made by engineers is so far admitted to be correct that it is even now intended to have another engineering board treat the subject.

Now, as problems in transportation go, the bridge problem is a small matter in comparison with the general transportation problem of the whole city. If the bridge problem should be treated by experts, how much the more is it fitting that experts should treat the general transit question? Thus, instead of seeking for legislation to authorize the building of roads whose plan is not yet made, or whose plan is cramped to fit the requirements of some existing law, rather have experts treat the whole subject, without restriction, and then when the plan is made try for the needed legislation. A transit plan made by such a board of engineers as made the bridge terminal plan would be vastly better than anything in the way of any plan with which the public is now familiar. Why won't the newspapers or any of them hammer away at this point by giving reasons why the subject should be referred to engineers, and showing how this method of treating the subject can be brought about?

The bill for the abolition of capital punishment was defeated during the last session of the Legislature; but the ventilation the subject received, and the large amount of intelligent and humane public sentiment there is behind the movement for the change is doubtless significant of a still further attempt in the same direction next year. Of interest perhaps, in this connection, is a measure recently passed by the French Senate. This bill, introduced by M. Bérenger, draws a hard distinction between old offenders and criminals who are condemned for the first offense. In a speech in support of the bill M. Bérenger, one of the highest of the French authorities on the subject, attributed the large increase of crime in France during the past fifty years to the insufficient punishment meted out to old offenders. Too much severity in the case of a first offense had the effect of brutalizing the culprit instead of reforming him; while unusual severity could justly be used with a man whose record was simply one succession of crimes, even though the particular offense under which he was being tried might not in itself justify such extraordinary punishment. He accordingly recommended, among other things, that wherever it was possible the sentence of imprisonment in the first instance should not be carried out unless the delinquent was again caught tripping, and that if at the end of five years the prisoner had a clean bill of health to show the punishment should be cancelled. The distinction upon which M. Bérenger laid so much emphasis is observed in this country to a great extent; the margin between the smallest and greatest punishment for a given offense is wide, and the old offender is doubtless much more liable to be treated severely by both judge and jury than the young innocent whose criminal wings are but just fledged. But M. Bérenger's contention is interesting in relation to the discussion that plays around the expediency of capital punishment. Thus, those who favor its abolition point to the large number of murders in proportion to the convictions shown by statistics that it is very difficult to get a jury to hang a man, observe with undeniable soundness that if such severe retribution is so largely imperative in practice, it is better to add to the certainty of the punishment at the expense of its severity and quote, Montesquieu to the effect that it is the certainty rather than the severity of retribution which acts as a deterrent to crime. We do not believe this to be the strongest argument in favor of the abolition of capital punishment; but it is the one most frequently heard. But here M. Bérenger steps in and says that still another discrimimination ought to be made, and that in the case of first offenders the punishment ought not even to be certain. The whole difficulty, of course, lies in the impossibility of framing an arbitrary law of punishment for crime which is the outcome of the most widely different degrees of culpability. But then, as Mr. Bumble acutely observed, "the law is an hass," and who ever heard of an ass making discriminations?

Electric Lighting by the Local Authorities in England.

The complex and, to the American mind, unintelligible character of local government in England has made popular in this country a belief that its consideration is of little importance in a comparative study of institutions. This belief is a false one; for, notwithstanding the overlapping of local administrative districts in England and the confusion, the conflict of authorities and the hindrance to reform thereby created, local authorities in that country have had to deal with exactly the same problems of local concern as those with which the cities of this country have been struggling. Electric lighting, for instance, which now occupies a prominent place in the city affairs of this country, is commanding equal attention from the local authorities of England. There the same problem is pressing for solution as is under discussion here: Shall local authorities or private companies supply the public with this light? An examination of the plan in practice in England of supplying electric light is therefore in place at this time, and, moreover, may be helpful in solving the question of the proper control of this service in the United States.

Electric lighting in the local administrative districts of England is regulated by an act of 1882 which, with the view to prevent the establishment of a monopoly, gives the same right to local authorities to supply their own electric light as to private companies. This act empowers the Board of Trade to issue licenses to the local authorities or companies for the establishment of plants, giving to the board in addition to this power central administrative oversight and control over the works such as the Local Government Board exercises over local affairs in general. The local authorities have recognized from the very first that it was peculiarly their place and ultimately to their interest to furnish electric light themselves, and accordingly many have built and now operate their own works. That they have not entered more generally into the field as investors is due in a large measure to the fact that improvement in the means of generating electricity have been constantly taking place which threatened to render useless old and costly machinery. Then, again, their hesitancy in taking this step was increased by a provision of the Act of 1882, which prohibited them, when once they had secured the permission of the Board of Trade to establish works from transferring these granted powers, duties and liabilities. This prohibitory provision of the act was modified, however, in April of this year, by the addition to it of these words: "without the consent of the Board of Trade." And in pursuance of this act, as modified, the board have inserted a clause in their electric lighting orders to the effect that such transfers shall be allowed subject to certain presented conditions. Already since this modification went into force have applications for electric light franchises by local authorities relatively increased. In the present session it is stated that the applications for provisional orders for electric lighting by local authorities contemplate an expenditure of nearly $10,000,000. Local authorities which, before this change was made in the Electric Lighting Act, were not able to undertake the supply of their own electric light are now induced to apply to the Board of Trade for franchises in order that they may transfer the privilege to private companies for limited periods of time. What the local authoritles gain by this procedure is this: a franchise granted to private companies direct from the Board of Trade continues in force forty-two years, while the local authorities, having secured a franchise, can, according to the modified act, transfer their power for as short a period of time as they desire, reserving the right at any specified time to buy up the work of the private companies. One thing is very marked in the English practice of dealing with electric lighting, and that is its universal acknowledgment that control by local authorities direct is the best plan provided that it can be attained. The people of England have become converted to a belief in the advantages derived from what we in this country called "municipal control" by the successful operation of the gas works in that country that have come into the hands of her local authorities. Of the $290,000,000 invested in gas works in England at the present time considerably over $100,000,000 represent undertakings in the hands of local authority. According to the last Parliamentary return on the subject 173 local authorities own gas undertakings in England. The net profits from these works after payment of interest on loans, providing for the redemption of capital outlay, sinking fund or payment of instalments, amounts it is estimated to nearly half a million per annum. English local authorities are pursuing the right course, viz.: securing control of electric lighting while as a public service it is still in its infancy. R. J. FINLEY.

The announcement in the daily papers that the Court of Appeals has pronounced against the constitutionality of the Brooklyn Arrears Law is incorrect, indeed is entirely unwarranted, and is a striking instance of the reckless way in which "news" is manufactured in these days of sensational journalism. The story arose out of the Browne-May case. It appears that Moses May purchased at a tax sale property belonging to Henry R. Browne, who subsequently redeemed it under protest. In suing to recover the amount paid to May, Browne, among other things, alleged the unconstitutionality of the Evarts Arrears Law. The lower court pronounced against Browne, who then carried the case to the Court of Appeals, with the result that the first decision was reversed. This was enough for a sensational press. As Mr. Squeers would have said, "here's richness." Without giving attention to the grounds upon which the court based its decision (a little matter like this was not worth attention) in fact without any warrant beyond the bare result of the trial, without considering the vast interests involved (for at present a very great amount of property is held in Brooklyn under the Evarts law), several newspapers proclaimed with the blare of big headlines that the law had been pronounced unconstitutional. The truth of the matter is, the decison of the Court of Appeals does not touch upon the question of the constitutionality of the Arrears Law; the action of the court being based upon entirely different grounds. It is needless to point out the real evil, the grave danger that exists in journalism of this loose and reckless character. In other walks of life such conduct would subject the perpetrator to severe condemnation. A lawyer, a doctor, a merchant who should manifest so little sense of obligation to others in his deliberate utterances, would speedly find himself in a position which few men of sensitiveness care to occupy. With the press, however, to-day's issue seems to efface the memory of yesterday's from the public mind. Bogus interviews, garbled reports, misstatements, are forgotten, the sanctity of print is unimpaired in the popular mind, and the average man, in spite of experience, continues to carry a never-failing child-like credulity (and considerable ignorance) to the perusal of his favorite sheet, just as a savage as devotely as ever prays in the evening to the fetich that the morning events discredited.

The Governor has signed the bill providing for short forms of deeds and mortgages, and the newspapers will doubtless wake up to what the change means. Some weeks ago we gave the form which is to be used, and it would be well for real estate dealers and brokers to familiarize themselves with it. The bill goes into effect on September 1st next, and will reduce the work in the Register's office to some considerable extent. People can still continue to use the old verbiage if they wish, but as it will cost them five dollars every time they do it we doubt very much if even the advantage of using circumlocutory and unnecessary phrases will be worth the sacrifice. Meanwhile stationers would do well to lay in a stock of the new forms.

Our national politics can hardly be considered a matter for pride just at present. A more grossly partisan body than the present House of Representatives would be difficult to find. But the worst of it is that the abuse of the power of the majority which we have been witnessing for the past five months will establish a precedent which future Congresses will not fail to follow. The legislation which the Republicans are working to pass presents a queer mixture of good and bad measures. On the one hand, the Silver bill, the River and Harbor bill are based on a sound economy, while the pension legislation cannot be too severely condemned. It is not, however, the character of the legislation which is reprehensible so much as the methods by which it is forced through without any discussion. The Republican policy may be expressed in the question: What is the use of arguing when you have got a majority? Consequently the Democrats are largely deprived of that single prerogative of the minority—the right to out-argue, if possible, their opponents. The theoretical bearings of this usurpation by the Republicans neither one side nor the other care much about discussing; but both are intimately concerned with the result of the Congressional elections next fall. The tariff reformers profess to be sure of victory. The changes made by the McKinley bill, they say, have produced little but discontent among the various people interested in the protective industries, and they predict a wiping-out next fall of the Republican majority in the lower House. At the best, however, the Democrats are most unfortunately situated. Even admitting that they carry the House of Representatives, it will be two years more before they can elect a President, and three or four times that before they can get a majority in the Senate. An English poet, in the early part of this century, sang as follows;

Naught's constant in the human race,
Except the Whigs not getting into place.

Substitute the Democrats for the Whigs and the lines would have a bearing upon present conditions. For unless a political revolution of some kind happens, it is probable that before they can get a majority in the Senate, even if they command the House and elect a President in 1892, they will make enough mistakes to lose the House again. Thus, if the Democrats are victorious next fall we may look forward to another period of conflicting legislation on important matters, and consequently to another period of buncombe bills and meagre results. The Republicans have an excellent opportunity, and it is a pity they are not putting it to better use.

Building Operations for Five Months.

Analysis of the statistics of new buildings for the first five months reveals some important facts. The ground lost by the decline in operations last month was regained in May, and the figures for 1890 now stand 1702 buildings, costing $37,206,018, against 1,759 and $34,302,605 in the same period twelve months ago. It will be seen that the average cost per building is considerably larger than a year ago. This is due almost entirely to the number of large office buildings, stores, hotels, churches and structures of a similar character that have been planned. Indeed it is wholly due to the activity of operations in this class of buildings that the capital involved in new work is larger this year than last. Plans for only 697 flats and tenements, costing $16.055,500, have been filed this year, against 735, costing $16,949,200, in 1889. In private dwellings, also, there has been a falling off from 645 in number and $7,590,-650 in cost last year to 598 and $6,589,318 this year. In buildings of a public character, however, in hotels, office buildings, stores, etc., the increase in operations this year is very heavy, the figures being 84 in number and $7,816,300 in cost for 1889, against 107, $12,639,800. After this it is scarcely necessary to point out a further fact revealed by a study of the tables below, viz., that the greater activity this year has been confined wholly to the section south of 59th street, with the exception of the section between 59th and 125th streets east of 5th avenue. Three hundred and two buildings, to cost $5,662,175, have been planned for there in the last five months. In the same time last year there were only 293, costing $4,659,435. In all other divisions of the district north of 59th street there has been a falling off in operations compared with 1889, especially north of 125th street and in the 23d and 24th Wards, though in the case of the latter a marked revival of activity was manifested in May, and continues. Buildings to cost $632,470 were planned for last month, against $482,065 a year ago, and $331,300 in May, 1888. North of 125th street, exclusive of the 23d and 24th Wards, the falling off is very considerable. The figures, however, carry an explanation of the fact. The first months of 1889 were exceptionally active ones in that section, and the falling off is the indication of nothing but a return to the normal.

Five Months of Real Estate.

Some idea of the activity prevailing in the real estate market during the last two months of winter and the three months of spring may be gathered from the tables of comparison which are given below. In 1888, during the five months under consideration, the total number of conveyances were 5,776, involving an aggregate consideration of $101,131,707. In 1889 the number had increased to 7,424, and the amount involved to $138,634,524. It would seem as if some exceptional circumstances must have been at work to produce so large an increase. Light is thrown on what these conditions were when we observe that not only has this large increase been maintained during the first five months of 1890, but there has been a still further addition. Thus from the 1st of January, 1890, to the first of June there were 7,638 conveyances recorded at the Register's office, involving $143,352,196, an increase over the figures of 1889 of 214 in number, or nearly 3 per cent., and $4,717,672 in amount, or nearly 3½ per cent. It will be noticed that the increase in the number of transfers took place entirely in the month of April, while the increase in the consideration was well distributed among January, March and May. Curiously enough there were exactly the same number of conveyances during the May of the two years. The cause for this activity, extending as it does through two years, and marked as it is over the dealings of 1888, must be general in character. During the whole period there have been no conditions peculiar to this city which would tend to help activity. On the contrary, there has been much to retard it. The World's Fair agitation rather tended to hinder than to aid tranasctions, and the city has been suffering during this period from painfully inadequate transit facilities. Our activity, consequently, is due to some general condition, viz., the prevailing business prosperity which has increased the demand both for business and for residence property. It will be remarked that there has been a much larger proportional increase during the first five months of this year in the number of nominal conveyances than there has been in the total number, and that until the past month the district north of the Harlem has been remarkable for little besides dullness.

There is a slightly larger increase in the number of mortgages than there is in the conveyances. Thus in 1889 there were 6,606 mortgages recorded, involving $85,710,530, a number which had increased in 1890 to 6,946, involving, after subtracting the $45,000,000 of special blanket mortgages, $89,385,148. This is an augmentation of 340 in number and $3,674,618 in amount. The influence of the high rates for money may be seen from the fact that there has been an actual decrease in the number of mortgages given at less than 5 per cent.

Our Letter Bag.—Should Greater New York City be a State?

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE :

In the second of the series of three sermons which the Rev. Heber Newton delivered on municipal misgovernment he announced that the remedy he had to propose in his third discourse would be somewhat heroic, and consequently I was in hopes that he would strike out some suggestion which would really aid the solution of the vexed and difficult problem with which he was dealing. But all he had to recommend was some more charter tinkering and a citizens' committee. Doubtless we shall get both of these, and doubtless, also, the effort will be as spasmodic and as fruitless as have been the many previous efforts in the same direction. The charter is simply a sawdust bag which the politicians hold out to the people. Once in a while the people get angry and give the bag a punch. The politicians forthwith smile, and like Brer Rabbit, "lay low" for awhile. Sometimes they even take a hand in the game themselves. But they are well aware that the bag will finally return to its old place, scarred, perhaps, a little bit from the rough play, but perfectly suitable for their purpose. And so the game goes on. Personally I have little or no confidence in any legislation, even of the most radical description. I have lived in these parts for more than forty years. I have seen the rise and fall of the Tweed ring; I have noted the periodic upheavals of the better classes of the community; I have watched with sickness of heart the miserable investigations, the necessity for which is unparalleled in history, and to my mind is a proof that New Yorkers are not fit for self-government; I have seen failure after failure, exposure after exposure, folly heaped on folly, and now in my declining years when I look back on it all, when I see that we are still in the hands of a pack of gamblers, toughs and publicans; when I further observe that New Yorkers do not grasp in any real sense the disgrace of their position, I have no feelings left but those of indignation, contempt and despair.

I do not, however, write to you simply to express the convictions of an old man who was never too hopeful by nature, and who, perhaps, has been left behind by the rapid pace of the present generation. It is true that I am fool enough to believe that better had New York never existed than that it should have fallen so completely into the hands of the vulgar and the mean in spirit. But as it does exist, and as it is increasing daily in population and wealth, it is the duty of those whose life will be spent in the shadow of its towers to rally around some standard which will not be dipped when the work of the moment is done. But if we are going to legislate, let it be done with a view to some permanent effect; and it is just this legislation which there seems to be no demand for. Many of our most intelligent people are so possessed with the fetish of universal suffrage, that any suggestion as to a suffrage qualification beyond that of mere existence is received with a storm of abuse for the proposer and with greasy flattery for the people to whose degradation and indifference we owe the present disgraceful condition of affairs. I firmly believe that in large measure, at all events, our troubles are due to the putting of votes into the hands of an ignorant and foolish crowd, who no more appreciate the responsibility than would an African Zulu, and who fall an easy prey to the wiles of saloon keepers and huckstering politicians. Jefferson, once called an hereditary king "sovereign by the organs of generation." What other justification has the sovereignty of these slum-dwellers? I appreciate, however, that it is impossible to shake the popular belief in the principle of universal suffrage; and I mention this method of reform only because no one else dares to suggest it.

I have said that I do not think that New York is fit to govern itself without some limitation of the suffrage. I do not, however, mean to imply that the rest of the State is a more satisfactory agent for the purpose. How little, however, amid all this shouting for home rule, people appreciate what real home rule means. To my mind it means an absolute divorce from Albany legislation; or, in other words, the formation of a separate State, taking in New York, Brooklyn, Hudson and Essex and Richmond Counties, and other tributary counties and towns.

The discussion of this radical step is apropos at the present juncture. At the very moment of this writing Andrew H. Green's commission is organizing for the purpose of considering the expediency of consolidating this district, or part of it, into a single municipality. The report of the commission will doubtless be valuable, and we may be reasonably certain that it will favor the consolidation. If so I think it will make a mistake. The district is too large and the interests too diverse for a single municipality. What we need is a State government to manage such matters as concern the whole of the section and separate municipal authorities to attend to local matters. A little explanation will perhaps make this clearer. State lines are purely arbitrary divisions. There is no reason why New York should be separated from Pennsylvania by just the lines that do separate. These lines exist. That is all that can be said in their favor. On the other hand there is no reason why they should be changed except when character and the interests of a locality are so very different from that of the rest of the State as to give the former little or no community of interest with the latter. This is certainly the case in New York. We have nothing whatever in common with the northern part of the State. The interest of the two sections is constantly conflicting. Our local members in the State Legislature are continually overruled (I am not saying they are unwisely overruled) by the country members. New York has little or nothing to say in matters which concern herself alone. Because of her wealth the metropolis is obliged to pay far more than her share of the State expenses and she gets little or no return for it. The same is true of Hudson and Essex Counties in relation to the rest of the State of New Jersey. True home rule means nothing more nor less than an absolute divorce from Albany.

But though the district in question has nothing in common with the rest of the territory which it is united to by State government; and though it has a large number of matters which could well be attended to by a legislature of its own making, yet it also has a sufficient number of purely local interests which should fall to the jurisdiction of separate municipal authorities. It has been said of London that parts of it are totally unknown to life-long inhabitants of the city, and the same statement would be true of this greater New York. The working out of the plan would require a nice adjustment of conflicting interests. The functions of the municipal authorities would probably in every case be smaller than they are at present—smaller, indeed, than is the custom elsewhere throughout the whole country. Furthermore, there would be a larger number of State administrative officers. Thus it might be well to have the police, health and fire departments under the control of the State departments. But although, in a sense, these would separate municipalities within the State, yet these municipalities and their officers would be far more closely connected with the State officials than is generally the case. In short, a legislative and administrative machine of the utmost complexity would have to be created. We would, indeed, have an opportunity of exercising the highest organizing powers; nay, such powers would be necessary for the purpose. And if competent jurists could be gotten to undertake the task, a system of laws, regulations and adjustment and division of authorities might be created which would simplify the task of government wonderfully. Furthermore, with such an unhampered start, the city, provided it supported its constitution and by-laws by public sentiment, might be metamorphised from one of the worst into one of the best regulated communities in the world.

T. H. D.

[A story authentic enough for our purpose is told of a Turkish admiral who was condemned to death by a Sultan because when questioned as to why he did not fire a salute to his ruler on a certain occasion, reserved for his twenty-third reason that his ship had not been furnished with guns, powder, or shot. Many objections might be made to our correspondent's proposition, but there is one that is all-sufficient—it is not practicable. The difficulty with most would-be reformers is they ignore the present-possible. They elaborate and propound a scheme good enough, it may be, in itself, but a scheme which takes no calculation of men as they are, or conditions as they are. They plan in the air. They act as a mechanician would who should devise a machine the successful working of which would depend upon the absolute non-interference of gravity and friction. Burke says, somewhere, though with a somewhat different meaning than we intend, Man's position should be his preceptor. Understand by "position" all surroundings and circumstances and we have a very good maxim worthy the closest attention of our correspondent and others who, like him, would make a light of their discontent to show the world its way. If only an ideally good scheme were needed to set mankind aright we would all long ago have reached a beautified condition of perfection. It is because reformers have as a rule so persistently ignored, if they have not positively disdained to consider, the tremendous force that resides in the commonest and even the vilest thing that is, that they have accomplished so little, considering the ends they have made for, and still are criers in the wilderness. The consolidation of what may be termed greater New York City into a new State is a vision only to be looked at from the top of insurmountable objections. It is useless to discuss it. It might or might not be a good thing, but apart from those who take intellectual pleasure in constructing and discussing impossibilities, T. H. D.'s scheme will receive no attention. To such we relegate it with the advice that they might obtain some profit by a short study of the condition of "politics" in this State, New Jersey and in the national capital, which would have to be dealt with in carrying out the scheme. Besides, there is local prejudice, public apathy and the numerous difficulties that would arise in connection with the constructive side of the proposition.—ED.]

The Transit Problem in the City of New York.

By SAML. BUEL, JR., C. E.

AN OUTLINE OF A TECHNICAL PLAN WITH AN APPRECIATION OF THE MORE IMPORTANT QUESTIONS TO BE SETTLED IN TREATING THE WHOLE SUBJECT ON ITS MERITS.

An engineer, if called upon to make a transit plan for the City of New York, would hardly begin by considering the relative merits of different methods of construction for rapid transit railways, but would rather seek, by studying the nature of the want to be supplied, to ascertain how many and what extent of roads are necessary to meet this want. This much accomplished, he might locate the roads on the ground, and estimate their cost and operating expenses, under the assumption of constructing them by different methods; for example, as elevated ways, both high and low, and as tunnels near the surface, and tunnels deep in the bowels of the earth, or by a combination of these methods—the extent of routes, number of tracks, carrying capacity and speed being in each case the same. Of two practicable methods of construction, whose operating expenses are nearly identical, he probably would choose the cheaper; or, in the case of two methods, of which one costs more to construct, but is cheaper to operate than the other, he, doubtless, would be governed in his choice by computations showing whether the excess of operating expenses in one system over those of the other is more or less than the interest on the saving effected in construction, if the more cheaply built road of the two be chosen. It all seems quite simple, except this one point: How is he to determine, before beginning his survey, the number of roads required? Let us see.
